THIEU REFLECTS . . . President Nguyen Van Thieu is shown at Saigon news conference Saturday. He indicated that a large number of U.S. troops could be withdrawn from Vietnam in 1970 beyond the 60,000 already ordered redeployed this year. He said, however, that before more U.S. troops can leave the United States must meet the South Vietnamese armed forces requirements for "material, funds and a reasonable time for training and leadership." LAIRD SAYS—

Won't Enter Sub Contest

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said Saturday the United States, trailing in numbers, has decided for now not to challenge the Soviet Union ship-for-ship in new submarine construction.

He left open the possibility this could change, depending on the outcome of a high-level review of military needs being conducted by the Nixon administration.

In a speech prepared for ceremonies launching the new atomic submarine Trepang, Laird said the Soviets currently possess more than twice as many underwater craft as this country.

But he suggested that subs the United States is putting to sea are better from a technical standpoint.

"We compete by being ahead in our submarine weaponry, and I for one intend to see that it stays that way," Laird said.

The defense chief said the Soviets have over 350 submarines, most of which can operate world-wide.

"More than 250 of these are attack submarines with at least 20 nuclear powered, and growing steadily," Laird said.

"Another 60 submarines, half of which are nuclear powered, are capable of firing the 400 mile surface-to-surface cruise missile.

"In addition, the Soviets have some 45 ballistic missile submarines with at least 15 of these nuclear powered. All of these submarines have been built since World War II."

By contrast, Laird said, the United States has 144 submarines, 61 of them diesel and 83 nuclear driven, of which 41 fire the nuclear-tipped Polaris missiles.

Nixon Binding Future To Settlement of War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon appears to be binding the Republicans future to a settlement of the war in Vietnam — or a major stride in that direction — within the next 13 months.

That is the impact of the 1970 timetable for peace the President has suggested in rebuttal to rising criticism of his Vietnam policy.

For, in little more than 13 months, Americans will go to the polls to elect 34 senators and a new House of Representatives.

And if the GOP is unable to win Senate control next year, the odds increase that Nixon, throughout his presidency, will face Democratic majorities in Congress.

The reason: simple arithmetic.

In 1970, Democrats put 25 Senate seats up for election. Republicans only nine. A net gain of seven seats would give the GOP effective control of the Senate.

In the succeeding elections, which will shape the Senate through 1976, Republicans will have no such advantage.

Draft Reform Plan Examination Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services committee, in a sudden shift of position, will open hearings Tuesday on President Nixon's proposal for basic reform of the draft law.

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., who had previously shown no interest in speedy action on Nixon's request, announced the hearings in a brief statement Saturday without elaboration. Previously he had talked of hearings later this autumn.

Rivers' action is a victory for Nixon and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, who have been pressing for draft reform since May, when Nixon first sent his proposal to Congress.

In urging draft reform the administration has cited reduced manpower needs and the desire to remove inequities. But it obviously hopes also that changes will help quiet college antiwar protests.

Rivers said the hearings by a special subcommittee will be on a bill that would repeal a provision in existing law that prohibits the President from putting a lottery-type draft system into effect by executive order.

The prohibition was written into the 1967 act after Rivers' committee rejected a lottery system proposed by former President Lyndon B. Johnson on the basis of a study by a panel of experts.

The Armed Services Committee set up a panel of its own which recommended a five-year extension of the present system with only minor changes, and that was what Congress enacted.

If the provision is repealed Nixon plans to switch to a plan similar to the one proposed by Johnson. Its chief purpose is to limit draft eligibility to 19-year-olds, who would be selected at random in a lottery-like draw.

At present, draft boards take the oldest eligible men first from a pool of 19-to-25-year-olds.

EQUIPMENT, FUNDS, MATERIAL REQUESTED

Thieu Agreeable to Withdrawals

VUNG TAU, Vietnam (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu indicated Saturday he would go along with more American troop withdrawals next year but said pullout of all U.S. forces still is "years and years" away.

"Replacement of troops is not a one-year problem, it's a problem of years and years," the South Vietnamese leader said. "Certainly we are not so far improved that we can replace all your heavy artillery, electronic equipment, your powerful aviation, your powerful Navy."

"But I do think it is very reasonable to replace the bulk of your infantry if you provide us enough equipment, funds and material for strengthening and modernizing Vietnamese troops at the present scale, the same rate, this same speed."

Thieu said that, if "President Nixon tells me very plainly that he has very heavy pressure from U.S. opinion and has to replace more troops, I would say: 'All right, all right, Mr. Nixon, you can withdraw. Give me a number . . . and if you help me adequately, all right—you have your pressure to take care of too'."

Thieu did not say how many American troops he thought could be withdrawn next year. Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said last week 150,000 to 200,000 U.S. troops could be pulled out of the war by the end of 1970. The withdrawals ordered by President Nixon of 60,000 troops by mid-December will cut the authorized ceiling of American forces in Vietnam to 484,000.

Thieu made his remarks at a news conference in the Vung Tau seaside resort 40 miles southeast of Saigon. He came here to address village officials attending a government training school.

Elsewhere, there were these developments:

—The U.S. Command reported that American battlefield deaths so far this year totaled 8,185—a 33 per cent decrease from a corresponding 38-week period in 1968. This is an average of 215 deaths a week. Last year 12,214 Americans were killed during that period, or an average of 321 deaths a week.

—Military spokesmen said the graves of another 250 Hue civilians, massacred during the 1968 Tet offensive, were found a week ago in foothills south of the former imperial capital. Many victims had crushed skulls and others had been shot. Last spring 850 civilian bodies were found in two other mass graves. There are 1,000 more Hue civilians unaccounted for.

—B-52 bombers kept up round-the-clock raids on North Vietnamese bases along the Cambodian border, dropping up to 1,200 tons of explosives on supply and staging areas and infiltration routes. Ground action was light.

In his news conference Thieu said he would ask Nixon before the end of the year for a specific figure on proposed U.S. troop reductions for 1970.

He reiterated his stand that further withdrawals should be based primarily on progress at the Paris peace talks and a slowdown in enemy activity on the battlefield. He said improvement of the South Vietnamese also would be a factor.

Hearings On Treaties Scheduled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate reappraisal of U.S. world commitments enters a new phase Tuesday when a Foreign Relations subcommittee opens hearings on agreements under eight treaties to defend 42 countries.

The subcommittee headed by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., is beginning its closed sessions with the countries of Southeast Asia, excluding Vietnam. It is to start with the Philippines and go on next month to Laos, where Symington said recently "we have been at war" for years.

Eventually, the subcommittee will cover most parts of the globe as it looks into agreements, and their implications, such as the North Atlantic Treaty, the Southeast Asia Treaty, the Inter-American Treaty and mutual defense pacts with Australia, New Zealand, Korea, Japan and Nationalist China.

"It is hoped that this review will result in constructive recommendations concerning the involvement of United States armed forces abroad, the impact of United States overseas commitments, and the relationship between foreign policy commitments and the military capacity to honor them," Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in announcing creation of the subcommittee last February.

He detailed commitments including economic aid to 73 countries, military aid to 48, some $3.5 billion in the annual cost of maintaining abroad some 32 per cent of all U.S. military forces.

Symington said the subcommittee is not interested merely in cutting back U.S. commitments.

But the Missouri senator has made clear on a number of occasions he thinks the United States is overcommitted abroad and facing possible economic disaster at home.

Kiesinger, Brandt Race Rated Tossup

BONN, Germany (AP) — Kurt Georg Kiesinger and Willy Brandt, the chief contenders for the West German chancellorship in today's federal election, withdrew to their home districts Saturday as the vote-getting campaign ended in high gear.

Either man is given a chance to win and head West Germany's next government.

Kiesinger, who leads the Christian Democratic party, is chancellor in the present government coalition of Christian Democrats and Social Democrats. Brandt, who is foreign minister and deputy chancellor, heads the Social Democratic party.

Kiesinger spent the day in his home district in Baden-Wuerttemberg, in southwestern Germany. Brandt went to his native town of Luebeck in the north. Both men will return to Bonn today to vote and await the voters' verdict.

The campaign ended at a grueling pace as both parties tried to turn to their advantage a wave of speculation on a post-election increase in the value of the mark.

The influx of speculators' money led Kiesinger to order the closing of the country's foreign exchange markets last Wednesday night. He and Finance Minister Franz Josef Strauss, who heads the Bavarian wing of Kiesinger's party, claimed Social Democratic campaign statements calling for a mark revaluation were responsible for the speculation.

The Social Democrats, who favored revaluation in the past, said Kiesinger's refusal to go along was the basic cause for the speculation. On Friday, both parties tried to put speculators off by issuing statements that neither favored quick revaluation.

The pollsters agree that neither major party will get the simple majority in the 496-seat Bundestag — parliament — required to rule alone. This means they will have to seek a coalition partner — either each other or the Free Democrats.

CERNIK SURVIVES

Czechs Stage Deep Purge of Officials

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's ruling communist party swallowed its 1968 statements condemning the Soviet invasion and reshuffled the federal government Saturday in the first stage of a deep purge of party and state officials left over from the Alexander Dubcek reform era.

The party Central Committee ended shortly before dawn a two-day session of probing into the past. Several hours later Premier Oldrich Cernik's federal Cabinet resigned in response to party orders. Cernik himself survived the purge and was asked by President Ludvik Svoboda to form a new cabinet, his third since April 1968.

Informed sources said the party instructed Cernik to replace at least four of the 17 former ministers and several of the seven undersecretaries.

In addition to voting a sweeping ouster of government and party officials at its pre-dawn session, the Central Committee repudiated August 1968 party resolutions that had criticized the entrance of Warsaw Pact troops and had praised the historic popular resistance.

Full details were withheld until today, but Prague radio commentators said the Central Committee had laid the blame for the invasion on the alleged errors of the liberal 1968 regime headed by then party chief Dubcek.

Dubcek, replaced as party leader by Gustav Husak last April but still popular with the public as a champion of more freedom, apparently lost his place on the 11-member party Presidium but remained on the Central Committee, which has about 180 members.

Parliamentary leader Josef Smrkovsky was thought to be among about 15 communists purged from or forced to resign from the Central Committee.

Removal of Dubcek and Smrkovsky as president and vice president of the federal Parliament became just a matter of time. This will leave President Svoboda and Premier Cernik as the two lone members of the popular "Big Four" of 1968 in high office.

Resignation of the government, a major event in a non-communist country, caused little outward excitement.

Williams To Defend Six Berets

SAIGON (AP) — Edward Bennett Williams, the famed Washington criminal lawyer, is due in Saigon today to take charge of the defense of Col. Robert B. Rheault, charged with five other Green Beret officers in the slaying of a suspected Vietnamese double agent.

Word of Williams' impending arrival followed by several hours the Army's release of detailed charges against the Special Forces officers.

The Army documents identified Capt. Robert F. Marasco, 27, of Bloomfield, N.J., as the trigger man in the June 20 shooting of the Vietnamese agent, Thai Khac Chuyen.

In messages to his wife and parents in New Jersey, Marasco said the charges "do not constitute the truth."

Marasco rose through the ranks from private to captain in about three years and went to Vietnam in 1968. Twice he extended his tour of duty over his wife's objections "because he doesn't believe the job has been finished over here," said his military attorney, Capt. Thomas Young.

Marasco, winner of three Bronze stars, the Gallantry Cross and the Combat Air Medal, faces a court-martial Oct. 20 with two fellow Green Beret captains, Budge E. Williams, 27, Athens, Ga., and Leland J. Brunley, 27, Duncan, Okla.

Defense lawyers may press for a delay of the trial, but the verdict is expected to be a factor in whether Rheault, 43, Vineyard Haven, Mass., former commander of all Green Berets in Vietnam, and Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., 29, Jefferson, S.C., and David E. Crew, 33, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, face a subsequent court-martial. Army sources have said the charges against Rheault, Middleton and Crew may be dropped if the captains are acquitted.

All six officers are charged with murder and conspiracy, although Rheault, Crew and Middleton had no part in the actual slaying, according to the Army documents released Saturday.

Charges have been held in abeyance for two other Green Berets, CWO2 Edward M. Boyle of New York and Sgt. 1.C. Alvin L. Smith Jr., Naples, Fla. The Army has declared them immune from prosecution in order to compel them to testify. If they refuse, they face five-year jail terms.

NIXON TO TELL NEW POLICY

THURMONT, Md., (AP) — President Nixon will announce "a new policy for the Americas" in a major address in Washington on Oct. 31, the White House reported Saturday.

The report of Nixon's plans was relayed to newsmen by J. Bruce Whelan, a press aide, who said Nixon would appear at that time before the Inter-American Press Association.

The announcement came after Nixon had conferred for two hours at his Camp David retreat near here with New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Whelan said the policy statement will include "many of the points" of a report Rockefeller submitted to Nixon following four fact-finding trips to Latin America. He said Rockefeller's report will be made public some time after Oct. 31.

Popular Front Stirs Imagination of Palestinians, Other Arabs

New York Times News Service

BEIRUT — The fastest-growing Palestinian guerrilla organization now is the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine. The sensational exploits ascribed to it—hijacking aircraft, throwing bombs in European capitals, blasting an American oil pipeline, using women and children as combatants, all in addition to guerrilla operations in Israel, have stirred the imagination of Palestinians and of other Arabs as well.

APART FROM that, the organization insists on Palestinianism and modernism and opposition to all Arab governments.

Although the Popular Front has suffered a series of defections, its main group, founded by George Habbash, an American-trained Palestinian physician from Lydda, has recently won new popularity with its revolutionary commando style.

There are reports, unverifiable but persistent, that major donors are switching their funds to it from Al Fatah. Certainly volunteers are so numerous among youngsters imbued with romantic patriotism that the organization can afford to be selective. For its external operations it needs few people—a few hundred at the outside. Its commandos, operating mainly from bases in Jordan, probably number 1,500 to 2,000. But it claims far larger numbers among Palestinians in occupied territory.

A SPOKESMAN here for the main group who insists on anonymity explained the methods and psychology of his organization as fundamentally a campaign by Palestinians to be taken seriously by the world. "Our children and our women are taking part in operations," he said, "because we want the world to ask: 'Who are these children? Why do they do this? Why should a boy of 13 throw a grenade at an embassy? What kind of women are these who hijack airplanes?'" "We want the world to know that the whole Palestinian community, women and children as well as men, are imbued with revolutionary fervor. And we want it to know that they are modern men, women and children. We want to break the stereotype of the Hollywood stock-character Arab, the idea of the bedouin with a knife in his teeth."

ANOTHER special feature of the Popular Front is its anti-American character. It claimed responsibility in May for blowing up Tapline, the pipeline that carried petroleum of the Arabian-American Oil Company from Saudi Arabia to the Mediterranean, and it has vowed since the pipeline was repaired to do it again.

Its argument is embodied in its slogan, "The U.S. is Israel and Israel is the U.S." A poster depicts the American-owned pipeline as a serpent in the Arab world with a terrorist trying to destroy it before it destroys the Arabs. The Americans, the Popular Front maintains, use profits from Arab oil to strengthen Israel. The Popular Front grew out of the Arab Nationalist Movement founded by Dr. Habbash in 1951 and banned all over the Arab world because it advocates not only expunging Israel but overthrowing the existing Arab governments, including those that call themselves revolutionary.

THE RENEGADE among the terrorist groups, the Popular Front refuses to join the other groups in the Palestine Liberation Organization, headed by Yasser Arafat. Before the June, 1967 war, Habbash opposed commando style warfare, but after it he combined three small commando groups to form the Popular Front. Factionalism ensued because intellectuals sought to dominate men of action, who insisted on independence, and because the intellectuals could not agree among themselves.

THREE BREAKAWAY groups have tried to preempt the name of the original organization. One, composed of Marxist-Leninist militants, is called the Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

La Crescent Kiddie Parade Winners Told

LA CRESCENT, Minn. (Special) — Between 600 and 700 kids marched in the Apple Festival kiddie parade Saturday morning. The grand prize winner, a float labeled "We'd Rather Dip," also will be in the grand festival parade today at 1 p.m.

The 1½-hour parade will be led by the La Crescent Lancers High School Band and will include many visiting high school bands and drum and bugle corps plus the new queen and attendants, all the 16 candidates, visiting royalty floats and marching units.

There were seven kiddie parade categories and in all but the pre-school walking, there were between 35 and 60 entries. In several of the categories, there were as many as 20 children marching in one entry.

The grand prize winner received a trophy donated by Gittens-Leidel American Legion Post 595. Floyd Hillstrom, festival chairman, and Robert Boehm, kiddie parade chairman, presented the trophy to tiny Michelle Immenschuh. Other children riding on the large float using the Chip 'N Dip theme were Jo, Jana, Jill and Jim Immenschuh and Richard Engelhart.

After the parade the kids were all winners as they were treated to pop and two carnival rides by the festival.

Other festival events were the talent show Thursday presented to a capacity audience in the La Crescent High School gym and the Lancer-Caledonia football game in which the Lancers received their first defeat of the season. The 1969 queen candidates were introduced during the Thursday show and at special half-time ceremonies at the football game. A teen dance was held Saturday night.

Kiddie parade winners first through honorable mention in that order: Group 1, pre-school through kindergarten — Melanie French and Jeanette Pittman; Donald Jackson, Flossie Jones and Susan Hepler. Group 2, first grade and older, one child walking — Sandy Newburg, Kris Kvan, Liz Ammentorp, Chuck Relsdorf and Becky Howe.

Group 3, groups of two or three children walking — Brent Welch and Jon Good, Stephanie, Shelly and Todd Babcock; Karl Elmholt and Nancy Merrill; Keith and Lee Ann Marglen, Todd and Brad Hunter and Tim Ebnert.

Group 4, groups of four or more — Collette Boswell, John McDonald, Jay Twite, Dan Wolsen, Shelly McNeilus, Brad Welsbrod, Marsha and Connie Boswell, Sara, Jim and Tom Utz; Joan Karen and David Dikrager, John and Nancy Dahl, Dawn and Boyd Thompson and Cindy Nusslein; Karen, Jim and Paul Rodvig and Lori Swendimenz; Cathy, Lee Ann, Mike and Leslie Fischer; Lee Vix, Brenda, Bill and Mike Lynch.

Group 5, small floats — Nancy Vonderheide, Allan and Loren Burmeister; Susan Boettcher, Mark and Sharon Hunter; Jeff and Jenny Clothier; Kevin, Karl and Lennie Greenwood, and Kris and Tom Boehm and Billy Buelow.

Group 6, large groups with floats — Pam and Lisa Schumacher, Julie and Ellen, Amrudi and Peggy Schmidt; Ann and Mary McDonald, Joan, Jill, Jane, John and Greg Herlitka, Barbara and Teresa, Sandra and Sheila Finley, Rita McCauley, Jill Hoffman, Sue and Debbie Zerohi; Terry, Greg, Paul and Glen Brady and Jane and Patty Ness; Laurie and Lynn Lenord, Mike Kulak, Brad Dunlap, Lynda, Lucy and Billy Synder, Lisa Taylor, Lisa, Jeff and Kurt Angel, Mark and Nancy Fitzgerald, David and Cheryl LePage, Ann and Craig Bendish, Shelly, Paula and Jay Gruenich.

Group 7, bicycles and tricycles — Mark Onseger; Michelle Ledewig and Margaret Brewster; Richard Foster and Wade Mueller; Bruce Bauer, and Jennie Francis.

Grand prize winner — Jo, Jill, Jana and Michelle Immenschuh and Richard Engelhart.

Cotter Plans Homecoming

A week of homecoming events at Cotter High School will begin Monday noon with the introduction of queen candidates during a pep rally at the Cotter physical education building.

The senior class Friday nominated five girls, one of whom will be elected queen in voting by the student body at a hootenanny to be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the physical education building.

Announcement of the results of the balloting will be made at a pep rally and queen coronation program Friday at 7 p.m.

During the week each of the four classes at Cotter will be building floats for the homecoming parade through the downtown district Saturday at 11 a.m.

Homecoming week will be climaxed by the Cotter-De La Salle football game at 2 p.m. Saturday and the homecoming dance in the Cotter activity room Saturday at 8 p.m.

Among the other events scheduled for homecoming week are a pie-eating contest in which representatives of each class will participate Tuesday at 6 p.m. and a faculty-student flag football game Wednesday at 6 p.m. at Gabrych Park.

Apple Festival Queen Named

LA CRESCENT, Minn. (Special) — The new Apple Festival and Minnesota State Apple Queen is Nancy Reihl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reihl. Her mother, the former Donna Lintelman, was the first Apple Festival Queen in 1948. Nancy is sponsored by the J & R Beauty Shop.

She is a slim, brown-eyed brunette who is a member of the high school concert band, German Club, National Honor Society and Luther League. She enjoys sewing, reading and cooking. She plans to go on to college and become an elementary teacher.

First runnerup is Susan Harlos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Harlos. She is a petite, blue-eyed young miss with light brown hair. She is a cheerleader, member of the National Honor Society, German Club, choir and M.Y.F. She also plans to attend college. Her sponsor is the La Crescent State Bank.

Second runnerup is Sue Czechowicz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Czechowicz. She has brown eyes and dark brown hair. She would like to attend business college or technical school. La Crescent Furniture Mart is her sponsor.

The Miss Congeniality award went to Vicki Dissmore, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Dissmore. She is on the Lance staff and a member of the Spanish, French and Latin clubs. She has brown eyes and brown hair and plans to become a Spanish teacher after college. She was selected as most congenial by the 16 candidates.

PROTESTERS, TOO ... In the La Crescent kiddie parade, Jeff and Jennie Clothier are protesting those who are against a swimming pool, toward which the festival board contributes heavily.

PARENTS WELCOMED ... Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crilly, La Grange, Ill., whose daughter, Donna, is a student at the College of Saint Teresa, were welcomed to the Teresian campus Saturday by Sister M. Joyce Rowland, right, college president, at the opening of a two-day annual Parents Weekend program. It was expected that more than 850 from 157 different towns and cities in 10 states would be guests on the campus this weekend for events that included the formal welcome by Sister Joyce and two musical programs Saturday. Police Recover One of Three Stolen Autos

One of three cars reported stolen Friday had been recovered by Winona police the same evening.

A car owned by Roy Buswell, 1862 W. 5th St., taken in the forenoon, was found about 11:10 p.m. Friday near 668 Washington St. It had been taken from the Winona Tool Co. parking lot, 1403 W. Broadway.

Mrs. Thaddeus Czaplewski, 316 W. Bellevue St., reported her 1960 model car missing from in front of her home. Police received the report Friday noon.

Reported stolen from near the Fiberite Corp. plant, 514 W. 4th St., sometime Friday night was a 1961 car owned by LeRoy Beeman, 877 W. 5th St.

Nystrom Motors Inc., 165 W. 2nd St., reported theft of four heavy chrome wheel covers from a car in its lot. The missing articles, valued at $80, were reported Saturday morning.

Man of the Year Honor to Vetsch

LA CRESCENT, Minn. (Special) — Two of the most coveted honors in La Crescent are presented at the annual banquet, which was held Saturday night. They are the Apple Festival queen and the Man of the Year.

Man of the Year award for 1969 was given to Clarence Vetsch. In presenting the award, Floyd Hillstrom, Apple Festival board chairman, cited Vetsch for his continued efforts toward the community's welfare. He commended Vetsch for the many years he has served with the volunteer fire department, the last few as chief and the years he has been a member of the La Crescent Civil Defense and Auxiliary Police, which he helped organize. He has been instrumental in arranging first aid classes in La Crescent and the area and is a certified first aid instructor. Vetsch, as fire chief, has constantly striven to better the department by having regular drills and attending area and state fire schools.

AT WINONA STATE

Winona Girl, Mazeppa Boy Reign Over Frosh

The holder of the Mazeppa, Minn., High School track record for the quarter-mile run and a spring graduate of Winona Senior High School who was active in speech and drama activities Saturday night were crowned king and queen of Freshman Week at Winona State College.

Introduced at coronation ceremonies during a dance at Kryzsko Commons marking the end of a week of orientation for new students, Dave Lemmerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lemmerman, Mazeppa, and Lynn Deutschman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Deutschman, 1252 E. Winorest Dr., were selected from an original field of 80 candidates nominated by their fellow freshmen earlier in the week.

The 80 king and queen candidates represented the 40 teams into which the more than 900 freshmen were divided for orientation activities.

Friday ballots were cast by the entire freshman class to narrow the field to 10, from which a coronation committee composed of orientation week chairmen Sue Critchfield, Winona, and Kit Grier, Eden Prairie, Minn., and last year's Freshman Week royalty made the final selection.

The 10 finalists were introduced at Saturday afternoon's Winona State - Michigan Tech football game at Maxwell Field.

The other eight finalists were Roxann Immerfall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack A. Immerfall, 716 Edgewood Rd.; Patrick Kennedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alois Kennedy Jr., St. Paul; Sue Rocheford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rocheford, Minneapolis; Sharon Jacobson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Jacobson, Grand Meadow.

Minneapolis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Chamberlain, Anoka, Minn.; Maureen Hanscom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hanscom, Faribault, Minn.; Mike Styba, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lambert Styba, 1911 W. 5th St., and John Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Reed, 516 W. 5th St.

Miss Deutschman is a speech major with a minor in English.

At Winona Senior High School she was treasurer of her senior class, a member of the Spanish Club and participated in a number of stage productions and in speech activities.

Lemmerman is a mathematics major whose minor will be biology. At Mazeppa High School he was student council president, a member of the National Honor Society, a homecoming royalty candidate and a Boys' State alternate.

HOUSTON ARC MEET

The Houston County Association for Retarded Children, Inc., will meet Thursday at 8:15 p.m. at the Camp Winnebago dining lodge. Surrounding counties are invited to attend. A report will be given by the Camp Winnebago treasure, Mrs. Marlene Hartley. Mr. Victor Bohlin, La Crosse, will give a slide presentation of the camp activities of the '69 summer session.

IT SHOULD BE A GREAT DAY

Sunshine and slightly warmer weather are on the docket for today for Winona and vicinity.

After a clear, cool Saturday night the high today should climb to the high 60s or even the low 70s.

Monday's outlook is for temperatures near normal and a chance of a few widely scattered showers.

Experiments With Salt to Continue

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Highway Department said Thursday experiments to determine effects on cars of rust-inhibiting salt used for de-icing roads will continue this winter.

A department spokesman said normal snow amounts this winter should provide reasonable tests and results would then be analyzed in the spring.

Nine new cars are being used in the $117,000 project conducted by the American Public Works Association.

Airline Firm Ready to Start Flights

LA CROSSE, Wis. — Aviation Board members here have been told that Mississippi Valley Aircraft Co. Inc., will begin regular daily flights Oct. 26 between Chicago and the Twin Cities, if North Central Airlines drops service to Winona. The suspension of service still is subject to final approval by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

C. Norman Elsy, head of Flight Service Inc., West Chicago, and James Koos, formerly chief pilot for the defunct Gateway Aviation Co., appeared before the board. Elsy said Mississippi Valley Aircraft, a Minnesota corporation, will be headquartered in Winona. The firm's maintenance and operations activities will be centered at La Crosse airport, Elsy said.

Four flights a day — two each way — are scheduled each week Monday through Friday, Elsy said. There will be three flights each Sunday but none on Saturday.

Operations will begin with a DeHavilland Twin Otter plane, Elsy told the board. Addition of more planes is hoped for within a year, he said.

The board voted to permit alteration of the terminal building south entrance to give Mississippi Valley counter and baggage space.

Jack Lord: The TV Star

By EARL WILSON

HONOLULU — We New York visitors all had orchid leis around our necks over our Aloha shirts and were trying to think Hawaiian, Waikiki, Diamond Head . . . and everything but pol. But sitting next to me was Jack Lord, star of the CBS TV show "Hawaii Five-O," sorry he had to get away from this special dinner at The Willows because he had to be up at 6 o'clock . . . and he was trying to think Brooklyn and Broadway.

"Did you know I was a hell of a Cadillac salesman at 57th & Broadway about 1956 and sold Frank Costello three Cadillacs in one day?" he asked me. "I was making $18,000 a year as a salesman and I went to this dame here"—his wife, Marie deNarde, a former fashion designer, next to him—"and told her I wanted to go into acting. She said 'Go.'"

"And my income dropped to $1,000 a year."

He was about 26 but he'd loved Cadillacs — and Dusenbergs — and "as a salesman I had studied people's shoes and clothing."

"This fellow walked in, in a vicuna coat. I said, 'Can I show you something?' He grunted."

"ON THE floor were four 75s with the partitions, $3,500 a piece. I had an instinct — either to talk or shut up. I decided to shut up. He said 'O.K., these three.' He took my car and he left."

"Later three guys walked in with brown paper bags and counted out $5, 10s, 20s and 50s till it was about $26,000. That was my first and last contact with Frank Costello. Maybe he gave the cars away to friends. I know he had a great vicuna."

On the same floor he met Gary Cooper. "I was sitting in the back room waiting my turn. Rocky Cooper's step-father, a veteran salesman, said, 'Jack, Gary Cooper's on the first floor. I told him about you and your interest in studying acting.' So with great fear he introduced me to Coop, who was such a shy guy, he didn't know what to say."

"I knew of his interest in painting, and I asked him if he'd like to visit some galleries. He said, 'Do you like cars, Jack? Did you ever have a Dusenberg?' I told him I'd gone to Plattsburg just to look at one."

After Jack had gone into acting, he found himself in Hollywood. "My dressing room was next to Coop's. His long legs were stretched on the table. I said, 'Mr. Cooper, do you remember me?' He said, 'Yeah, you're the guy who liked Dusenbergs.'"

He made movies with Cooper including "Man of the West" — and "The Court Martial of Billy Mitchell" — and later he gave me his big black hat. "I'll have it for the rest of my life. When Coop died, I wrote to Rocky and tried to buy his saddle, to give the money to any charity in the world, but she wanted to give it to the Cowboy Hall of Fame in Oklahoma City, which she did."

"YES," he remembered. "I used to take Coop to McSorley's to drink the ale and eat the onions and hard-boiled eggs and rat cheese."

Lord — a graduate of John Adams High in Brooklyn and a former football star at NYU — wants most to paint and hopes to devote his life to that after TV. There's nothing ideal about this wish since his paintings have been accepted by major galleries. His real name is John Joseph Ryan.

"I took the name Lord because I wanted a short name and it had an L in it. Didn't you know L is supposed to be necessary in your name if you're to be a success?"

Peter O'Toole, recording songs from "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," arrived at the London studio with a throat spray — filled with brandy . . . CBS ran ads in west coast paper for Leslie Uggams' pooch Tigie, which disappeared from the studio . . . El Morocco boss Joe Norban is giving a party in the club's plush Champagne Room — for the cafe's very popular hatched girl, Eileen McKenna . . . Dick Schaap is working on a TV special adapted from his book, "The Year the Melt Last Place."

Nick Federico, maitre d' at Jilly's, brought an unusual gift to his parents in London, Ohio, marking their 60th ann'y.: he brought from N.Y., in a trailer, a donkey like one they remembered as children back in Italy . . . Secret Stuff: A once-famous actress is living with a prominent actor's son — who's the same age as the actress' daughter . . . Beverly Hills will be honored at the Ziegfeld Club's Charity Ball Nov. 14 at the Pierre . . . The lion's roar in Barbra Streisand's zoo scene (in Paramount's "On a Clear Day") was dubbed in — from a Leo the Lion sound track rented from MGM.

Joey Bishop wrote the liner notes for the first comedy album by his protegee, Lou Alexander . . . Astrology's big now, and astrologer Carroll Righter'll tour 20 cities to plug his 12-album series . . . Jo Anne Worley's new tune, "We Do It," was written by her boy friend Roger Perry. TODAY'S WORST PUN: Fannie Flagg figures her boy friend must be a seafood fancier: "Every time I mention marriage he claims up."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A man grumbled about his Las Vegas losses: "I have more money invested there than Howard Hughes."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "A statesman is a man who meets every problem with an open mouth." — Adlai Stevenson. EARL'S PEARLS: An elderly balding man told hairdresser John DeConey, "Don't cut off any hair — just sort of move around what I already have."

Tom Jones' book, "Household Hints For Grandfathers," has this advice: "Avoid swearing in front of the grandchildren. If unable to refrain, speak only those words they already use."

That's earl, brother.

British Week In Japan

TOKYO (AP) — British week in Japan was in full swing today with Princess Margaret visiting British displays in department stores and jam-packed London double-decker buses crawling through Tokyo traffic.

At the stores, the princess looked over special exhibits on British history and culture.

At one store, two animated models of British palace guards continually snapped to attention and saluted as she and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, passed. Everywhere, store clerks either stood at attention or bowed deeply when the princess appeared.

How's Your Health Losing Those Extra Pounds

Not only is overweight a health hazard, but there's the mirror to face and last year's suit or dress to fit into. Wouldn't it be nice if we could wish the pounds away and, presto! they would be gone? Unfortunately, it's not that easy. It takes time and patience to lose those extra pounds.

People give a variety of excuses for being overweight, but the main cause for overweight, says the Minnesota State Medical Association, is too much food and too little exercise. When you eat more than your body needs, the excess is stored as superfluous fat.

IF YOU ARE overweight, you can reduce by following a plan that adds up to better health and better looks and you do not have to starve yourself nor do push-ups and knee bends every day.

Know your best weight; it is the weight at which you look and feel your best. It depends upon your framework, muscular development and height.

See your physician and with his help, try to discover why you eat what you do. This is a big step toward making plans for a change. Learn what foods are low in calories, high in nutritive value.

SET A GOAL for yourself but find a weight reducing plan that helps you lose in slow and easy stages.

Eat three simple nutritious meals a day. To some people the word "diet" is synonymous with rabbit food, bits of lettuce and carrots. That is an outdated notion. You may be able to eat many of the foods you are accustomed to eating but in smaller portions and perhaps prepared differently. Your physician will help you plan your diet.

Plan to be more active. Moderate exercise will help your body use up its superfluous fat, but to be successful and safe, a program of exercise should be approved by your physician.

STEER CLEAR of reducing drugs and avoid blitz diets and so-called wonder foods that promise rapid results. Men known as "fat doctors" do a multimillion dollar business selling diet pills. Taken in excess, or in dangerous combinations, they can have severe effects or even be fatal. If you want to lose weight, see your family physician. He will help you find the healthy way to weigh less.

Immunization Clinics at Rushford Set

RUSHFORD, Minn. (Special) The first of three immunization clinics for protection against smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough will be at the Rushford High School gym Wednesday beginning at 9 a.m.

The second and third clinics are scheduled Oct. 29 and Nov. 26. At the second clinic the Mantoux test for tuberculosis will be available to all students.

Oral polio immunization will be offered at the first and third clinics.

Payment will be collected on the day of the clinics—50 cents for each immunization and $1 for polio vaccine. Each student must present a request form signed by parent or guardian.

Parents of pre-school children should bring them to the clinic before 9:30 a.m. Forms will be provided at registration.

The clinics are being conducted through the cooperation of local physicians, Minnesota Department of Health, and the public health nursing service.

Members of the Town and Country Federated Club have volunteered to assist with all school clinics this year.

GOLDSWORTHY 40TH HARMONY, Minn. (Special) —Mr. and Mrs. Hall Goldsworthy, Harmony, will be guests of honor today from 2 to 5 p.m. at the State Line Church Social Rooms for their 40th wedding anniversary.

Bolivia Cancels Petroleum Code

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — In its first official act, Bolivia's new military junta canceled a law under which a U.S.-owned oil company has been operating.

Gen. Alfredo Ovando Candia, who seized power Friday from President Adolfo Siles Salinas, met with his new cabinet for three hours and then announced the annulment of the nation's petroleum code. The code granted Bolivian Gulf Oil Co. ownership of oil resources and set up a plan of profit-sharing with the state.

Ovando said the legislation was drafted by a New York law firm and was prejudicial to Bolivian interests and "a restriction on the income the state should receive from profits and royalties."

He said the future of the company, a subsidiary of Gulf Oil Corp., had not been decided. He did not rule out the possibility of nationalizing the firm's properties, but said "those are details that will be studied later on."

Under the petroleum code, 33.5 per cent of Bolivian Gulf's profits and 11 per cent of its wellhead production went to the government. Company spokesmen said Gulf Oil invested about $140 million in Bolivian oil production from 1957 to 1968.

Ovando said in a message to the peasants that his government would "make more profound the Bolivian land reform" of 1953. And he issued a statement pledging to secure national sovereignty over the sources of production, improve the already nationalized mining industry, promote heavy industry, establish a nationalistic economic policy, and protect workers' rights.

Ovando, 52, commander in chief of Bolivia's armed forces and the front-runner in a presidential campaign that was just getting under way, seized power from Siles while the president was in Santa Cruz for a celebra-

Siles later took off from Santa Cruz in a small plane, presumably to go into exile in Chile.

Siles, 44, was elevated from the vice presidency five months ago when Rene Barrientos was killed in a helicopter crash. Ovando had helped put Barrientos in power and said in May that he would personally lead the overthrow of Siles if the president "abandoned the Bolivian revolution."

After the coup, Ovando quickly installed a cabinet dominated by young military men, disident young leftists from the Christian Democrat and National Revolutionary parties, and independents.

The new cabinet appointed Gen. David La Fuente as acting foreign minister pending the return of Foreign Minister Gustavo Medeiros from the U.N. session in New York.

Many Nursing Homes Suffer Chronic Doctor Deficiency

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Many nursing homes patients haven't seen a doctor in months — some not for years. Instead, telephone medicine is a fact of life. This is the fourth of five articles.)

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's nursing homes suffer a chronic deficiency in doctors. For the sick and dying, the average amount of doctor's care may be only a few minutes a month.

Of all a doctor's patients at office and hospital, the one in the nursing home is usually the last he sees.

And to a nursing home, the telephone becomes a more important medical instrument than the stethoscope.

In state after state across the nation, an Associated Press investigation has found nurses meet emergencies by telephoning doctors who prescribe drugs without having seen their patients for weeks or months.

"Telephone medicine is a fact of life in nursing homes," said one state's top inspector.

"We'll even do it with some narcotics," said another state nursing supervisor in New Jersey. "You know how hard it is to get a doctor at 3 o'clock in the morning."

The blame for neglect falls more on America's doctors than the nursing homes. Many doctors, already hard pressed to keep up their hospital cases, don't find the time to visit nursing home patients with any regularity. Other doctors admit frankly they feel they can do more for the patients who have a chance at life than the aged and the dying.

An Illinois nursing home operator said, "I was shocked the first time I asked one doctor, 'Why don't you come more often?' and he said, 'To tell the truth, it depresses the hell out of me.'"

Both the government and the medical profession now back the goal of a visit to nursing home patients by a doctor a minimum of once a month.

But in Topeka, Kans., a comprehensive official study of the area's nursing homes last year showed fully one-fourth of all the patients had not been seen by a doctor in at least six months.

In one large Topeka home, the total was three-fourths without a doctor's visit in half a year.

In another government-financed study of more than 100 homes throughout Minnesota, researchers computed the average amount of doctor's care per patient at less than 2½ minutes a week.

A physician who manages a top-rated nonprofit nursing home in St. Paul, Minn., pointed to one of his patients and said, "that woman—her doctor hasn't seen her in five years."

With federal programs now paying $1.6 billion a year to finance most of the nursing home care in the nation through Medicaid and Medicare, a crack-down on the books. But it has yet to reach the bedside.

A sleeper proposal in new standards adopted this summer for Medicaid, the huge program of health care for the poor, requires a minimum of one doctor's visit each month.

But spot checks of actual medical records showed the requirement is not being enforced widely yet.

Frank Frantz, a federal official who helped draw up the new Medicaid regulations, said, "The lack of a doctor is at the root of a lot of the problems in nursing homes. But I don't think the 30-day requirement will solve them."

Frantz said, "It's a question of how the doctor uses the nursing home. I think it's a difference of whether a physician puts a person or where he practices medicine."

In nursing homes, most medical treatment is practiced by nurses or low-paid aides.

A nurse, confronted with a crisis, telephones the patient's doctor, describes symptoms, and gets a prescription.

States usually require doctors to sign their telephone orders afterwards, but are lax on how soon they must do it. Arizona for instance, instructs a doctor to sign the records on his next trip—but requires he visit the nursing home only once a year.

In Minnesota, nursing homes mail the doctors a form to sign, and the patient may remain unseen by the physician for weeks.

Minnesota does require that, unless a doctor spells out a specific period for a prescription, the drugs should be cut off after seven days. But enforcement is slipshod.

In one Minnesota home a chloral hydrate prescription had run for six years without any specific instruction.

The case embarrassed the city's inspector, who serves on the board of directors of the same church-owned nursing home in what she said "may be a conflict of interest."

The inspector told the practical nurse on duty, "You don't order a drug forever, you know."

"That's what we've been

24 Democrats in Congress Plan to Aid War Protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two dozen Democrats in Congress are preparing to ally themselves with students in escalating the kind of Vietnam policy dissent which has drawn President Nixon's rebuke.

Twelve senators and 12 House members have agreed in general terms to support the plans of students for an Oct. 15 boycott of classes to protest the war.

The congressional dissenters agreed Friday that on Oct. 8, one week before the student protest, they will propose a resolution seeking U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam.

One participant said the resolution would not set a flat deadline, but would advocate a systematic pullout.

Sens. Frank Church of Idaho and George S. McGovern of South Dakota, and Reps. John Brademas of Indiana and Morris K. Udall of Arizona are to draft the proposals.

An effort also is planned to get as many senators as possible onto speaking platforms Oct. 15. One senator said that would be designed to cut attendance to the point where the Senate couldn't do business that day.

Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma, the Democratic national chairman, arranged the Friday conference where the plans were drawn.

Meanwhile, Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., was said to be conferring with colleagues on the possibility of a withdrawal resolution, timed to coincide with the Oct. 15 observance.

Hatfield and Harris both were reported seeking bipartisan participation.

Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., already has proposed legislation to put a Dec. 1, 1970, deadline on U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam.

President Nixon told a news conference Friday that such cutoff proposals undercut and destroy the U.S. negotiating position.

With backing for his policy at home, Nixon said, "the enemy will have some incentive to negotiate, recognizing that . . . it is not going to win its objective by waiting us out . . ."

Nixon said by following this course, "we will end this war before the end of 1970."

Harris called that statement "the same old thing we've heard before."

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, new Republican leader, praised the Nixon statement—even though the rebuke seemed aimed at least partly in his direction.

Scott has suggested half the U.S. forces be withdrawn by the end of 1970.

But the GOP leader issued a statement saying "I have not engaged in any precise demands . . . I am solidly behind the President's policy of realism in the search for a just and lasting peace."

Elgin-Millville School Budget Hearing Set

ELGIN, Minn. (Special) — The Elgin-Millville school board will conduct a public hearing on the 1969-70 school budget Oct. 6, at 8:30 p.m. The hearing is required by a new state law affecting school districts with more than a 5 percent increase in budgets.

Preliminary figures indicate a 20 percent increase in dollars. The current mill levy is 139.86 agricultural property and 164.88 on nonagricultural property.

A corresponding increase in the mill rate will provide the required funds to offset the increasing expenses of school operations in the enlarged district.

Salaries, increased transportation and debt services account for the major portion of the increase.

Marine Corps Has Problem: Haircuts

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — The Marine Corps wrestled today with a heady problem: Will its young blacks be allowed to have bushier haircuts?

Willie Lee Morrow, a successful Negro barber, says it's not only possible but can be done within the tight, traditional restrictions of the Marine Corps.

Camp Pendleton officials spent $140 to bring Morrow and four male models from San Diego, where he operates a hair-styling parlor for Negroes, for a three-hour demonstration before Marine photographers. The pictures, before and after, now are being studied.

"I showed it can be done," Morrow said Thursday. "I showed them four different Afro haircuts, and did them in 10 to 12 minutes each."

Marines tried headgear of all types on moon-moulded hair of the models. Morrow, 29, says they fit, and the hair looked neat.

The pictures won't be made public, a Camp Pendleton spokesman said.

Gen. Leonard F. Chapman Jr. earlier this month granted black Marines permission to wear limited Afro haircuts. The move by the Marine Corps commandant was aimed at cooling racial friction.

No sideburns or "eccentric cuts" are permitted. Many young Negroes in the Marines as elsewhere have turned to African-style haircuts in expression of cultural heritage.

Nixon Reported Ready to Close Swimming Pool

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, who favors salt water swimming, is reported discussing closing his indoor swimming pool to make more working room for White House reporters.

Nixon has made almost no use of the White House pool which was used regularly by Presidents Lyndon B. Johnson, John F. Kennedy and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The President recently took some reporters on a tour of the proposed new location for the press quarters. As for the current press room, Nixon said his dogs have better quarters.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler acknowledged Thursday that Nixon was discussing conversion of the indoor pool but no final plans have been made.

Scientists May Be Able To Predict Earthquakes

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Scientists, using instruments deep underground, are trying to learn whether there is a link between earthquakes and the rapid buildup of tension in rock.

They say they have noted a quick increase in rock tension several days before tremors or earth slippages in the Salt Lake Valley. Then the rock compresses and the tension buildup starts all over again.

Drs. Kenneth Cook of the University of Utah and Maurice W. Major of the Colorado School of Mines began measuring the tension buildup last October, using instruments designed by Major.

The equipment was installed in the records vault of the Mormon Church about 20 miles southeast of Salt Lake City and 2,000 feet underground in the Wasatch Mountains.

Cook says a tremor which measured 2.3 on the Richter scale Jan. 23 came at the peak of the lunar tide and after a rapid buildup of rock tension.

"Our observation on Jan. 23 may have hit the jackpot," he said. "But on the other hand it may have been a mere coincidence. We need more data to prove or disprove the tidal theory."

He noted that the next tremor, which registered 2.2 on the Richter scale, happened when the tide was not strong. Again, however, there had been a rapid buildup of rock tension several days before the tremor.

Cook says the causes of the buildup in rock tension are not known and that much more study is needed.

"Our results so far offer the hope — but not the promise — for earthquake prediction in the future," Cook said. "We may have to operate our instruments for several years to gather sufficient data."

Cook and Major are measuring slippage of the Wasatch fault, about 1½ miles west of the records vault. They have attached measuring devices to long quartz rods, which they say can detect movement down to one-one-hundred-thousandth of an inch on a rod 100-feet long.

The scientists say the underground records chamber is ideal because of the constant temperature control and because of the unique location deep in granite. The methods they are using have been used before in other places, but not in a location as well suited to such tests.

Cook says valleys in Utah and in Africa both were formed by the earth's crust pulling apart. He says huge portions of the earth are gradually cracking apart.

Cook predicts that if this process continues, millions of years from now a great body of water — like the Red Sea — will separate the United States through Utah and Arizona.

A proposal for more foreign aid

The proposal of the research and policy committee of the Committee for Economic Development to sharply increase public and private aid to low-income countries flies in the face of increasing disenchantment with what most people call foreign aid.

With good reason, the committee avoids the term, for, reflecting public opinion, the congressional commitments under the Foreign Assistance Act are at a lower level than at any time since the inception of the act in 1962. The President's proposals for fiscal 1970 continue the downward trend. In 1968 U.S. private and public sources gave about $5.7 billion.

The committee, comprised chiefly of executives of major corporations, finds this situation lamentable.

In terms of percentage of national income allocated for these purposes, it says that the U.S. ranked 13th among 16 advanced nations. Unless the trend is reversed, says the committee, "the U.S. will have lost an historic opportunity to achieve what could well be a decisive advance in the economic and social modernization of the emerging nations."

It supports an earlier proposal that advanced countries give at least 1 percent of their national incomes to poorer countries and that later this be raised to 1 percent of the gross national product. In 1968 the lower scale would have meant giving $7.1 billion; the higher scale, $8.6 billion.

THE CED has other recommendations, including one that the U.S. gradually shift its giving to international institutions, such as the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, and that when the U.S. balance of payments improves the economic assistance no longer should be tied to purchase of U.S. goods and services. The committee also holds that interest rates on loans should be flexible and lower.

Running contrary to some long-held views of foreign aid, the CED report says that growth and rising income in low-income countries "will not necessarily win friends and allies or insure peace and stability in less-developed countries. On the contrary real progress involves a break with the past and may induce highly destabilizing political and social change." They're under way anyhow, the report notes; the real aim is for "an earlier evolution of responsible and independent states."

It also holds that "the humanitarian objective . . . that the rich should help the acutely deprived . . . should appeal to the conscience of civilized men."

THE DIFFICULTIES in gaining acceptance of these proposals is best presented by excerpting from the comments and dissents of some of the committee members:

"My opinion is that inadequate consideration has been given in the statement to the impact of the proposals on the internal problems of the United States."

"I believe that the justification of foreign assistance should be kept clearly on the basis of U.S. long-range interest."

"No recognition has been taken of the proportionately more expensive military defense programs that the U.S. has undertaken throughout the free world."

"I share . . . concern about a sharp increase in foreign aid at this time when inflationary forces in our economy continue to be strong."

"Population control is indispensable today if all the good effects of aid are not to be destroyed."

"A great deal of hard work is required and the population (of low-income countries) needs to be indoctrinated to believe in the indispensability of dedicated and devoted workers instead of talented and educated talkers."—A.B.

Vietnam economy

During the next several months the administration hopes to see the South Vietnamese forces assume a greater responsibility for the protection of the cities and countryside. This ambition, long cherished by successive Presidents, may be unrealistic. The South Vietnamese seem always to have been wanting, at least by our standards, and there is no incontrovertible evidence that a transformation has occurred. The best stimulant to an improved military stature could conceivably be a reduction in our armed forces.

IN VIEW of this impending greater reliance on the South Vietnamese military, it is disconcerting to be reminded that the economy of that country remains volatile, and what substantial military force can long be supported with a fragile economic base.

An indicator of the inflationary spiral is the retail price index; it has risen from 100 in January 1965 to 484.

More unsettling is the intelligence that many of the rich Vietnamese, a growing class, have a short-term approach to the economy. A lawyer told a Washington Post correspondent recently, "Nobody I have spoken to has ever talked about doing business in peacetime. They are all concentrating on making as much money as they can right now."

Moreover, the money earned from get-rich schemes — not excluding graft, bars and black marketeering — often is transferred into hard currency and out of the country. Not too infrequently the new rich go along; it's estimated that at least 20,000 Vietnamese are now living in France.

The richest people are probably Chinese, a circumstance resented by Vietnamese and further jeopardizing the already precarious economic structure, which to a large extent is a creation of the American military presence and subject to stress with the troop withdrawal.

NCT ALL the Vietnamese rich are indicted; many of them are realizing the necessity for investing in industry. But there is a rottenness indicated in the Vietnamese economy which may soon be tested for strength, thus compounding the predictability of the Vietnamese future in our absence. — A.B.

"Many times parents try to threaten their children with the law and paint the lawman as a 'boogymen.' This is the wrong thing to do. Lawmen are to protect, not terrorize. Children should be taught to respect the law and lawmen for what they are. Not out of terror. Children should know that if they are in trouble or need help, the law will help them." The great sleeping test

An editorial in Minneapolis Star

Try as we may to stay abreast of and understand the campus scene, there are times, we confess, when we are left behind. A case in point is the experiment in sleeping arrangements at the University of Minnesota freshman camp at Green Lake.

Students were given a choice of sleeping accommodations and, according to reports, a large majority opted to sleep either in a dormitory where the rooms were alternated between all boys and all girls or in cabins with members of the other sex. All arrangements, we are assured, were properly supervised, and, at any rate, the circumstances were hardly propitious for what in a less confusing age was called hanky-panky.

The idea behind the program is variously described as providing an example of a decision the students would have to live through, as providing a basis for seeing how people arrive at decisions, as a means of looking at the premises underlying our values, as a demonstration that the university considers incoming freshmen to be responsible, as an effort to get students interested in their relationships to each other, to society and to the world, and as an attempt to humanize the program.

It may, of course, have done some or all of those things, although we suspect it would be difficult to find out. But what it did prove is that there are, despite unfortunate experiences in the past, still some people on the university staff who don't quite comprehend that the university has troubles enough without looking for new ones and that legislators, whatever else they may be, are politicians unlikely to condone experiments in coeducation sleeping at taxpayer expense.

WINONA SUNDAY NEWS A page of opinions and ideas

Passage to manhood

The key to much of the violence in our society seems to lie with the young. Youth accounts for an ever-increasing percentage of crime against property and persons, going well beyond their steadily increasing percentage of the population.

About 75 percent of the persons arrested for robbery are under 25. The thrust of much of the violence in the streets, in the ghettos, and on the campuses is provided by young people.

THE PEAK years for crimes of violence are from 18 to 20, followed by the 21 to 24 age group. These are the years of the most drastic change in the life of the individual — the change from boyhood to manhood. It is a paradox of our time that just when we are learning to master drastic changes in every department of life, the familiar, immemorial change from boyhood to manhood has become difficult and explosive.

We have no puberty rites which would routinize and ease the boy's passage to manhood. In the past, boys used to prove their manhood by going to work — by doing a man's work and getting a man's pay. But right now large numbers of juveniles, both in the poor and the well-off segments of the population, are kept, by unemployment or prolonged schooling, from having a share in the world's work. They remain suspended between boyhood and manhood, lacking the sense of usefulness and worth which comes from a useful well-paying job. Crime in the streets, and obscene insolence on the campuses are in some degree sick forms of self-assertion and of proving one's manhood.

It should be obvious that we cannot begin to cure the sickness of our time unless we devise means for smoothing the passage from boyhood to manhood. It is imperative that every boy and girl on reaching the age of 17 should be given an opportunity, or even be compelled, to spend three years earning a living at top wages. They should have a right to a job. There is an enormous backlog of work to be done both inside and outside the cities. Federal, state, and city governments, and also business and labor will have to pool their resources to supply the jobs and the necessary training.

THE routinization of the passage from boyhood to manhood will contribute to the solution of many of our pressing problems. I cannot think of any other undertaking that will dovetail so many of our difficulties into an opportunity for healthy, orderly growth.

An afterthought: I remember reading somewhere that in South Africa among certain tribes work in the mines has replaced the ritual related to puberty. It used to be that a young man had to kill a lion or an enemy tribesman to prove he was a man. Today, many young natives do not feel they have arrived until they put in a stint in the mines.

Are drugs a plague?

William F. Buckley

The Democratic candidate for mayor of New York has proposed that everyone brought in by the police charged with having committed a crime be required to submit to urinalysis in order to establish whether he is on drugs. If so, Mr. Proccaccino proposes, said defendant would be detained without bail, and sent off to a prison-sanatorium of sorts for up to 36 months of treatment.

THE IDEA is so sound, I thought of it myself four years ago and, for my pains, was accused by the then Democratic candidate, and by John Lindsay, and by Sen. Javits, of advocating "concentration camps." Subsequent to that particular campaign, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller adopted a similar program for New York state, whose survival however is in jeopardy because the American Civil Liberties Union says you can't force people who are sick to submit to treatment.

The ACLU has allies among right-theoreticians, among the libertarians. I had maintained in a position paper that drug addiction was a) a plague, and b) contagious.

"Do you see what's wrong with that argument?" Prof. Milton Friedman, the great free market economist, smiled at me one day. "Don't you see, what's to keep me from saying, 'Conservatism is a contagious disease.' There wasn't time, in the fleeting encounter, for extended analysis, so that characteristically one attempts quick-shot arguments by analogy. I asked Prof. Friedman, 'Is it your position that, assuming the community decided to license the whores, that it would be wrong to insist that they check in at regular intervals for health certificates?'"

Yes, he thought that would be wrong — "After all, if the customer contracts venereal disease, the prostitute having warranted that she was clean, he has available a tort action against her." Presumably, libertarian theory assumes that encounters between a gentleman and a lady of pleasure will be consummated only after attorneys representing both parties have negotiated a warranty concerning the lady's wholesomeness — physical if not moral — which warranty becomes Exhibit A at the civil trial of John Doe versus Suzy Wong. Simple?

MUCH TOO much so. It is dangerous to metaphorize in the realm of rights and duties. But it is a fact that addicts contaminate other addicts. Not in the Typhoid Mary sense of brushing up against totally innocent people. But addicts feel a compulsion to share their elated misery with others, whom they can into taking that first snort of heroin, and educated estimates are that a single addict will contaminate (if one may use the word) an average of six people before he is cured (infrequent) or dies (frequent). The result is to wreck not only the lives of the individual addicts but to crush a community.

Mr. Claude Brown wrote about it in his book "Manchild in the Promised Land." "Heroin had just about taken over Harlem. It seemed to be a kind of plague. Everytime I went uptown, somebody else was hooked, somebody else was strung out. People talked about them as if they were dead. You'd ask about an old friend, and they'd say, 'Oh well, he's strung out.' It wasn't just a comment or an answer to a question. It was a eulogy for someone. He was just dead, through."

And the general effect: "Drugs . . . had taken over the neighborhood, the entire community . . . people were more afraid than they'd ever been to go out of their houses with just one lock on the door . . . The junkies were committing almost all the crimes in Harlem."

I DO NOT believe that proper theory and practice exclude one another. The powers of the state are conceded in the matter of quarantine. It is rather an exertion of the imagination, than a travesty of the truth, to say that narcotics is a plague. Is it clinically establishable that those who become addicts do so of their own free will? Is there no relevant recourse to what we know of psychology?

These questions become urgent if, as Prof. Hardin Jones of the University of California has calculated addition is growing at the rate of .7 percent per month. A breath-catching figure which among other things requires that one draw the necessary distinctions between the drugs we meditate upon. Cong. Edward Koch's insistent argument for a national commission to study marijuana is surely unanswerable.

On Sept. 13 the National Council of Churches meeting in Indianapolis announced a sharp cutback in its 1970 budget because of a drop of nearly $2.5 million compared to its receipts of a year ago.

Dr. R. H. Edwin Espy, general secretary of the NCC, said, "Our overall fiscal situation poses some of the most critical problems which the council has confronted in this area during its history." He added that the situation was "in part a reflection of denominational difficulties," many of which have also recently reported shrinking incomes and resultant budget cuts.

Some church fiscal officers at the Indianapolis meeting stated that a greater proportion of religious contributions is being kept locally, rather than forwarded into national church programs.

What causes this?

MAYBE it's simple.

Maybe a growing number of parishioners are getting fed up with the reactions of the NCC and the high commands of the individual denominations. Not having the time or the interest to get themselves elected as delegates to church conclaves it is possible that a large spectrum of the silent faithful are replying in the only way they know how — with buttoned purses.

In April when James Forman, former head of the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee (the "non-violent" has recently been dropped), sprang the "Black Manifesto" on American churches, the first reaction was shocked disbelief.

Forman, who had previously called for an end of the capitalist system in America, demanded $500 million from American churches and synagogues in "reparations" for past cruelties of whites toward Negroes and the manifesto warned that church services would be disrupted and church property occupied until each denomination had met its quota.

Nor were Forman and his National Black Economic Development Conference slow to act. The Sunday Communion services at New York's Riverside Church were interrupted while Forman mounted the pulpit and insisted that the church sign over 60 percent of its investment income.

TWO DAYS later, in imitation of Martin Luther's 85 Theses, a Black Manifesto was posted on the door of the headquarters of the Lutheran Church of America, together with a demand for $50 million. Immediately thereafter, a delegation appeared at the Catholic archdiocesan chancery in New York wanting $200 million.

Shortly thereafter the painful rationalizing began.

The Catholic magazine, America, on May 24 carried an editorial that stated: "The Black Manifesto by its very violence and unreasonableness may force not only churches but the entire nation to come up with a better strategy for remedying national injustice."

In an article by Ronald Goetz in the June 18 Christian Century it was said:

"Black militants have one lever against the church which puts them in an ascendant moral position: They have on their side the Bible, the book to which white churches theoretically look with awe . . . The white church ought to see this challenge as a blessing. We have been challenged to sell our holdings and to speak to the impoverished by deeds."

Jenkin Lloyd Jones

On June 14, Louis Cassels, UPI religious writer, said the demands and invasion of churches "is causing a severe backlash among people whose voluntary contributions finance church programs."

In spite of its worries over its financial problems, the NCC at its Indianapolis meeting voted to divide $500,000 between the National Committee of Black Churchmen and an outfit called the Interreligious Community for Religious Organization. This latter group created the National Black Economic Development Conference out of which the Black Manifesto came.

In the meantime, Forman has upped the ante from $500 million to $3 billion. Early this month 26 jurisdictions of Episcopal churches refused to attend the church's general convention at South Bend, because Forman's group had been invited to appear.

THE theory by the editor of the magazine, America, that demands, however unreasonable, will prod the conscience of the American people may be a misreading of human psychology. Unreasonable demands are more likely to strengthen any latent inclination to do nothing at all.

On Sept. 7 when 45 members of something called the Black United Front took over a Lutheran church service in Arlington, Va., one angry parishioner said, "When they come in and say, 'We demand!' — well, this turns me off!"

A year from now the currently worried treasurers at the national headquarters of American churches may have a clearer idea of how far the turning-off will go.

Church, Communist World Come to New Understanding

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Still contenders for the mind and loyalty of millions, the Roman Catholic Church and the communist world have come to a new understanding in their continuing struggle. The communists have eased up on the church and a dialogue between "Kremlin and Vatican" has begun. But things are far from rosy for priest, prelate or the Catholic faithful behind the Iron Curtain.)

By PATRICK O'KEEFE
Associated Press Writer
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Harshness and hope: this is the split reality of Roman Catholic relations today with the Soviet Union and other communist countries in Eastern Europe.

Reports of a bishop dying in a Ukrainian prison and priests pushing wheelbarrows in an Albanian work camp point to the harshness.

A reunion of Czechoslovak bishops in Rome with Pope Paul VI for the funeral of Josef Cardinal Beran, a new Vatican dialogue with atheism and a truce in epithet hurling between Catholic and communist leaders point to the hope.

Long gone are the days of the full-scale feud between Pope Pius XII and Stalin, the days when the Pope excommunicated communists and Stalin scoffed: "How many divisions does the Pope have?" But much of Pius IX's 19th-century view of Marxism as "full of errors and sophisms" remains. Nor have doctrinaire communists taken to rebutting the Marxist version of religion as "the opiate of the people."

In a speech last year, Pope Paul said that Christians and communists can reason together, although their viewpoints are irreconcilable.

"The ideologies... are radically different," the pontiff said. "But the truth, when integrated and understood, is one; that is, discussion—dialogue—is possible."

The Catholic Church opened a wide ideological window on the atheistic—and communistic—world with the publication in October 1969 of a document urging Catholics everywhere to promote discussions with non-believers to achieve "a greater grasp of truth."

Many sectors of the communist world hailed the document, which formed the basis for the recently established Vatican Secretariat for Non-Believers.

The dialogue between church and communist states has had the effect of blunting the sharp edges of difference, and bringing a new spirit of compromise. Each side, however, has been acting in its own interests: the Church to secure greater freedom of religion and growth behind the Iron Curtain, the communists to attract the allegiance of the millions of Catholics in their countries.

Although, according to Vatican sources, a severe persecution is still under way in Albania and persecution of lesser degrees is in progress elsewhere in communist European lands, generally the Catholic Church is freer under communism than ever before.

Men study for the priesthood and are regularly ordained; hundreds of thousands flock to Mass and receive the sacraments. This is especially true in Hungary, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Still, the era of the underground priest passing out communion wafers hidden in cheese sandwiches on the farm or in the factory has not disappeared entirely. This goes on in parts of the Soviet Union, say Russian emigre priests, and, presumably, also in Albania, where conditions are so bad that the Vatican has gotten no more than sketchy reports on the plight of its priests.

Over-all, says the Rev. John Long, one Vatican specialist on communist affairs, "events just haven't developed far enough."

"We've always hoped the situation would settle to a point where the Church would be able to carry out its mission. We still haven't reached that point."

He said religious freedom varied from country to country. But apparently nowhere behind the Iron Curtain does it allow the Church anything like the scope of its preaching and ministerial work in Western countries.

Emigre priests in Rome say the liberalization of Church-State relations in Hungary and Czechoslovakia caused fears in the Kremlin that the fever for more religious freedom would sweep Russia too.

In March reports reached the West that the Most Rev. Basil Welyczkowskyj, a 65-year-old bishop of the Byzantine rite, had died in a Soviet prison at Leopoli, the Ukraine. Bishop Welyczkowskyj's work had been so secret his name did not appear in the Vatican's Annuario, a book supposed to list all Catholic bishops, as well as other data.

A knowledgeable Russian Church source in Rome says Bishop Welyczkowskyj was arrested in January by Soviet secret police because the Soviets were angered by the rebirth of Byzantine Catholicism in Czechoslovakia.

Communist fears of too strong a religious resurgence have produced an ebb and flow policy toward religious freedoms: a crackdown, followed by a slackening... then another crackdown.

Here is a country-by-country rundown, based on sources here in a position to know.

—THE SOVIET UNION. Ever since the reign of Pope John XXIII the Kremlin has been softening its stand on the Catholic Church. Pope John received Premier Nikita Khrushchev's daughter and son-in-law in 1963 to break the ice. In January 1967 Pope Paul received Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny to extend the breakthrough to the highest level.

Nonetheless, expansion of religious freedom for the tens of millions of Catholics in Russia has been slow. During and after World War II the Soviets seized and closed hundreds of churches in the Ukraine, Lithuania, Estonia and other heavily Catholic areas. In Siberia today, for example, not one Catholic church remains open for an estimated one million Catholics, according to a report issued by the rector of the Russian seminary in Rome.

The State has looked more kindly on the Russian Orthodox Church, which it controls, and has attempted to shuttle millions of Catholics into Orthodoxy.

—POLAND. Frostiness has marked the Polish government's relations with the Vatican for the last three years because of a letter of reconciliation sent by Polish bishops to their German counterparts. A slight thaw, however, developed last December when Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński, 67-year-old archbishop of Warsaw and longtime anti-communist campaigner, was allowed to travel to Rome to confer with Pope Paul.

Still, the Polish government has stood by its regulations on church inventories that put parish priests in a dilemma and has impeded the building of new churches.

—EAST GERMANY. Only 10 per cent of East Germany's 17 million people are Roman Catholics, with many of the rest practicing Protestantism. Because of their minority status the Catholics do not feel too much pressure from the government of Walter Ulbricht. The average Catholic may attend Mass and receive the sacraments. But the pressure on parents and the youth to embrace communism is relentless. An other subtle pressure is to grant no funds for church construction unless for renovation of a church also famous as a work of art. The government also is trying to gain the favor of "leftist" priests and to set up periodicals that pretend to speak for "the true church."

—ALBANIA. An anti-religious campaign in pro-Chinese Albania was under way in full force last year, Vatican sources say, and there's been no reason to believe it has slackened. The government has outlawed all churches, put priests and other Catholics into prison and forbidden parents to have their children baptized. There have been unconfirmed reports of priests being executed.

—HUNGARY. Last January the Vatican announced a major new accord with the Hungarian government. The accord, based on a 1964 Vatican-Hungarian agreement, provided for the Vatican appointment of two new archbishops, three bishops and five apostolic administrators. It did not touch the case of Jozsef Cardinal Mindszenty, who has lived in self-imposed exile in the American Embassy since the 1956 revolution was quashed.

Mindszenty has refused to leave his exile until the government drops a charge of high treason against him, which the government insists it never will do. Church-State relations have warmed, however, largely by circumventing the Mindszenty issue.

—CZECHOSLOVAKIA. Communist Party Chief Gustav Husak told a Czechoslovak television audience last year: "After 20 years of socialism we are too far from the 37th century to fight religious wars." Referendums have been held throughout the country to determine whether Roman Catholics forced into Orthodoxy by the old-guard regime of Anton Novotny would prefer to resume Catholicism. Where they have voted that they would, they have been allowed to.

On a visit to Rome last May for the funeral of Cardinal Beran, the Most Rev. Frantisek Tomasek, apostolic administrator of Prague, predicted the Husak regime was ready to open talks with the Vatican for the further expansion of religious freedom. —ROMANIA and BULGARIA. There has been no notable persecution of Catholicism in these two countries, whose populations are predominantly Orthodox. The Catholic Church's efforts in both countries have been directed at promoting good ecumenical relations with the Orthodox rather than at winning concessions from the government.

'NOT DISCOURAGED,' SAYS U.S. OFFICIAL

Rogers, Gromyko to Meet Again

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko are finding enough worthwhile in their Mideast talks to meet once more privately before they leave New York.

The explosive Middle East situation dominated their 3 1/2-hour dinner discussion Friday night. It was supposed to be their second and last meeting during the U.N.'s fall session.

But with more ground to cover on guidelines toward an Arab-Israeli settlement, plus other unfinished business, the two men agreed on a third meeting expected to be held Tuesday.

Rogers told newsmen "I'm not discouraged" by the Mideast discussion so far, but refused to say more than, "We hope that progress can be made."

The general U.S. tactic is to arrive at the broadest possible areas of agreement with the Soviets, promote more effective Big Four power assistance toward a settlement and encourage Arab-Israeli negotiations through U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring.

Rogers and Gromyko spent about half their time Friday night at the Soviet U.N. mission alone without aides or interpreters—Gromyko speaks good English—and part of their talk dealt generally with the "era of negotiations."

"Era of negotiations" is a term President Nixon used upon taking office to describe his approach on dealing with problems with the communist world. He distinguished this from the "confrontation" of Cold War days.

U.S. officials said Gromyko noted he had favored the "era of negotiation" idea in his speech to the United Nations, and that Rogers and Gromyko agreed their governments should pursue their negotiations in that spirit.

Both Vietnam and Communist China were also discussed by Rogers and Gromyko, the U.S. officials said. They gave no details on this.

Gromyko in addition pressed Rogers for freedom for Soviet vessels to sail into U.S. East Coast ports as they now do on the West Coast. American labor union opposition has prevented Russian commercial ships from docking in the East.

Something New For Those Who Love the Sea

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Some may mourn the passing of the giant sea liners with their tea time orchestras and the constitutional around the decks. But for the "in" set who can't live without the mod trappings of life, the QE2 can become a home-at-sea. Hugh Mulligan, who recently took off for England, traveled aboard England's latest ocean queen and reports on the experience in the following.)

By HUGH MULLIGAN.
ABOARD HMS QUEEN ELIZABETH 2 — For the white knuckle flyer who must go down to the sea again, there is something decidedly new on the North Atlantic run.

Instead of a string quartet sawing away in the salon, there is a rock 'n' roll singer blasting off on all amps in a discotheque called the "736 Club," forward on the boat deck.

Along with the cathedral hush of the first class library and the cool elegance of the card room, there is now a laundromat, an American-style coffee shop, an art gallery peddling $40,000 seascapes and a boutique pushing Mary Quant body stockings.

The Episcopal bishop in gaiters, en route to Scotland for the grouse season, still shows up on the boat deck aft for trap shooting, but when he takes a turn about the deck, he's apt to fill in with three go-go dancers of a splendor of American hippies.

Other things have changed since Bobby Shaftoe and Somerset Maugham went to sea.

The barriers have come down between first and tourist class, which are now called "deluxe" and "standard," and there is no more cabin class.

The barber has longer hair than the beautician, and so do most of his clients.

Th master, Capt. "Bill" Warwick, looks sally enough up there on the flying bridge in his brass buttons, binoculars and rakish beard, but his real world is a push button world of navy communications satellites and Italian computers and a tiller the size of your thumb.

While the radar is figuring out the sunniest course and plotting the ship's position within 100 feet of anywhere on the globe, the computer is busy running the engine room, predicting fresh water needs, forecasting the weather, counting how many lobsters are left in the lobster tank and adding up the bar bills.

This is the mod marine world of the Queen Elizabeth 2, or the QE2 as she is campily called, the controversial new flagship of the Cunard Lines.

A tasteful blend of Agatha Christie and the Beatles, the sleek 65,000-ton liner is trying to fill the wake of the Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mary, the Mauretania, the Aquitania and the other long vanished Cunarders as the "top ship of the top people" while at the same time establishing a reputation as the "in" ship of the "in" people.

Designed both for those who have it and those who are with it, the QE2, after a near disastrous start, has finally settled down to doing her own thing: Making lots and lots of money, most of it from American tourists. So far, she has had smooth fiscal sailing.

In her first summer on the North Atlantic run, she has carried an average 1,550 passengers and several times has crossed with all 978 rooms sold out. While 2,005 passengers is her theoretical capacity, with every bunk taken, the ship is considered full with upwards of 1800 on board.

Back in the dark days of proving trips and preview cruises, when she was sidestepping docks and running out of beer and burning out turbines, her owners confidently predicted that the $72,000,000 floating hotel would show a $400,000 profit each crossing if she ran at only half capacity.

By the time the QE2 converts to a one class ship and enters the highly competitive Caribbean cruise field on Nov. 14, she will have crossed the Atlantic 27 times since she set out on her maiden voyage to New York in a gale last May 2.

If her popularity holds up, and current bookings indicate it will, she will have gone a long way toward wiping out the $7 million that Cunard lost in cancelled crossings and harbor fees from her earlier misadventures.

As a cruise ship superbly fitted out for following the sun—what with four swimming pools, air conditioning throughout and stabilizers that diminish roll to an imperceptible three degrees in either direction—the QE2 already is generating considerable excitement. Her Christmas cruise is sold out and the others are running well ahead of expectations.

True to predictions, two-thirds of her passengers have been Americans.

While the economic indicators have been so far exceedingly favorable, it is still too early to turn in a completed esthetic report card on the QE2.

To Cunard chairman Sir Basil Smallpiece, "she is the finest ship in the world, the most superb example of the shipbuilders craft the world has yet seen."

Some older passengers, living off the memories of the old Maury and the old Mary (the Mauretania and the Queen Mary), dismiss the QE2 as a ship without class, decrying the fallen barriers that allow tourist class passengers to roam the ship at will.

They say she lacks the dignity of the Mary, the elegance of the mammoth Queen Elizabeth, the graceful line that characterized the four stately Aquitanias.

Some of them spend their days, in between canasta and bingo, hunting up favorite stewards and bartenders passed on to the crew from favorite old Cunard liners. Beyond the 12-mile limit, it's always amazing to contemplate the affection that the British aristocracy has for the serving classes. Equally heartening is the loyalty they demonstrate to British ships. One grand dame, in her 90's, spent the entire summer plying back and forth between Southampton and New York on the QE2.

Many silver haired matrons, however, particularly of American stock, salute the QE2 as a ship with lots of daylight. All the public rooms and all the restaurants are located high in the superstructure, not below the Plimsoll line, and her 6,000 square yards of deck space provide the largest sheltered open area on any passenger ship.

Some of her kinkier rooms, like the discotheque and the all night theater bar with its bright red grand piano, elicit criticism from the more traditional minded.

One called her architecture "early Odeon cinema."

But on the whole the QE2's interior design is done with taste and elegance, salty lit, beautifully carpeted, dramatically reducing enormous spaces to exquisite rooms, as in the two-deck-high Double Room, the largest public room afloat. Surely the Queens Room, with its white trellised ceiling and flame tweed upholstery, set off by the discreet opulence of its airy draperies, is one of the loveliest ship's lounges anywhere, even if the green bust of the Queen does appear to some people "to make her look slightly seasick."

The younger set, whom chief design coordinator Dennis Lennon mainly had in mind, as did the Cunard auditors, finds the QE2 a swinging ship, one that "doesn't die at midnight," even on the eastbound passages when clocks are advanced an hour a night. Mini-skirted disc jockeys Diana and Sue and a Cockney caterwauler who bills himself as "Russ Clevedon and the New Sound" have become as much a part of the QE2's daily routine as the whistle blasts for lifeboat drill and the shtetly ten-time melodies of Basil Stutely and his orchestra in the Queens Room.

Those who like neither or none can always retire to their rooms and select their own music or news from any of six radio channels piped in from the sound control room.

Winona High Goes on Parade

ROYALTY RIDES . . . Winona Senior High School's 1969 homecoming royalty made their first general public appearance in Friday afternoon's homecoming parade through the downtown business district. On one of the floats constructed by students, Queen Carol Deye, center, is flanked by her attendants, the other candidates nominated by the senior class in the all-school election. From the left are Vicki Kowalczyk, Nola Fuglestad, Jean Sawyer, Patti Gepner, Mari Merchlewitz and Gayle Skappel. The week's homecoming celebration ended Friday night with a football game and homecoming dance. (Bob's Portrait Studio)

TOP ENTRY . . . First-place winner in Friday's Senior High School homecoming parade float competition among 12 entries by students in first-hour classes was this one fashioned by English and speech department students with the theme "Scramble the Scarlets." The general homecoming theme this year was "Scratch the Scarlets" in reference to the Mankato High School Scarlets, Winona's homecoming football game opponent.

RUNNERUP . . . Placing second in the float judging was the social studies first-hour class entry, "Kick Them to the Moon," which featured a dummy representing a Mankato football player hanging from the crescent-shaped moon.

PLAY ON WORDS . . . The mathematics first-hour class developed its third-place float around the theme, "Mathacre Mankato," with a Winhawk stuffing a Mankato player into a computer.

Airline Owned By Blacks Has Rate Gimmick

DETROIT (AP) — For your weight in pennies, you can take a ride on Detroit's first black-owned and operated airline beginning today.

Aero Services, Inc., owned by James Edwards, a former Air Force pilot, offers sightseeing flights over the city. Tickets cost one cent a pound per person.

Edwards, 29, flew jet trainers and fighters for the Air Force but says he has been unable to get a job with a commercial airline since leaving the service six years ago.

He has worked as an insurance agent, a factory representative and in personnel work.

He organized 25 investors to create Aero Services. The firm owns two small planes and has four others available on a lease basis.

Aged to Pay More Under Medicare Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — An aged person covered by medicare who enters a hospital after Jan. 1 will have to pay the first $52 of his bill—an increase of $8.

The announcement Friday by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare came just a day after President Nixon asked Congress to increase Social Security benefits by 10 per cent beginning next April 1.

Instead of the present $44 of a hospital bill that must be paid by a medicare recipient for hospitalization up to 60 days, the patient will have to pay $52 under the increase in the deductible.

From 60 to 90 days, the patient's share will rise from $11 to $13 of daily costs, and over 90 days the patient will pay $26 per day instead of the current $22.

The President also predicted there would be a "substantial increase" in the current $4 per month which beneficiaries must pay for supplementary medical benefits—helping pay doctor, ambulance, out-patient and other medical costs. The new supplementary rate must be set by Dec. 31 to go into effect next July 1.

In a year, nearly six million of the 20 million medicare beneficiaries are admitted or readmitted to a hospital. Most are retired and would be eligible for the increased Social Security benefits proposed by Nixon.

The $52 deductible amount is aimed at making the medicare recipient responsible for expenses equivalent to the average cost of one day in the hospital, said Social Security Commissioner Robert M. Ball. The average medicare hospital stay now costs $700.

State Conciliator Says New Law on Arbitration Panel Good

ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota law requiring that contract disputes involving hospital workers must go to an arbitration panel is a good one and should be a model for other public employees, according to State Labor Conciliator Vern Buck.

"It's worked well for 22 years — that ought to prove something," said Buck in testimony before the House Labor Relations Committee Friday.

The law covering hospitals forbids strikes but it provides for an arbitration panel which may impose wage settlements both on workers and employers.

Buck said a special session of the legislature would be needed if a large group of public employees decided to strike, regardless of the no-strike law.

The present law says that any strikers cannot be rehired except at their old salary, and that they lose all seniority rights if they return after a strike.

"I am in hopes that sometime we can decide that public employees are no different," Buck told legislators.

He said he would not condone strikes by public employees but said they deserve legal machinery to end labor disputes, such as binding arbitration.

Rep. Arlen Erdahl, Blue Earth, the committee chairman, said he would consider all suggestions with an "open mind." Erdahl said there would be some merit in considering all public employees together, rather than maintaining the present separate bargaining law for teachers.

Spokesman for the two teacher organizations and the Minnesota School Boards Association also appeared before lawmakers as negotiations continued in eight school districts.

Henry B. Winkels, director of legislation for the Minnesota Federation of Teachers (MFT), blamed the legislature and school boards for not allowing teachers to actually negotiate. He said some school boards have taken a "dictatorial" attitude.

"Minnesota law is to blame for most of this unprecedented school controversy," Winkels said.

The MFT is a union affiliated with the AFL-CIO.

A. L. Gallop, spokesman for the rival Minnesota Education Association, said the "meet and confer" law has worked reasonably well but he agreed that "the last page is missing."

Gallop had no suggestions, but said a change is needed to bring teacher-school board disputes to an easier conclusion.

"I'd like to think that, despite the law's faults, both sides are learning something," Gallop said.

The fact that Minnesota has had no teacher strikes is a favorable sign, Gallop said.

W. A. Wettergren, executive secretary of the Minnesota School Boards Association, defended the action of school boards in setting teacher salaries even when teachers did not agree.

"The present law never contemplated... mutual settlement," Wettergren said.

He said salary and fringe benefit increases this year averaged 10.2 per cent statewide and 12.4 per cent in the five-county Twin Cities metropolitan area.

Present law requires that school boards "meet and confer" with teacher councils but does not require boards to bargain until an amicable settlement is reached.

Public employees other than teachers may use the services of the state labor conciliator, but teachers may not.

The state no-strike law has no provision for a school board, or other employer, to forgive employees who strike and rehire them at increased wages.

Because of this harsh provision, Buck said, any major strike would require the legislature to convene and relax the law in order to end the dispute.

Frank Frison, spokesman for the State Employees Union, supported Buck's proposal. Frison added:

"Certainly we will be very fortunate if we get through this biennium without a major work stoppage."

Erdahl chided Frison mildly, saying lawmakers considered the subject important without "the threat of a strike."

The House group will hold hearings on several labor matters during the interim, including possible joint sessions with a Senate committee.

HARMONY HOMECOMING ROYALTY... Jim Steinmetz and Pat Matson received their crowns as Harmony homecoming king and queen during ceremonies Friday evening. Other attendants: Neil Fishbaugh and Mary Elliot; second attendants Ralph Whalen and Joan Ryan; third, John Broadwater and Cindy Scraback; fourth, Richard Ryan and Ann Sikkink; fifth, Tom Hanlon and Danette Tammel. The junior queen was Kim Scraback, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Scraback, and the junior king was Lance Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Thomas. (Allen Tarras photo)

May Destroy Animals to Cut Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several thousand laboratory animals, including 380 monkeys used in cancer research, may be destroyed to meet federal spending cuts imposed this year.

The National Cancer Institute has ordered laboratories conducting the research for the government to kill the animals unless they can be transferred safely to other institutions unaffected by a $900,000 slice from the $16.9 million cancer virus program.

The animals can't be given away as pets or to zoos because all have been inoculated with viruses associated with some forms of cancer, particularly leukemia. Scientists don't know whether the viruses cause cancer or just happen to be associated with leukemia. That's what the research is about.

The institute is less concerned about the loss of some smaller animals—hamsters, guinea pigs, mice—because they are relatively short lived and easily replaced. The monkeys are much more important. They cost more to acquire and support, and being primates, are much more closely related to man.

The monkeys will be put out of the way at a rate of about 20 weekly. Autopsies will be performed on each animal to check on any signs of cancer development.

The institute is distressed about the loss of so many laboratory monkeys but is encouraged by the growth of its monkey "breeding colony" now up to 800 and still expanding through natural births in the captive population.

In the time it takes to dispose of the 380 virus inoculated animals, the government agency expects to welcome enough babies to reduce the net loss to around 100.

OPENING PHASE MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The initial phase of an ambitious Minneapolis Medical complex will start this fall with construction of a $4.5 million Children's Health Center.

Coronation Highlights Homecoming

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special) — Cheryl Walters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Walters, was crowned Lake City High School Homecoming Queen in ceremonies Thursday evening.

Randy Ahrens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ahrens, rural Lake City, was crowned King. The coronation program, consisting of musical selections by a male chorus and several skits by students and faculty members, kicked off the three-day Homecoming weekend in which the Tiger football team defeated the Kasson Komets Friday evening and which culminated in the Homecoming dance Saturday night.

Miss Walters was crowned by Ahrens after he was crowned by Janice O'Brien, 1968 Homecoming Queen. Bill Fuhrman provided the welcome and presented the new "royalty" to the audience.

Other candidates for the royal honors were Betty Wise, Judy Mickelson, Kris Martin, Carmen Lutjen, Jerry Thurmont, Glenn Dwellle, Dave Maland and Steve Weinrich.

Miss Walters is president of GRA and FTA, senior class secretary, editor of "The Torch," and a member of the honor study committee and National Honor Society.

Ahrens participates in football, basketball and baseball.

LANESBORO ROYALTY LEADS PARADE... Tom Peterson, king, and Carol Holman, queen, led the homecoming parade at Lanesboro Friday afternoon. Winning float in the parade was the 8th grade's "House to Victory"; the sophomore float, "We're in Site for a Victory," 2nd; the seniors "A Tale of Two Cities," 3rd. Winners of the window displays: Seniors, 1st; freshmen, 2nd; 7th grade, 3rd. (Mrs. Laird Adams photo)

Conservation Dept. Against Taconite Plan

ST. PAUL (AP) — A Minnesota Conservation Department official said Friday the state would not approve a permit to discharge taconite tailings into Lake Superior if the decision could be remade.

The director of the department's division of waters, soils and minerals, Eugene R. Gere, said, however, there is no evidence that Reserve Mining Co., is in violation of its 1947 agreement with the state on taconite tailings.

The firm dumps about 60,000 long tons of taconite waste daily into Superior from its Silver Bay, Minn., plant.

A week ago the Minnesota Conservation Department and National Sierra Club won a district court order directing Minnesota to show cause why a permit violations hearing should not be held.

Gere said, "From the data we have seen to date we cannot see that they are in violation."

The conservation official said if Reserve's discharge could be shown as harmful to the lake, the permit would be suspended.

Gere was making an appearance before the Minnesota House Land and Water Resources Committee.

Fats Domino Sued

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Fats Domino, pioneer rock and roll singer, has been sued for $19,040 for debts he is accused of accumulating at a Las Vegas casino.

Interstate Credit Service, Inc., said a $30,000 bill was run up at the California Club in 1963. The suit filed Friday said Domino, now appearing in Las Vegas, has paid only $10,960.

Girl Scouting Opens A World of Interests

This is Girl Scouting:

- An opportunity to practice representative government through the patrol system.
- A place to learn and show respect for our flag and our heritage.
- A service project through which a girl can fulfill her natural desire to be useful to others and to allow this usefulness to mature into active, responsible citizenship.
- An open world of interests and skills to be explored so that a girl may have a chance in our world of conformity and technological emphasis to develop as an individual.
- A social group where girl planning prevails rather than adult domination, so that a girl may become resourceful.
- An informal education to reinforce the more formal teachings of the school and church.
- An ethical code which may become a way of life and to which a girl can turn for practical help in her "relationships" problems.
- A refuge in nature to stir a girl's interest in all that surrounds her; to encourage her to stop and appreciate her world and to teach her good conservation practices.
- A time for fun and adventure.

GIRL SCOUTS of America is one of the 17 members of the Winona Community Chest whose general fund drive toward a goal of $177,531 will be held Oct. 6-25.

There are a total of 920 Girl Scouts in 44 Winona Girl Scout troops. The Senior Troop has 12 members from the 10th to 12th grades. There are six troops of Cadette Scouts made up of 7th, 8th and 9th graders. Junior Scouts are in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades and have a total of 19 troops. There are 19 troops of Brownies from the 2nd and 3rd grades. Winona Girl Scouts are part of the River Trails Girls Scout Council.

Senior Girl Scouts act as aides to the younger scouts. They assist at residence and day camps and do public relations work for the Girl Scouts. This summer Senior Scouts were assistants at local summer schools.

THE CADETTE program emphasizes social responsibility, active citizenship, emergency preparedness and includes work toward the Girl Scout Promise which is the highest award given to a Girl Scout. The Cadette program also includes work on merit badges. Junior Girl Scouts work toward merit badges in health, safety, citizenship and the arts, acquainting themselves with as much about the world as possible.

Brownies participate in activities designed to teach them to accept responsibility. They practice services and skills which attempt to help them learn to work together and become useful to others.

GIRL SCOUTS may attend Camp Wi-Gi-Sco-Ga, near Trempealeau, Wis. Two camp experiences are offered at this 750-acre camp, a day camp and a residence camp. The day camp sessions are five days in length for each camping group. The residence camp has 4 twelve-day sessions during the summer. The day camp was attended by 100 girls and the residence camp by 280 girls this year.

Winona Girl Scouts may also attend Edith Mayo Girl Scout Camp in Rochester, Minn. "Whispering Hills," a new camp site at Rushford, Minn., that was purchased with proceeds of Girls Scout cookie sales is under development and will be used for Troop and Day camping.

GIRL SCOUTS have two fund raising projects each year. The cookie sale in March and the calendar sale in November. Proceeds go directly to the girls for camps and equipment.

No girl is turned away from scouting due to financial reasons. Fees and dues are kept low so that any girl may participate. Adult volunteers bear much of the financial burden of Girl Scouting by incurring expenses for which they are not reimbursed. There were 237 volunteers working for the Winona Girl Scouts last year.

Two Legislative Leaders Opposed To Special Term

ST. PAUL (AP) — Two legislative leaders expressed opposition Friday to a special legislative session proposed by Rep. Clark MacGregor, D-Minn.

Sen. Stanley Holmquist, Grove City, and Rep. Aubrey Dirlam, Redwood Falls, the two majority leaders, both agreed with Gov. Harold LeVander that such a session is unnecessary.

MacGregor proposed a one-day session to ratify an amendment to the federal constitution changing the method of electing the president, provided the amendment gets through Congress. MacGregor sponsored the amendment.

LeVander has discouraged the idea of a special legislative session for any purpose.

Tiny Tim's Passport

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — While stomping through nightclub and television appearances, Tiny Tim told sheriff's deputies Friday, he somehow misplaced his passport.

The deputies took down the long-haired entertainer's real name—Herbert Kheury—and promised to notify the proper authorities.

I CAN DO NO LESS THAN PLEDGE MY "FAIR SHARE"

When you stop to think of it — nothing less than a "Fair Share" pledge to the Community Chest will come close to raising the $177,531 needed for this year's campaign. When you stop to think of it — the dollar or two contribution divided between 17 agencies just isn't adequate. When you stop to think of it — no one likes to see the ill, the aged, the needy, the mentally retarded or the children denied the help afforded by Community Chest agencies — so with that thought in mind, welcome the Community Chest volunteer with a "FAIR SHARE" pledge when he calls on you.

CLASSES BEGIN MONDAY

37 New Faculty Members at WSC

Appointment of 37 to the faculty of Winona State College, where fall quarter classes begin Monday morning, was announced today by Dr. Robert A. Dufresne, president.

The faculty at the beginning of this academic year numbers 237, including part-timers, compared with 216 a year ago.

Of last year's faculty 3 retired, 16 resigned and 14 are out leave.

The new faculty members, with brief sketches of their education and experience:

RAY K. AMUNDSON, assistant to the president, has a bachelor of science in education from the University of Maryland and a master of science in education from South Dakota State University with a major in guidance and counseling and a minor in administration. Lt. Col. (Ret.) Amundson has been professor of the Air ROTC program at South Dakota State University three years. He has a wife and two children.

MARY M. BARNETT, an instructor in library science, has a bachelor of science in education from Alverno College and a master of arts in library science from Rosary College. She has taught 21 years in elementary and high schools, has been a high school librarian for 12 years and has been supervisor of 30 elementary schools and three high schools in Rockford, Ill.

RICHARD BEHNKE, an assistant professor in physical education, has a bachelor of science from Winona State and a master of arts from Northern Michigan University. He has been a teacher and coach in Wisconsin high schools and since 1967 assistant professor of physical education at Wisconsin State University, Stevens Point. He is married and has three children.

AUDREY BERNDT, an instructor and assistant cataloger in library, has a bachelor of arts from Taylor University, Upland, Ind., and a master of arts from the University of Minnesota with a major in library science and minors in English and history. She has been assistant librarian in charge of cataloging at Taylor University six years and more recently at Wisconsin State University, Eau Claire.

GERALD CORDA, an assistant professor in business administration, has a bachelor of business education from White-water State College and a master of arts from the University of Iowa and has had additional work at the University of Iowa. He taught at Winona State from 1964-66.

MARVIN DAVIS, an assistant professor in audio visual, has a bachelor of science from Iowa State University, a master of science from the University of North Dakota, and has completed additional work at Iowa State University where he has been graduate assistant for the past year in the instructional resources center. He has a major in science and a minor in education. He is married and has two children.

EMILIO DE GRAZIA, an assistant professor in English, has a bachelor of arts from Albion College (Michigan) and a master of arts from Ohio State University with a major in American literature and a minor in Romanticism. He has been a teaching associate at Ohio State University for the past few years. He is married.

GLENN F. DUKES, an associate professor in industrial arts, has a bachelor of science, master of science and a doctor of philosophy from Iowa State University, Ames, with a major in industrial education. He has taught industrial arts in the public schools of Iowa and has been graduate assistant at Iowa State University. He is married and has two children.

LAVONNE FIERCK, an instructor in physical education, has a bachelor of science from St. Cloud State College and a master of science from Southern Illinois University with a major in physical education and a minor in recreation. She has been a graduate assistant for the past two years at Southern Illinois University.

DAVID FORSYTHE, an instructor and assistant registrar, has a bachelor of arts and master of arts from Winona State. He has been graduate assistant for the past year. He is married and has one child.

Youths Jailed For Robbery

FARGO, N.D. (AP)—Three Minnesota youths were being held in the Cass County jail Friday in connection with a $76 robbery at a Fargo service station earlier in the day.

A 20-year-old Barnesville, Minn., youth, Charles Gilbertson was charged with first degree robbery by Cass County authorities.

The other youths, ages 16 and 17, were being held without charge.

Girls 'Man' The Pumps at This Station

HARTFORD, Mich. (AP)—Teen-aged girls man the gas pumps and do small mechanical repairs while operating their own service station in this western Michigan town of 2,300.

"I think everybody's seen a girl attendant already," said 18-year-old Merry Newland. "But I've never heard of girls operating a service station."

Merry, her 19-year-old sister, Beverly, and their stepfather, 17-year-old Sue DeMorrow, run the station leased by their parents. Mr. and Mrs. Jack DeMorrow operate another station about a mile away.

When asked about the problems of girls running a service station, Merry said there have been no serious ones. However she said a former boyfriend broke up with her because he did not consider running a service station a ladylike occupation.

Four young members of the family help after school and on weekends, while two other girls and three young men work part-time after school.

But the burden of running the station falls upon the Newland girls because state law limits high school pupils under 18 to 18 hours of work per week.

The girls had six months training under their father before opening their own station.

Lake City Names Cub Scout Leaders

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special)—New leaders for Cub Scout Pack 73 are James Fitzpatrick, cubmaster; Kenneth Willers, assistant cubmaster and treasurer; Mrs. Graham Illingsworth, secretary; Larry Paulson, committee chairman, and Leon Rutz, awards chairman.

Den mothers are Mrs. Joe Hubbard, Mrs. William Anderson, Mrs. Larry Paulson and Mrs. William Powers.

First pack meeting will be Oct. 28 at 7:30 p.m. in St. Mary's Church basement. Twenty-four boys have registered in Pack 73.

Ask End to Labor Violence

CHICAGO (AP)—Contractors and union leaders appealed to white construction workers Friday night to end demonstrations over Labor Department hearings on alleged job discrimination and return to work.

A construction industry spokesman said the decision was reached in a closed-door meeting after a second day of sporadic clashes between white workers, other demonstrators and police in and near the downtown area.

At the same three-hour ses-

LEWISTON HEARING

LEWISTON, Minn. (Special)—A public hearing on the Lewiston School District budget will be held Oct. 6 at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Such hearings now are required by law if the budget exceeds last year's budget by 5 percent.

July 25. They handle grease jobs and oil changes, fix fan belts, and change tires themselves. More serious mechanical problems are sent to their father.

Four or five others operated the station before the girls took over. But the others found the station unprofitable despite its location at an Interstate 94 interchange between Kalamazoo and Benton Harbor. There are seven other stations in town.

Merry said the station is now in the black.

"A lot of the girls who work here have friends that buy gas," she said.

tion, the spokesman said, contractors' representatives also decided to attempt to arrange a weekend meeting with what he termed "responsible spokesmen" of the Negro community.

He said such a meeting would work toward settlement of the jobs dispute which simmered and flared most of the past summer and reached a climax with the government hearings this week.

Blacks, through the Coalition for United Community Action, charge they are discriminated against by contractors and the Chicago Building Trades Council in training and hiring Negroes in the construction industry.

Several clashes developed Friday, one in front of the U.S. Customs House, where the hearing is being held. It began when the Rev. Jesse Jackson, head of Operation Breadbasket, the job seeking arm of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, appeared to testify.

A construction worker's hard helmet was hurled at Jackson and seven off-duty Negro policemen who escorted him.

Nine workers were arrested and charged on counts ranging from disorderly conduct to resisting arrest.

The hearing, being conducted by Arthur Fletcher, assistant secretary of labor, and other Labor Department officials, is investigating charges of racial discrimination in hiring of workers on federally financed projects.

Colleges Key to Drug Control?

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Colleges and universities often are in better position to help out a young user of narcotics than law enforcement agencies, says Dr. Claude R. Sowle, president of Ohio University.

Counseling with the youthful "transitory" user of drugs is preferable to suspending or expelling him from an institution of higher learning, Sowle said, adding:

"You may save a person's life in the sense he won't have a police record or jail term to dog him the rest of his days."

Sowle, became head of the 23,000-student Ohio U two months ago. Some 17,600 are at the main campus in Athens and the rest at six branch schools.

The former dean of the University of Cincinnati Law College, who has helped to revise criminal codes in two states, left no doubt at Friday's news conference, however, that he knows how to be firm when the occasion calls for it.

He said repeated users of marijuana and other drugs, and the "pushers" who peddle it on campuses, deserve the discipline of the law.

Sowle believes that perhaps 50 per cent of the student body at Ohio University may have tried marijuana, but that most did so just to see what it was like or "to defy the establishment." And he added that students who resort to drugs usually do so in secret, at homes or abandoned farmhouses, rather than on campus.

The cigar-smoking university president also said he would be firm if any demonstrators disrupted classes or other university activities.

"I would not hesitate to take whatever steps are necessary to assure order," said Sowle, who added he'd rely on local, county or state agencies including the National Guard, if needed.

A former member of the Chicago Crime Commission, Sowle said he believes in the "team" approach to solve campus problems. Faculty, administration and students should all join to work out these matters, he added. He also let parents of students know by letter what was expected in the way of orderly conduct at the university.

In a jovial mood, Sowle said he regretted having to come to Minnesota to see his Ohio University Bobcats beat the Gophers in football today.

"I think a victory for our team is inevitable," said Sowle, who went further out on the limb with a predicted score of 28-6.

Three Ambassadors of Good Will Return From South America

INDEPENDENCE, Wis. — Hola from three young ambassadors of good will who spent the summer in South America. They came home again in time to re-enter Independence High School for their senior year.

Hola is Spanish for "Hi" or "Hello."
Paula Andre, 16, daughter of the William Andre, was in Ecuador; Kathleen Gallagher, 17-year-old daughter of the Kenneth Gallaghers was in Peru, and Kay Evenson, 17, daughter of the O. J. Evensons, in Argentina.

THEY WENT under the International Fellowship program, begun several years ago by a Buffalo, N.Y., couple. The program is doubling in popularity every year, a total of 700 going to South America, Europe, Japan, etc., this year.

International Fellowship, introduced to Independence High by John Lucente, guidance counselor, is similar to the American Field Service program with the differences that students pay their own transportation and for tour expenses in the country they visit, and they stay free of charge with their foreign parents. In turn their parents here agree to accept a student from the countries where they stayed.

So some South Americans are expected at these three homes, for three to six months, the usual period for this program.

PAULA STAYED in Manta, Ecuador, with Senor and Senorita George Evans. Evans originally is from England. Because he operates an overseas radio, Paula had an opportunity to talk a half-hour with her mother at half cost. Manta has a small ship-building yard but work is slow because of lack of modern tools. Formerly a fisherman's town, its sole reason for existence now is exporting coffee.

Her trip took her to Guayaquil, where she saw the largest cemetery in South America, many saving money half their lives to be buried there.

THIS modern city with its important Pacific Ocean port still had its section of narrow streets where the Spanish, arriving in about 1533, settled. Paula found rivalry between this city, which makes most of the money for the whole country, she was told, and Quito, the capital, because most of the taxes are spent to beautify Quito.

Oddly, Paula said, Guayaquil's many universities were situated right down town, which also was cluttered with stands selling expensive postal cards and souvenirs, and people peddling cheap jewelry and toothpaste.

If Ecuador has a welfare system, it wasn't showing. People slept at night next to their shoeshine chairs so as not to lose them and boys from age 8 and up ran around the parks with shoe-shining kits looking for customers.

Paula rode into the mountains in a one-car train that rocked like a cradle, rode in a crowded bus past three beautiful snow-tipped volcanoes on highways sometimes nothing but mule trails because of landslides, and crossed a bridge so narrow it rubbed the bus. She saw barefoot Indians in the high and cold mountains, some riding donkeys and almost all with one or two dogs as companions.

It was her interest in anthropology that took Kathy to Machu Picchu, the oldest city in North and South America, known as the archeological capital of the latter, and to Cuzco, the Sacred City of the Incas.

In this exciting country she found women wearing reversible hats. Still single, they wore the bright side out; married, they turned them so the black was on the outside. The number of undershirts they wore indicated their financial status—the more, the wealthier.

RANK IN life determined the type of burial, whether with gold or silver figures, but always the bodies were in a sitting position, with hands at the face.

With her interest in perhaps some day becoming a missionary, this was a trial run for Kay, who had the privilege of teaching English and related subjects in Salta, Argentina. All the girls studied Spanish at Independence High School.

On her tour she also visited Cordoba, Rosario, Buenos Aires, the capital, and La Plata. On her return she was bubbling with conversation about the people she'd met and the fun she'd had — only half understandable to a non-student of the language because it was well sprinkled with Spanish.

THEY'RE ALL eager to go back and agree with Paula, who said, "Este fue el mejor experiencia que yo tenia en mi vida." — Spanish for "This was the best experience I ever had in my life."

It was the people that made it so, declared Kathy. Adios (goodbye) said Kay, with a wave of her hand.

Two Defense Lawyers Jailed In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Two defense lawyers were jailed for contempt Friday in the U.S. District Court trial of eight men charged with conspiring to riot during the 1968 Democratic National Convention, but both attorneys were released a few hours later.

Judge Julius J. Hoffman ordered the arrest of Gerald B. Lefcourt of New York and Michael E. Tigar of Los Angeles for failure to appear at the opening of the trial Wednesday.

Attorneys representing the two filed a motion with the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, U.S. Marshal John C. Meisner said both were released Friday night on their own recognizance pending further appeal.

Judge Hoffman indicated in ordering the arrests that he would sentence Lefcourt and Tigar when the trial resumes Monday.

William M. Kunstler of New York, head of the defense team, insisted, however, that although the two were listed as defense lawyers it was understood they would be used in pretrial proceedings only.

Two California lawyers, Dennis J. Roberts and Michael A. Kennedy, also were cited for contempt for failing to appear, but warrants for their arrest were quashed by Judge Albert C. Wollenberg of U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

He said the two San Francisco attorneys would not be arrested because warrants and a telephoned order for contempt did not comply with law and did not list any offense beyond failure to appear.

The contempt citations delayed opening statements in the trial and prevented the cross-examination of Raymond Simon, a city attorney who was the government's first witness.

Simon testified that he and other officials had met with Remond C. "Rennie" Davis, 28, one of the defendants, a week before the convention. He said Davis had discussed antiwar organization plans to march in Chicago and sleep in Lincoln Park.

Earlier, Richard G. Schultz, an assistant U.S. attorney, delivered the government's opening statement and called defendant David T. Dellinger of New York "the principal architect of the riots."

Is your car's windshield safer than your child's glasses?

Auto manufacturers are required by law to use safety glass in windshields. A windshield is maybe a foot from your eyes, but your eyeglasses are less than an inch away!

This is why Plymouth Optical recommends hardened lenses for everyone, especially children. Our Duro-temp lenses are highly resistant to breakage . . . and if they do somehow break, the impact is transmitted equally over the entire lens, so that it is less likely to break into long sharp shivers.

And the prices of our prescription-perfect glasses start at just $12.95 . . . with Duro-temp lenses only $2 extra. So next time the eye doctor prescribes a change, come to Plymouth Optical and get Duro-temp hardened lenses.

It's a small price to pay for peace of mind.

Fire Threat Hangs Over Part of State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The state Conservation Department said Friday an area from just south of Mora to just north of the Twin Cities is "excessively dry" due to lack of precipitation.

The area includes a peat bog in the cities' suburb of Blaine where a stubborn fire has been burning for several days.

The fire is outside normal Conservation Department fire protection areas but forester John Kirkvold of Cambridge has been helping suburban fire departments.

A crawler tractor and disc to bring moisture to the surface are being used in addition to pumper trucks spraying the blaze.

The Conservation Department said the area is being watched closely because of today's opening of grouse and squirrel hunting seasons.

Good weather was in prospect for the area again today with fair to partly cloudy skies predicted with highs in the 50s in northwestern Minnesota and 70s southwest.

Says Non-nuclear Warheads Aren't Ready for Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deputy Secretary of Defense David R. Packard says nonnuclear Safeguard antimissile warheads are being studied by the Pentagon but none of them can be recommended yet in place of nuclear ones.

In testimony to the House Armed Services Committee, made public Friday, Packard observed: "If you could get your intercept missile closer to the target, you wouldn't have to use as large a nuclear warhead, or you could use some of your nonnuclear techniques."

However, he indicated such intercept devices are not accurate enough and nonnuclear warhead development is not far enough to recommend the substitutes for nuclear weapons.

He testified in closed committee hearings last April.

played a major role in anti-Nazi psychological warfare, said the other day: "As an idea, inducing Hess to fly to England by means of astrological hocus-pocus—and the bait of the Duke of Hamilton — was something that might have appealed to Ian Fleming or even to have been conceived by him. I am quite ready to believe that."

"But the details of the story do not convince me. It is all too pat and does not fit the fact that the flight on May 10 was not Hess's first attempt to fly to Britain." Hess, he said, was not the only Nazi who wished to make peace with Britain to avoid a two-front war with her and Russia.

Peter Fleming, brother of the late Ian Fleming, told me that his brother had not told him about the idea. He described it as "a new legend about my brother."

Two Held in Cincinnati Loan Slayings

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two men were held under maximum security Saturday while law officers pressed their search for two others accused of taking part in the holdup-slaying of four women.

The lawmen, including FBI agents, were concentrating their search around U.S. 27 near the Kentucky-Tennessee border.

Each of the four men is charged with four counts of first-degree murder in the Wednesday slayings.

Sought are Watterson Johnson, 22, and John Leigh, 20, both of the Cincinnati area.

The FBI joined the search when it filed warrants charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder against the two, last seen walking along U.S. 27 near Strunk, Ky., at the state line with Tennessee.

Raymond Kassow, 24, and Carl Ingle, 31, also of Cincinnati, were held Friday for the county grand jury without bond.

Did Fleming Lure Hess with Astrology?

New York Times News Service

LONDON — Rudolph Hess was lured to Britain in 1941 by a plot thought up by the late Ian Fleming, creator of the fictional James Bond, who was then in Naval Intelligence, involving the planting of an astrologer on the susceptible Deputy Fuhrer.

This remarkable claim is made by a former friend of Fleming's in a book to be published by Frederick Muller on Oct. 30.

THE AUTHOR, Richard Deacon, in examining the use made of astrology by British Intelligence during the Second World War, writes: "One of the stories about Fleming that has never been told is of his hunch that it should be possible to lure one of the Nazi leaders to Britain . . ."

According to Deacon—the pen name of a Fleet Street executive—Fleming's idea was to plant on Hess an astrologer who was, in fact, a British agent, while simultaneously persuading him that an influential group of pro-Nazi Britons were ready to receive him here.

The plotters' aim was to try to convince Hess, whom they believed to be strongly influenced by astrology, that his flight, as Hitler's deputy, could "pave the way to a negotiated peace with Germany, and the overthrow of the Churchill government."

FLEMING, according to Deacon, decided that the scheme was "far too hazardous a project for him to handle on his own." But he "passed the idea to two trusted friends, one who was in another branch of British Intelligence, the other a contact in Switzerland who was an authority on astrology."

The author goes on: "It is not possible to reveal the names of these two friends, both of whom ran grave risks in acting on Fleming's hunch. The first risk was of acting independently of higher officers in the Secret Service and without their knowledge; the second was of falling into enemy hands."

Fleming's contact in Switzerland planted the astrologer on Hess. "To ensure that the theme of the plot was worked into a conventional horoscope, the Swiss contact arranged for two horoscopes of Hess to be obtained from astrologers known to Hess personally, so that the faked horoscope would not be suspiciously different from those of the others."

THE PLAN "went far beyond the feuding of vague general information about the feasibility of peace moves in Britain, but to direct Hess's attention to specific people . . . and to a specific date for action by Hess."

All kinds of fake evidence to support the false astrological reports was disseminated by British agents, Deacon says, including a suggestion that R. A. Butler (now Lord Butler of Saffron Walden) was a secret admirer of Hitler and regarded Britain's situation as desperate.

Ernst Schulte-Strathaus, who, Deacon says, was Hess's adviser on astrological matters, told him in January, 1941, that an unusual conjunction of the planets would take place on May 10, 1941. This was the day Hess flew to Scotland.

HHH Plans Tokyo Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will take a two-week vacation trip to Tokyo next month, his office announced.

His itinerary includes an overnight stay in Honolulu on Oct. 17, a spokesman said.

He will continue on to Japan for what is described as a "vacation trip, not official business." The spokesman said there are no plans to visit other countries in the Far East.

Humphrey plans to return to the United States either Oct. 30 or 31, his office said.

Diocese Will Sell Red Owl Property

The forthcoming sale of downtown property owned by the Catholic Diocese of Winona was disclosed over the weekend when diocese officials were questioned on the matter.

Diocese sources said Saturday that property currently leased by Red Owl Stores Inc. at 126 E. 5th St., is being acquired as a new site for the Winona Piggly Wiggly Store. It will be sold for an undisclosed price to a group of corporations through which Piggly Wiggly administers its real estate operations.

It is expected that Red Owl will vacate the premises by mid-December at the latest. Diocese sources said the company's lease expires Dec. 12. Red Owl will move into larger quarters in a recently constructed building in Goodview.

Piggly Wiggly is expected to move as soon as possible. It has operated in its present location at 74 E. 5th St. for 14 years. The property is leased from its owner, William Miller, St. Paul, who formerly operated his own store there.

Red Owl has been in its present location since its building was built about 17 years ago. The area is the former site of St. Joseph Church and was purchased by the diocese in 1951. At that time, St. Joseph and St. Thomas parishes had merged and built the new Cathedral of the Sacred Heart at Wabasha and Main streets, formerly the St. Thomas Church site.

Intercept-Worthy Plan Run Amuck?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — To businessmen on both sides of the U.S.-Mexico border, Operation Intercept means a worthy plan run amuck.

They complain that the intensive search for drugs by U.S. customs agents has netted relatively small amounts of marijuana, but has had disastrous effects on tourism.

Despite the criticism — which has ranged from a protest telegram sent by the San Diego Chamber of Commerce to calls of a boycott against American goods by Mexican business leaders — the Customs service has vowed to step up its search for illegal drugs this weekend.

Nearly anything that moves across the 2,000-mile international boundary — whether by foot, car, plane or boat — will be searched in the government's drive to cut off smuggled narcotics at their source, Operation Intercept officials say.

A government spokesman said the crackdown thus far has netted 2,000 pounds of marijuana, small quantities of cocaine and opium and from 75,000 to 80,000 pills of dangerous drugs.

"This is far below what we would expect in a normal week," he said.

Mexican National Chamber of Commerce officials are calling on Mexican tourists to boycott American border cities where the officials estimate, Mexicans spend some $400 million annually.

The officials call the boycott "Operation Dignity," and some have suggested even stronger measures to get the United States to reassess the program's impact on tourism.

Fortuna Cambrena, president of the Tijuana Chamber of Commerce over the boundary from San Diego, estimated business in shops and restaurants is down 40 to 75 per cent.

Tourists seeking to return to the United States after a day in Mexico are forced to wait an average two hours before they are checked through the crossing point. Some wait as long as eight hours have been reported.

In San Diego, where Mexican tourists spend an estimated $80 million annually and where Californians en route south of the border spend even more, the Chamber of Commerce wired President Nixon to provide "immediate emergency funding" to supply more agents to speed up the searches.

One Killed in Racial Riot At Prison

PENDLETON, Ind. (AP) — One inmate at the Indiana State Reformatory has been killed and 46 wounded, all of them Negroes, in what reformatory officials said was a racial incident.

Supt. George Phend said guards fired riot guns loaded with bird and double-O shot over the heads of inmates and into the ground Friday when about 100 prisoners threatened to burn down the institution and refused orders to disperse.

Killed was James E. Durr, 20, of Gary, who was serving a 1-10 year sentence for robbery.

Of the 46 wounded, nine remained hospitalized today.

Phend said, "We think there were two white men involved. We want to emphasize that this is a black and white problem. This has been brewing for some years."

Phend said that of the reformatory's 2,325 prisoners, about 880 are Negroes.

He said Friday's trouble started when about 200 inmates in the recreation area threatened to burn down the reformatory. He said the security force tried to disperse prisoners but they headed for the furniture factory.

Inmates set fire to furniture and upholstery material, Phend said, but the reformatory fire department extinguished flames in five minutes and the building was not damaged.

The superintendent said inmates dashed for another building but when a guard fired over their heads they turned back toward the recreation area.

He said the crowd refused an order to disperse and one warning shot was fired over their heads. Another was fired 10 minutes later, he said.

Phend said that after 10 more minutes shots were fired into the ground. One man jumped up, said he'd had enough and the men began scattering, Phend said. It was not known until then that some inmates had been wounded, apparently by ricocheting pellets, he said.

Udall Says He Made Mistake On Oil Drilling

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall says he made a serious mistake in following the advice of his scientific advisers and approving oil drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel.

Looking back at the oil leak in the channel, Udall said Friday he now believes it would have been wiser to declare the area an oil reserve and ban drilling for the indefinite future.

The cabinet member during both the Kennedy and Johnson administrations called his decision "a serious environmental mistake."

Osseo Man Killed in 2-Car Crash

OSSEO, Wis. — Howard Gilbertson, 55, Osseo, was killed Friday night when his car collided headon with a pickup camper on Highway 53 about six miles south of Eau Claire. Time of the accident was 11:30 p.m.

Melvin A. Nolting, Waukon, Iowa, driver of the pickup, and two companions suffered only slight injuries, according to investigating Highway Patrol officers. The three men were headed south, returning home from a fishing trip. Gilbertson was traveling north.

NOLTING told officers Gilbertson's car suddenly veered across the center line toward the pickup and he was unable to avoid the collision. Nolting's pickup was damaged too badly to drive and Gilbertson's car was called a total loss.

Officers said Gilbertson, who was alone, may have gone to sleep or suffered some sort of seizure. Preliminary results of a coroner's examination appear to have ruled out a heart attack, they said.

Howard Gilbertson was born Feb. 24, 1913, in the Norden area, south of Eleva, to Sigurd and Annie Holten Gilbertson. He served in the European Theater in World War II and was a member of the Eau Claire Veterans of Foreign Wars post. He had lived in Osseo the past six years and was employed at Presto Industries, Eau Claire, up to the time of his death.

SURVIVORS are: One brother, Clarence, Osseo Rt. 2, and two sisters, Mrs. Otto (Selma) Hagness, Eleva Rt. 2, and Mrs. Cora Schult, Orlando, Fla.

Funeral services will be Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at Kjentvet & Son Funeral Home, Mondovi, the Rev. Ronald Ryckman, Drammen Lutheran Church, officiating. Burial will be in Norden Cemetery.

There will be no visitation.

Wheel Drops Off, Auto Strikes Tree

DRESSBACH, Minn. — An Onalaska, Wis., driver, Roger C. Kaufman, and a girl passenger were unhurt when his car rammed a tree after a front wheel dropped off early Saturday.

Winona County Sheriff George Fort's office reported Kaufman was driving south on CSAH 1, near here, about 12:10 a.m. The right front wheel came off and the car traveled 65 feet along the right shoulder before hitting the tree.

The car was heavily damaged, sheriff's officers reported.

Report State Population to Be 3,647,000

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — An estimate released Friday by the Minnesota Health Department placed the state's population at 3,647,000 as of July 1, 1968.

The new figure represents a gain of only 22,000 over 1967 or about six-tenths of one per cent. Estimated gain since the last official census in 1960 is 6.8 per cent.

Giant gains were reported in the Twin Cities metropolitan area where the seven-county metro area is 15.9 per cent ahead of 1960.

Individual county gains range up to 51.3 per cent for Dakota County and 49.1 per cent for Anoka County.

Holans' Dream Home Has Unique Setting On Chimney Rock

By VI BENICKE
Sunday News Staff Writer

CHIMNEY Rock, 600 feet above Lake Winona, is the site of the dream home of Mr. and Mrs. Leif A. Holan. Both have always wanted a house on a hill. And they found the desired plot after a three-year search.

The one-acre setting, a breathtaking spot on the edge of a cliff just east of Garvin Heights, commands a magnificent view of the city of Winona. One immediately acquires a feeling of tranquility when arriving at the secluded site. Then one experiences feelings of excitement and giddiness when overlooking the sheer drop and awe when gazing at the scenic beauty. Picking out landmarks far, far below is a fascinating pastime.

The deflated U-shaped home of contemporary architecture, based on the Scholz design, blends into its immediate surroundings. Its wide open and glazed center gives one a maximum panorama from the balcony and sunken patio on the valley side.

The property, purchased from William Schuler, 726 Johnson St., is named Chimney Rock because of a natural chimney rock formation extending down into the valley.

Designing of the home was a joint effort by August L. Vogler, architectural designer and draftsman, who works for W-Smith Architectural & Engineering Service, and the Holans.

Vogler did the drafting and had complete supervision of construction. Designing and drawing plans for custom-built homes occupies an extensive part of Vogler's private life.

Ralph Scharmer, 571 W. Mill St., was general contractor. Construction began in April 1968 and was completed Feb. 1 of this year.

The minute one sees the rambling home he is impressed with its unique style and personality. Its main entrance on the south side looks out into the woods. The curved access driveway, a dramatic approach, helps achieve some privacy and lends its own touch of beauty.

On the entrance side, the extension of the center area of the house is a focus point which has been achieved by use of laminated wood beams and sloping or cathedral ceiling. Directly in the center of this area an open staircase goes down into the basement, leading to the recreation room, which in turn opens into the patio.

The patio and entire basement area were blasted from solid rock, leaving a natural rock retaining wall on the ex-

'The Cavern,' First Production at CST

Casting for "The Cavern," first theatre production of the year at the College of Saint Teresa, was announced this week by Richard Weiland, director. The cast list has been drawn from students at the College of Saint Teresa, St. Mary's College and the Winona community. Production dates are Oct. 10, 11, 12 and Oct. 17, 18, 19 at the College theatre at 8 p.m.

Congregational Unit Schedules Thankoffering

The Women's Fellowship of the First Congregational Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Ward Lucas, Holler Hill, for their annual "Thankoffering" Wednesday at 2 p.m. Members of the October Unit will assist.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Ralph L. Holland, Denver, Colo., who recently returned with her husband, the Rev. Dr. Ralph L. Holland, from a one year inspection tour of missionary facilities overseas. She has been active in a variety of denominational and ecumenical organizations. She is currently a vice president of the board of directors of the United Church Board for Home-land Ministries, and has been a member of the board since 1963. She has been vice president of the Massachusetts Council of Churches. During the same years she was president of the Massachusetts chapter of Church Women United. From 1952 to 1955 she was a member of board of managers of the national Church Women United.

Mrs. John Breilow will present the dedication of Thank-offering gifts. Nursery service will be provided at the church beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Oriental Ease Planned for Church Dinner

Circle IV of Grace Presbyterian Church will hold its annual Hong Kong dinner Saturday in the church parlors. Chicken chow mein will be featured along with chopsticks. Forks can be used at a small fee. Authentic decorations used were brought back from the Orient by Ruth Irwin and the waitresses will wear yokadas and Oriental pajamas.

Mrs. Marvin Giversen, in charge of the food committee, is assisted by Mrs. Roy Kulas, Mrs. Paul Griesel Jr. and Mrs. Jerry Benjamin. Mrs. Melvin Benter, chairman of the decorating committee, will be assisted by Mrs. Ronald Dietrich and Mrs. Jerry Lowery. Miss Ruth Irwin, ticket and publicity chairman, is assisted by Mrs. Meth Fratzke and Mrs. Warren Seeling.

Serving will begin at 5 p.m. and will continue to 8 p.m. Carryout orders and delivery service can be obtained by calling the church after 4:30 p.m.

Michael Shelmo, Winona, will portray "The Author." In a somewhat reversed Pirandello manner, the Author is in search of characters in a play he has never quite written. A man of contrasts, this character is at the same time apologetic, proud and sensitive.

THE PART of the "Count" will be played by William Peltzman, Winona. The Count is a worldly, unscrupulous man who was once an artist, but in the course of the play finds himself as a person who possesses nothing but "a great name and an enormous number of neckties." Robin Schoen, Hastings, Minn., sophomore at the College of Saint Teresa, will play the role of the "Countess." Anouilh portrays her as "cold romantic," brittle and bored, and trying to fill the emptiness of her life with religion and children.

The "Baron," son of the Count by a first marriage and an epicure who loves horses, women and breakfast in bed, will be portrayed by Stephan Fabis, Woodstock, Ill. St. Mary's College student, Therese Bronkalla, Milwaukee, sophomore at the College of Saint Teresa, is the female counterpart of the cold, artificial Baron and a representative of a wasted, affected and decadent society.

CAST in the role of "Marie Jeanne, the Cook," is Mrs. Michel Perrin, Winona. Anouilh thinks of her as an "earth mother" and one whose peasant authenticity clashes with the decadent artificiality of society. Realistic and cynical, Marie portrays the "have-nots" and exemplifies the playwright's tendency to have the characters rather than the plot dominate the play.

Susan Kanne, CST sophomore from Carroll, Iowa, portrays "Adele," metaphorical "outcry of innocence against reality." She carries a major theme found in all of Anouilh's plays, the corruption of innocence. Bashful, beautiful and pregnant, Adele is a product of the harsh society in which she finds herself.

Other roles carried by students at the College of Saint Teresa are "Hugueline," by Patricia O'Brien, Morristown, N.J., junior; "Nurse," Kathleen Madden, Wilmette, Ill., junior; "Elder Girl," Jean Bischoff, Eau Claire, Wis., freshman, and "Younger Girl," Frances Phelan, Wilmette, Ill., junior.

MALE ROLES, "The Seminarist," David Puski, Calumet City, Ill.; "The Superintendent," Ray Munro, Arlington Heights, Ill.; "Marcel, the Valet," James K. King, Minneapolis; "Alexis, the Scullery Boy," Terrence Falk, Bloomington, Minn., are carried by students of St. Mary's College. Dennis Kochta and John Heublein, Winona, play the parts of "Romani, the Butler" and "Leon, the Coachman."

Tickets will go on sale at the box office, the first week of October. Reservations may be made by calling the office. All seats are reserved.

Winona Rebekah Lodge 7 will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Odd Fellows Temple. Members have been asked to bring cookies.

Older Adults To Attend Baseball Game

Members of the Older Adult Center will travel to the Twin Cities Thursday to see the Twins-Chicago baseball game. This is the last senior citizens day at Metropolitan Stadium. Registrations for this event are still open, and anyone wishing to attend the game should contact the Older Adult Center.

Games Day will be held Tuesday. Registration will be handled by Miss Esther Wachs and Mrs. Helen Meech. Lunch will be served by the Mmes. Vern Smelser, Amanda Wanek, Eva Reed, Mary Walinski, Mary Bandar, and Florence Besaw.

Other scheduled events for this week include craft classes Monday morning, with Mrs. Lottie Tietz instructing. Stag Day in the afternoon; craft classes Wednesday, with Mrs. Tietz and Miss Valerie Gallas as instructors; and Kard & Klatter Klub Friday.

Over 550 persons visited the Older Adult Center Wednesday afternoon, when an open house was held in the Valley View Tower. Exhibits of craft classes, bridge lessons, library service at the center (made available through the Winona Public Library), and group activities were on display. Refreshments were served in the Sky Room, and visitors were able to view all the facilities made available to the Older Adult Center by the Housing and Redevelopment Authority of Winona. The Winona Adult Center is sponsored by the Southeastern Minnesota Citizens' Action Council, Inc., Rushford. Halvor Lacher is director.

Craft classes are held in the Sky Room on Monday and Wednesdays, and pool tables and a shuffleboard court are available for daily use. Planned activities include a variety of programs, bus trips, dances, games parties, informal cards and potluck dinners. Attendance at the Center has been running about 1,000 persons each month, according to Vern Smelser, director.

Forty members of the Older Adult Center took a foliage tour to Red Wing on Thursday of last week, picnicking at Co-ville Park, visiting the pottery and shoe factory, and returning by way of Wisconsin. On Oct. 16, members will travel to La Crosse to visit the Senior Citizens Center there.

His presentation will be in the main meeting room of the College Center beginning at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited.

Crank Calls, Topic Of Public Meeting

The Winona Toastmistress Club in cooperation with the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company is sponsoring a talk Oct. 7 at the Park Plaza, by Mrs. Loris Gau, St. Paul, entitled "A Cure for Crank Calls," according to Mrs. Ralph Kohner, president of the Winona club. The public has been invited.

Mrs. Gau, staff assistant in the Bell company office in St. Paul, is treasurer of the Callena Toastmistress Club and was second place winner in the Land O'Lakes regional speech contest held in La Crosse last May.

Active in civic affairs, the speaker is secretary of North Heights PTA and a member of the Home Safety Division of the Minnesota Safety Council. Dan McDowell, local Bell manager explained that the talk will be about the problems of obscene and nuisance calls and how they are handled. "Emphasis," he said "is on the type of crank calls, their growth, what to do if you receive a crank call, and what the phone company is doing to track down these callers."

Because there have been a number of requests from people who want to hear this talk, the Winona Toastmistress Club has invited all Winona area residents to attend the 6:30 p.m. dinner meeting at the Park Plaza. Reservations must be made not later than Saturday with Mrs. Addison Glubka or Mrs. Kohner.

Nuptial Vows Exchanged at St. Casimir's

Gowned in satin and lace, Miss Mary Lou Fellowski became the bride of Thomas J. Bernatz, Sept. 30 at St. Casimir Catholic Church. Her veil was caught to a satin pillow with matching lace and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Emmett Tighe received the vows of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Fellowski, 627 W. 4th St., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Len Bernatz, 960 W. Howard St. Miss Bonnie Schneider accompanied the children's choir.

MISS KAREN Beyers was maid of honor, and Miss Patricia Bernatz, a sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. They wore gowns of blue satin with daisy headbands and carried bouquets of daisies.

James Backus was best man and Richard Loucks was the groomsman. Ushers were Gary Fellowski, brother of the bride and William Bernatz, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception was held at the American Legion Club and the bridegroom's parents served as host and hostess for the members of the wedding party at a bridal dinner at Williams Hotel.

BERNATZ AND his bride are both graduates of Cotter High School and now are attending Winona State College. They will be at home at 625 W. 5th St.

Pre-nuptial showers were given by Mrs. Frank Banick at St. Casimir Church hall, and by Miss Terri Follmann and Miss Karen Beyers at the former's home.

CICW BOARD MEETING

Frank Brueske Exhibit To Open at WSC Gallery

Brueske

A photography exhibition by Frank Brueske, Winona, will open Monday in Watkins Art Gallery, Winona State College. The show is being sponsored by the college art department and will continue through Oct. 9. Gallery hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Brueske purchased his first camera when he was 11 years old and has been taking photos ever since.

A native of Plainview, Minn., he was active in photography during his school life but it wasn't until he was attending Winona State College that he became interested in photography as an art form.

ONE OF HIS earliest photos to win a state contest was "First Snow" which is part of his current exhibit.

Brueske freelanced in photography while attending college and was on the Winonan and yearbook staffs. After graduating from college in 1958 with a degree in business and art he freelanced in New York City and Minneapolis before joining the staff of the Red Wing, Minn., newspaper as reporter-photographer.

He was a reporter-photographer for several newspapers including the Winona Daily News before joining Watkins Products in 1965 in the communications area.

His current photos, like his earlier ones, are rich in blacks. "I feel black is a dominate, strong tone and has great visual impact," Brueske says.

THE PHOTOS in his current exhibit "Our Land" are all black and white. They represent a cross-section of his work during the past 13 years and cover the country from coast to coast. They range from Harlem and the ghetto areas of New York City, the waterfront of San Francisco to the country land of mid-America.

His photos have been printed in state and regional publications. In addition his news photos have captured several top state photography awards.

HIS CURRENT photography project is a motion picture travelog of the upper Mississippi River which he hopes to finish early next year.

Audience Likes 'Tilbury Town'

Theatre Saint Mary's opened its 1969-70 season Friday evening with an interesting addition to its fine series of faculty readers' theatre presentations.

The character sketches in the special Edwin Arlington Robinson manner were a fine vehicle for the readers' theatre form which focuses so sharply on character delineation. The interpretative talents of the performers are fully challenged and a certain armchair intimacy makes up for a lack of dramatic impact of greater variety and intensity.

LOUIS COLOIA'S "John Everedown" had the right Robinson edge to set the tone, and Cololia made use of a nice echo effect in his reading. Jean Brose's "Amaryllis" had some excellent shading, and Patrick Costello's "The Mill", the tragic highlight of the evening, was excellently controlled.

Donald Peake's quiet warmth and tender humor lighted many of Robinson's more delicate effects, but it was in his "John Gorham", which he did with Louis Cololia, that his timing and turn-over-on-the-tongue relish were shown to fullest advantage. Michael Flanagan's reading of the almost trite "Mr. Flood's Party" was original and most effective. It was interesting to see the weighting on the Irish rather than the Scotch elements in the Scotch-Irish mixture which makes up Robinson's ethnic group, the true down-East New Englanders.

Paul Froeschl and Willard Verbrink gave very nice balance to the ensemble in their readings, and the interpolated ballads added an interesting dimension.

THE FINE variety of tonal quality in the group was exploited more fully in Part Two than in Part One making for more movement and texture. The usual first night tensions plagued the chorus which carried the heaviest responsibility in the first section. Lines tended to blur and Robinson's acid edge was softened. The strength and angularity of the work was sometimes clouded.

Readers' theatre is a very demanding dramatic form since it relies so much on line interpretation and dramatization for its effects. Without the advantages of setting, movement, rapid dialog or conventional plot, the form has a classic single focus and offers a fine opportunity to explore the varied talents of the Saint Mary's faculty.

Students Wed In Menomonie Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Spaete (Susan Helstad) exchanged wedding vows Sept. 20 at Our Saviors Lutheran Church, Menomonie, Wis., with the Rev. Frank Langhough officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Helstad, 108 High Forest St., Winona and Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Spaete, Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

GIVEN IN marriage by her grandfather, Nick Helstad, the bride wore an A-line gown of satin-peau with lace covering the bodice and detachable train. A matching camelot cap held the elbow-length veil and she carried crescent-shaped white chrysanthemums and yellow roses.

Miss Jane Haster was maid of honor and Miss Stephanie Govin was bridesmaid. They wore gowns of ribbed gold satin accented with bronze-colored braid. Flowers of fall tones highlighted their hair and they carried bronze, yellow and orange chrysanthemums.

Gordon Spaete was his brother's best man and another brother, Richard Spaete was groomsman. Ushers were Larry Helgeson and Jerry Beck.

THE NEWLYWEDS honeymooned in Northern Wisconsin following a reception in the church parlors. They will be at home in Menomonie.

Mr. and Mrs. Spaete are seniors at Stout State University. Mrs. Spaete is a member of Alpha Phi Sorority and Spaete is a member of Kappa Lambda Beta Fraternity.

Majestic New Home

treme edge of the hilltop with an approximate 600-foot drop into the valley. The patio and basement floor are about four feet below the top of the retaining wall.

Besides being an open-air recreation area, the patio has a waterfall formation in natural rock wall setting on the west side. On the east side a circular steel stairway gives access to the ground floor redwood balcony cantilevered over the sunken patio from the living room area.

The central stairway is located beside the chimney and corner fireplace unit and kitchen.

Winona travertine stone is predominant on the main foyer wall extending to the high stair wall and fireplace unit. Extensive use has been made of wood paneling such as ash, walnut and cherry. It blends into the interior decoration which has predominant colors of green and orange.

Entering through the foyer, access to the living room is on one side of the central stairs, to the kitchen on the opposite side. A den is located in the west corner alongside the foyer. Natural lighting for the foyer has been achieved by a full height window wall.

The east wing of the residence houses a triple garage besides an extension of the living room and exterior roofed over patio. The west wing contains three bedrooms and baths as well as a roofed over patio on the north side of the house.

Special attention has been paid to the use of materials for the exterior, blending into the natural setting: Colonial brick wainscoting, Winona travertine stone for wall facing and bleached cedar boards and batten for a minimum of maintenance.

Color combinations created by use of these materials are pleasingly offset by the use of a charcoal colored stained redwood fascia, or roof edge, and medium gray roof shingles.

The home is electrically heated with an oil fired furnace back up system and a generator plant for emergency use. Holans have their own well, the water reached after 610 feet of drilling, septic tank and drainfield system. They maintain the access crushed rock road which branches off the Garvin Heights blacktop road for a distance of three fourths of a mile.

The immediate area around the house on the southwest side was sodded and landscaped by the Holans and Valley Nursery, Goodview. Featured on the east side are a parking area and turnabout as well as a driveway. There is an abundance of oak and Norway pine trees and the sumac is a brilliant red these fall days.

The balcony and steps of the outside wrought iron staircase are covered with an outdoor carpeting of green. Mr. Holan designed and built the spiral stairway.

Upgrading on the south slope of the house was achieved by the installation of a natural rock retaining wall. This wall, built in a curving fashion to save the trees, as well as the rip rapping with brick of the steep north slope outside the garage, were done by the Holans' son, Bruce.

The Holans have three children: A daughter, Mrs. Richard (Beverly) Duellman, Rochester, and two sons, Bruce, 22, Winona State College student, and Steve, 13, a junior at Winona Junior High School, and one granddaughter.

CONTEMPORARY ARCHITECTURE . . . The deflated U-shaped home of Mr. and Mrs. Leif A. Holan, Chimney Rock, blends into its immediate surroundings in this aerial photo. Its wide open and glazed center lends a maximum panorama from the balcony and sunken patio. The property is named Chimney Rock because of a natural chimney rock formation, foreground, extending down into the valley. (Sunday News photos by Frank R. Uhlig)

SPIRAL STAIRCASE . . . The Holans pose on a wrought iron spiral stairway on the valley side of their hilltop home. Mr. Holan designed and built the staircase, which is covered with an outdoor carpeting of green.

Lake City Pair Married in Lutheran Rite

LAKE CITY, Minn. (Special) — St. John's Lutheran Church was the setting for the marriage of Shirley Marie Siewert and Edward James Sanders Sept. 13 with the Rev. Ralph A. Goede officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Siewert and Mr. Gene Sanders, all of Lake City.

MAID OF HONOR was Miss Eileen Gohl, Rochester. Miss Sharon Russell and Miss Gloria Reckmann were bridesmaids and Miss Jane Siewert was junior bridesmaid.

Gary Klein was best man and Roger Sanders, Dennis Stehr, and Otto Sanders were groomsmen. Frederick and Devain Siewert, the bride's brothers, were ushers.

A RECEPTION for 200 guests was held at the VFW club, Lake City.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln High School and was employed by St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester, prior to her marriage. The bridegroom also is a graduate of Lincoln High School and is employed by D-I Acro, Lake City.

Winona State Drives Fizzle, Tech Wins 21-0

Bryant, Snyder Pull Ohio U. Into 35-35 Tie With Gophers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Ohio University's touchdown twins Cleveland Bryant and Todd Snyder combined three times for touchdowns Saturday and pulled the Bobcats into a 35-35 tie with the Minnesota Gophers.

Bryant's 14-yard touchdown pass to Snyder with 9:47 to play in the game tied it. Earlier, Bryant had hit Snyder with TD tosses of five and seven yards.

Minnesota missed a chance for victory five seconds before the first half ended when Jeff Nygren's 36-yard field goal attempt bounced off the crossbar and sent the teams into the intermission tied 21-21.

The Bobcats drove to the Minnesota 31 in the final seconds but Jim Kensing's long field goal attempt wobbled to the left as time ran out.

The Gophers got as far as the Ohio 31 in their last threat after Mike Curtis intercepted a Bryant pass on the Bobcat 37-yard line. But Jim Carter's six-yard run was the only gain as Ohio held on fourth down.

Bryant carried 27 times for 78 yards rushing and completed 18 of 28 passes for 194 yards. Snyder took 12 of those tosses for 122 yards.

Bulldog Gopher running backs Carter and Barry Mayer paced the Minnesota offense with Phil Hagen connecting on key passes including a 15-yarder to Ray Parson to give the Gophers a 35-28 lead in the third quarter.

Mayer ran for Minnesota's first two scores on first-half plunges of five and two yards. Carter dove in from one yard out and Hagen sneaked in from a yard out for the Gophers' other scores.

Before 42,235 fans at Memorial Stadium, Carter rushed 12 times for 76 yards, Mayer for 93 yards on 21 carries. Hagen completed 15 of 25 passes for 152 yards.

Ohio's eleven-game regular season victory string extending back to 1968 was stopped, leaving the Mid-American Conference Bobcats at 1-0-1. The Big Ten Gophers are 0-1-1.

CRUNCHING TACKLE . . . Defensive end Gerald Eichman (87) of Winona State College grasps Michigan Tech quarterback Ben Haller (16) just after Haller let go

Soph Running Back Leads Huskie Effort

By HOWARD LESTRUD
Sunday News Sports Writer

Former Winona State College assistant football coach Ted Kearly came back to haunt the Warriors at Maxwell Field Saturday afternoon as his Michigan Tech University charges shut out the Warriors 21-0.

Kearly, who coached at Winona State under Moon Molinari in 1966, is in his first year as head coach of the Huskies. "We controlled the ball well and we're going to go now," said Kearly, while renewing acquaintanceships on the field following the game.

"HOW MANY yards did Ras (Larry) get?" was one of Kearly's first questions. He was told that his 200-pound sophomore running back gained 175 yards in 34 carries, and said, "You must be kidding."

The running of Ras through the middle or off tackle was definitely one of the differences in the game. A tight defense also carried the Huskies to their first win against two losses.

Molinari's Warriors were 2-0 going into Saturday's opening Northern Intercollegiate Conference (NIC) game.

The Huskies took the opening kickoff, started on their own 36-yard line and marched 64 yards in 12 plays to paydirt. Ras went the final three yards up the middle. Iranian Abdulla Hashemi, soccer-style kicker, booted his first of three extra points.

On the third Winona State offensive play of the game, quarterback Curt Palmer threw an interception to the Huskies' Paul Sharkey who also picked off a Palmer pass in the second half. Tech had the ball first and 10 on its own 28, but the drive stalled 10 plays later.

EARLY IN the second quarter fleet-footed Warrior halfback Bill Price took a handoff from Palmer at the 48 of Winona State, hopped, turned and twisted loose going all the way for a touchdown. The TD was called back by a clipping penalty.

Tech's second touchdown came midway in the second period on a 12-yard aerial from Haller to Dave Vander Heyden.

The Warriors tried desperately to make a mark on the scoreboard before the first half ended, but a drive died on Tech's 10-yard line as the gun sounded.

State received the second half kickoff and drove to the Tech 24 but on the next plays, Palmer lost a yard, Ron Fuglestad lost a yard and Palmer lost eight yards after fumbling the ball. The Warriors surrendered the ball on the 37 of Tech.

Defensive halfback Sharkey of Tech helped stop another Warrior drive early in the final period when he picked off a Palmer pass in the end zone.

N.L. ROUNDUP

Braves Top Padres to Cut Number

ATLANTA (AP) — The streaking Atlanta Braves moved a step closer to the National League's West Division championship Saturday, trimming the San Diego Padres 4-2.

The Padres jumped in front on a two-run single by Nate Colbert in the sixth inning. Atlanta, which had scored an early run on Felix Millan's triple, tied it in the sixth on Rico Carty's 15th homer of the year.

Then the Braves broke the tie with a seventh-inning run. Gil Garrido walked and raced to second on a sacrifice by pitcher Ron Reed. Then Tony Gonzalez punched a single off the handle of his bat along the third base line, scoring Garrido with the tie-breaking run.

Hopes Ended

CINCINNATI (AP) — Houston's Jim Ray fired a five-hitter Saturday beating Cincinnati 4-3 virtually ending the Reds' National League West Division pennant hopes.

Orlando Martinez tripled home Bob Watson, who had singled, in the fourth and then Norm Miller singled Martinez across for the Astros.

Jesus Alou had clubbed first-inning homer for Houston.

Cubs Tumble

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pitcher Steve Blass smacked a leadoff triple in the third inning and scored the go-ahead run on a double by Roberto Clemente, leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

Mets Triumph Behind Seaver

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tom Seaver fired a three-hitter on the way to his 10th consecutive victory and became the major leagues' first 25-game winner as the streaking New York Mets nipped Philadelphia 1-0 Saturday on Bobby Pile's run-scoring single in the eighth inning.

Seaver, 25-7, struck out four and walked two in a duel with Phillies southpaw Grant Jackson, who checked the Mets on four hits until the eighth, then they struck with two out to snap the scoreless deadlock.

Badgers Fall To UCLA 34-23

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—UCLA, taking the first quarter to get its offense in gear, defeated upstart Wisconsin, 34-23, Saturday afternoon in an intercollegiate college football game.

Greg Jones scored three touchdowns and Dennis Dummit, two, to fuel the Uclan attack.

Victory raised UCLA's record to 3-0, while Wisconsin dropped its second straight game of the season. It was the 17th consecutive loss for the Badgers and 22nd game in a row without a win.

Dummit, a junior college transfer who stepped into the starting quarterback spot, hit 14 of 21 passes for 209 yards and one touchdown. He also scored twice on one-yard keepers.

Jones, a swivel-hipped speedster from San Francisco, scored on runs of 10 and one yards and a 39-yard pass from Dummit. The senior halfback carried 26 times for 145 yards and caught two passes for 52.

Alan "A-Train" Thompson, the Wisconsin sophomore who broke Alan Ameche's single game rushing mark last week in his first game, gained 86 yards in 26 carries to lead the Wisconsin ground troops.

Roger Jaeger kicked three field goals for the Badgers, the first Wisconsin player to accomplish the feat in a single game since 1899. Jaeger's 48-yarder in the second period was the longest by a Badger since Pat O'Dea kicked a 55-drop-kick against Minnesota in 1897.

The previous longest field goal by a Wisconsin player in modern times was 47 yards by Jim Bakken, now with the St. Louis Cardinals, in 1951, and by Tom Schinke in 1966.

Wisconsin got off to a scary start when Greg "Grape Juice" Johnson was tackled in the end zone on the opening kickoff for an apparent safety. But, the Uclans were off side and the ball was kicked off again.

This time, Johnson picked his way to the Badger 42.

Neil Graff, the sophomore quarterback, immediately hit Stu Voigt on a quick look-in pass over the middle that was good for seven yards.

Thompson barreled his way for four yards, then Joe Dawkins, who started in place of Johnson in the offensive backfield, sped 23 yards to the UCLA 23.

The visitors held on their own 13 and Jaeger booted a 24-yard field goal, giving Wisconsin a 3-0 first-quarter lead.

Packers Meet Stubborn 49ers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Standing all alone atop the Central Division standings, the Green Bay Packers today will attempt to increase their lead in the march toward their fourth National Football League championship in five years.

The Packers meet the San Francisco 49ers at 1 p.m. (CDT) at Milwaukee County Stadium, the second consecutive Green Bay "home" opener.

With all other Central Division teams losing last week, the Packers moved out front with a 17-0 victory over the Chicago Bears. This week, Minnesota meets powerful Baltimore while Chicago takes on St. Louis and Detroit plays surprising New York.

While the Packers are shooting to run their record to 2-0, they are not forgetting last year when the 49ers scored 20 points in the final period to pull out a 27-20 victory and knock Green Bay out of a chance for the division title.

Molding experience with youth, Packer Coach Phil Bengtson has brought his team along on schedule. Following a last-second victory over the New York Giants to start pre-season play, the Packers lost to Chicago and Dallas while Bengtson was taking a good look at all of his troops and trying different combinations.

Green Bay swept its final three exhibition contests, then jelled magnificently in the Chicago victory last week. The Bears' Gale Sayers was contained for only 36 yards in 10 carries, and the closest Chicago came to scoring was on a 50-yard field goal attempt by Mac Percival as the game ended.

Quarterback Bart Starr, who sprained his instep last Sunday, is expected to be ready to play against San Francisco, as is tight end Marv Fleming, who bruised his shoulder.

A.L. ROUNDUP

Pepitone Clout Tops Baltimore

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Pepitone's second-inning homer backed the six-hit pitching of Fritz Peterson and gave the New York Yankees a 1-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Saturday.

Pepitone opened the second inning with a drive into the right field seats off Jim Hardin for his 27th homer of the season. Peterson made the run stand up, bringing his pitching mark to 17-16.

McLain Wins

BOSTON (AP) — Denny McLain won his 24th game of the season as Detroit pushed across an eighth-inning run on Jim Northrup's double, a fly ball and a passed ball to edge Boston 3-1 Saturday.

The victory moved the Tigers one game ahead of the Red Sox in the battle for second place in the American League's East Division.

Senators Cop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ed Brinkman lashed a two-run triple in the fifth inning and scored on Tim Cullen's sacrifice fly, leading the Washington Senators past Cleveland 3-2 Saturday.

White Sox Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Rookie left-hander Gerry Nyman kept eight hits scattered and Ken Berry drove in two runs as the Chicago White Sox defeated Kansas City 6-1 Saturday.

Penn State Triumphs 27-3 Over Colorado

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Lydell Mitchell and Don Abbey led a potent Penn State rushing game — minus star halfback Charlie Pittman — as the Nittany Lions took their 13th straight victory 27-3 against stubborn Colorado Saturday.

Held scoreless by the Buffaloes in the first quarter, the Lions bounced back for 17 points in the second quarter period with Abbey scoring first, bulging his way 40 yards up the middle. Mike Reitz added the first of two field goals the next time the Lions got the ball after the running of Mitchell, Franco Harris and Joel Ramich set the score up.

Purdue Whips Notre Dame Behind Phipps

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Mike Phipps' passes and thundering defensive line play gave Purdue a surprisingly easy 28-14 victory over ninth-ranked Notre Dame Saturday.

Phipps passed 37 yards to halfback Randy Cooper for the game's first score and set up the other Boilermaker touchdowns with passes to his new set of receivers. The victory gave Phipps a perfect 3-year record in quarterbacking Purdue against the Irish.

Defensive end Bill McKoy, who put pressure on Notre Dame quarterback Joe Theismann throughout the game, set up Purdue's decisive touchdown drive late in the third quarter when he spilled Theismann on the Purdue 48-yard line. The play was on a fourth and six situation from the Purdue 31, with the Boilermakers ahead 14-7.

Theismann passed for both Notre Dame touchdowns but one came in the dying minutes. Notre Dame's first touchdown was on a drive covering 79 yards late in the second period. Notre Dame 0 7 0 7-14 Purdue 7 7 7 7-28

Good News For Twins About Carew

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Twins, not the Marines, will have the services of second baseman Rod Carew in the first two games of the American League playoffs against the Baltimore Orioles.

It had been feared by Twins' officials that Carew would be serving in his military reserve unit Oct. 4-5 when the playoffs open in Baltimore. The final three games are set at Metropolitan Stadium in the Twin Cities Oct. 6-8, if the final two in the best-of-five series are needed.

Twins' President Calvin Griffith, however, said Friday Carew will accompany the team to Baltimore.

Carew, the league's leading hitter, apparently will complete his October military commitments by attending meetings next Monday and Tuesday.

Duluth Hammers St. Thomas 27-8

ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota-Duluth Bulldogs hammered St. Thomas 27-8 Saturday in Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference football behind Bob Froehle and Dan Daly.

Froehle ran 1 and 16 yards for touchdowns. Daly passed to Gary Doty for a two-point conversion and plunged for a one-yard TD.

Peter Furo raced 55 yards for Duluth's final touchdown.

Mike McCawley's one-yard dive gave the Tommies, 0-4, their only touchdown. Duluth now is 3-1.

Vet Kapp Gets Call Today To Lead Vikes Against Colts

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Joe Kapp, still trying to prove to Minnesota fans he's No. 1 and belongs, gets the call Sunday to quarterback the Minnesota Vikings against the defending National Football League champion all-time Colts and Johnny Unitas.

Kapp, a 31-year-old veteran who passed for 22,725 yards in the Canadian League and 3,059 in two NFL seasons with Minnesota, has performed amidst jeers the past two years.

The 6-foot-3, 215-pounder received his share of boos even when he helped the Vikings to the Central Division championship in 1968.

Kapp sprained his right knee in the Minnesota's second exhibition game and appeared only in the second half of the last two exhibitions. But he was in long enough to fire two inning touchdowns in each game.

He didn't play a down last Sunday when the Vikings opened the regular season and were summed 24-23 by the New York Giants.

Gary Cuozzo played the entire way, passing for 255 yards and two touchdowns. The Vikings failed to make touchdowns three times inside or near the 10-yard line and had to fall back on Fred Cox field goals.

Kapp has faced the Colts only once when United was at the controls, and the teams fought to a 20-20 tie in 1967. Baltimore whipped the Vikings 21-0 in the 1968 regular season and 24-14 for the Western Conference championship with Earl Morrall passing. Morrall will be Unitas' backup Sunday.

Unitas, the 13-year veteran who has passed for more than 33,000 yards in his career, is more worried about the Vikings defense than about Kapp.

"I've seen the movies of Minnesota's defense," Unitas has said, "and they look awfully strong. . . They've got a real good defensive line, probably better than what the Rams were."

Baltimore fell 27-20 in the Colts season opener last Sunday in Los Angeles. Unitas passed for 297 yards, more yards than any other NFL quarterback last week, and two touchdowns against the Rams.

Unitas says that he is not bothered by elbow injuries which kept him out most of last season.

His effectiveness may depend on the playing status of Colt receivers, who are nursing injuries. Split ends Jimmy Orr and Ray Perkins sustained slight muscle pulls against the Rams. Tight end Tom Mitchell twisted a knee in practice.

However, wide receiver Willie Richardson and tight end John Mackey did most of the damage against the Vikings a year ago.

The Colt defense will have to worry about Kapp's long passes to Gene Washington or John Henderson and the short tosses to bullish running backs Bill Brown and Dave Osborn and tight ends John Beasley and Jim Lindsay.

HUSKIE TOUCHDOWN . . . Winona State College linebacker Roger Jelicke (34) makes the tackle on Michigan Tech University fullback Dave Vander Heyden (43) but the damage had already been done. Vander

Hawk Offense Puts Pressure on Defense

Winona High School's offense Friday night put the pressure on the defensive unit. And several things happened: the foremost, of course, the 8-6 victory over Mankato before a standing-room-only homecoming crowd at Jefferson Field.

Forced repeatedly to withstand Mankato thrusts deep in Winona territory, the defense proved equal to the task, developing some individual heroes in the process.

The Hawks, of course, got enough points in the first quarter to win the game. The touchdown came with 6:10 remaining on an electrifying 83-yard run by Bob Follmann.

Follmann swept left end without being touched, got the last block he needed at the Mankato 40 and sped into the end zone. The clinching two-point conversion was made on a rocket pass from Mike Semling to Follmann.

But though the Hawks had completed their scoring, the action was far from over. In fact, the Winona touchdown was scored after a Mankato drive fizzled at the Hawk 17 when Kim Anderson was knocked down two yards short of a first down.

That was only to be the beginning.

The Scarlets marched right back to the Winona 31 before alternating quarterbacks Greg Krueger and John Hoffman threw four consecutive incomplete passes to end that drive.

It was after three less-than-successful plays that a pass from center sailed over punter-apparent Scott Hazelton's head, giving Mankato the ball at Winona's 27. Mankato could move only three yards in four plays, however.

Winona tried it—an attempted punt—four plays later. Result: Another mishandled snap gave Mankato the ball at the Winona 15.

The Scarlets used five plays to punch it to the one. Now it was time for the individual heroics.

The middle of the Hawk defensive line rose up to smash Anderson on a dive, jarring the ball loose in the process. Dave Ledebuhr out-fought three Scarlets for possession.

But Mankato wasn't to be denied. A Hazelton punt was returned to the Winona 17 by John Thomas and Hoffman marched his troops in four plays, the big burst a 14-yard gain by Jim Christensen from the 17 to the 3.

Hoffman got the touchdown on a sneak with 5:42 of the second quarter remaining but the attempted two-point conversion pass was batted down before it could cross the goal line.

The third quarter brought little change, although Semling's successful passing did put some life in the Winona offense.

He drove the Hawks to the Mankato 27 midway in the period before a fumble ended the drive. Early in the fourth period, Winona again called on Mankato territory, driving to the Scarlet 10 behind two Semling completions before the march expired one yard short of a first down at the Mankato 9.

There still was action to come. With less than five minutes remaining, a Hazelton punt was blocked, giving Mankato possession at the Hawk 45.

But Hazelton turned savior, intercepting a Hoffman pass and returning it to the Mankato 43.

But Mankato, on its last series, again got into Winona territory before Mike Holubar's slashing tackle knocked out an attempted Statue of Liberty play, giving the ball to Winona at Mankato's 49. Semling ran out the clock.

The Heroes?

- Follmann—119 yards gained on 15 carries.
- Ledebuhr—The important fumble recovery.
- Scott Rolbiecki—The block that sprung Follmann on his touchdown run and also the last block on the same play.
- Holubar—The last tackle, a big one because Gary Johnson did have room ahead.

"We made hard work of it," acknowledged a smiling Winona Coach Marv Gunderson, "but we finally got a win. The defense played very well . . . very well."

The complication, however, is that the Hawk offense is not working as well as it should be.

"We'll be working on it again this week," said Gunderson. And it seems likely that Winona will need a sizzling offense Friday night. The Hawks travel to unbeaten Austin, a 30-16 winner over powerful St. Cloud Tech last Friday.

"They just don't get easier," noted Gunderson.

WINNING IS GREAT . . . Part of the standing-room-only crowd at Winona High's homecoming game with Mankato Friday night toss paper into the air following the Winona High touchdown. The Hawks also scored the two-point conversion and claimed an 8-6 victory over the Scarlets. The win gave the Hawks a 1-3 record. (Bob's Portrait Studio)

Senior River Falls fullback Tim Larsen ran for 146 yards in 14 attempts and scored 22 points, all in the first half as River Falls romped past Ellsworth 56-0.

Baldwin - Woodville retained its winning ways with a 12-6 conquest of Glenwood City. New Richmond downed Hudson in the other league game on a 14-6 count.

Senior River Falls fullback Tim Larsen played only two quarters but in those two quarters he rushed for 146 yards in 14 attempts and scored 22 points in River Falls' 56-0 annihilation of Ellsworth.

Larsen scored two touchdowns on runs of three and 72 yards and he also scored five conversions. Mike Jenkins had two touchdowns on runs of seven and eight yards. Others scoring were Mike Younggren on a 72-yard kickoff return, Rick Toston on a 20-yard waitz and Fred Marnach recovered an Ellsworth fumble.

Paul Cudd and Lynn Nelson knocked the other two-point conversions.

Gale-Ettrick kept rolling along in the Coulee league race by hammering Arcadia 56-8 in the top of Friday night games. The Redmen kept their win streak in tack increasing it to 13.

Onalaska stayed in the thick of the things, but were just a step away from losing, squeaking past West Salem 7-6.

Bangor used a second quarter outburst to defeat Trempealeau 36-20. The Cardinals remained only a game out from the leaders.

ONALASKA 7 WEST SALEM 6

Onalaska met West Salem on its home field and came up the victor 7-6 in a hard fought defensive game.

The Hilltoppers did their only scoring in the first quarter when Steve Anderson intercepted a Panther pass and rambled 21 yards for the score. Bill Cantwell scored on a rare dropkick play in what proved to be the winning point.

West Salem scored in the second quarter on Dennis Wee's 36-yard dash to paydirt, but could not score on the attempt to run in for the conversion. Both defenses went to work in the final half as both teams battled in the middle of the field.

HOLMEN 38 MELROSE-MINDORO 0

Bob Beranek scored four touchdowns in pacing the Vikings to a 38-0 whitewashing of Melrose-Mindoro.

Beranek scored the first four touchdowns for the Vikings on runs of one, seven and two for three yards. He also added three two-point conversions to his total. Vern La Fleur and Steve Mulder got into the act as Mulder threw two scoring passes of three and 45 yards to La Fleur, with Mulder also kicking two extra points.

The Holmen defense gave up a total of only 93 yards to the Mustangs, while the offense racked up a total of 354 yards.

BANGOR 36 TREMPLEALEAU 20

A 21-point outburst in the second quarter sealed a 36-20 win for Bangor over Trempealeau.

Bob Seigerwald had a hand in all of that scoring in the second quarter throwing a 55-yard pass to Steve Small and scoring two TDs on a two-yard drive and a 28-yard burst. Seigerwald kicked three of his four extra points in the same period.

Dick Bright, who gained 141 yards on 28 carries, scored in the third period on a three-yard drive. Small scored his second touchdown on a seven-yard run. Ken Herman scored the conversion.

Dave Lahey scored for the Bears on a one-yard plunge. Barry Eichman returned a Cardinal kickoff for 75 yards and six points and Randy Lahey

SOPHS SPARKLE

Ramblers Upend Hill 14-6

ST. PAUL, Minn. — A group of Winona Cotter sophomores stepped in admirably for injured upperclassmen and helped lead the Cotter team to a 14-6 decision over St. Paul Hill in a Central Catholic Conference encounter here Friday night.

The win was the first of the season against three setbacks for coach John Nett's young crew.

Junior halfback Paul Stiever injured last week against St. Louis Park Benilde saw no action Friday night and two other regulars, Bob McGill and John Orzechowski were injured early and missed action the rest of the way.

"Collectively, the entire group played a whale of a game defensively," said a delighted Nett. The defensive unit got tough when it had to, stopping the Hilltoppers on the Cotter 10-yard line in the fourth quarter.

Nett cited the work of interior linemen Mark Czaplewski, Bob Leaf, Fritz Speck and John King. Tom Browne and Pat Wadden were also credited with doing a fine job of stopping Hill's wide running game. The Hilltoppers often tried the quarterback option play which was often stopped cold by the Ramblers.

Cotter scored the game's first touchdown with 57 seconds remaining in the first quarter when quarterback Steve Willgen, a junior, bulled over from one yard out. The PAT attempt failed.

Hill came back to tie the score at 6-6 with 6:22 left in the second quarter. Barry Persby latched onto a Craig Mauer pass. The pass play covered 72 yards.

The Hilltoppers then attempted a kick for the extra point and Leaf stretched out to block the attempt. "That play really fired our boys up and gave them the lift they needed," Nett said.

With 8:09 remaining in the game Willgen scored a 60-yard pass for the game's winning touchdown. Senior end Mike O'Brien was on the receiving end.

Willgen passed to Browne for the two-point conversion.

A couple of sophomores were inserted in the backfield and did a fine job of pass blocking.

Although, Cotter had only 93 yards rushing, Nett said he was pleased with the running performance which was hurt by injury. Willgen unlimbered his passing arm 13 times, and completed eight for 111 yards. Hill had 87 yards passing and 149 yards rushing.

Cotter was also out-firsted by Hill, 10-5.

"We've been encouraged the past few weeks by our performance in a loss but it is much nicer to be encouraged by the performance in a win," Nett said with a wide grin.

His smile dwindled somewhat when he was reminded that the Ramblers host a rugged Minneapolis De La Salle in a homecoming game Saturday afternoon at Jefferson Field.

De La Salle cracked St. Paul Brady 58-16 in a CCC game Friday night.

Nett's main mission this week will now be to regroup his injured forces and also assess the status of his valuable sophs. One of those sophs who he said was hard to overlook was punter Jim Lanik. Lanik punted six times for a 30.7 average. One of his punts ended on Hill's own two-yard line. Another time, he was rushed hard by the Hill defense, picked up a bad snap from center and still managed to get the punt away.

Rick House scored two touchdowns for the Wolves, one in the first frame, bulging his way into the end zone from the two-yard line, and the other from five yards away in the second period.

Jack Churchill and Tom Baarsch each added a touchdown run in the second quarter. Churchill struck from 41 yards and Baarsch from three. Jeff Ernster recorded the final score for the Wolves in the third stanza, galloping over from 49 yards away. Baarsch added a two-point conversion.

Tom Peterson returned a second quarter kick off 84 yards to put the Burros on the score board for the first time. Dan Shanahan passed 43 yards to Maynard Moen in the fourth period and Peterson raced 50 yards for the last Lanesboro touchdown of the night.

Spring Valley moved the football to nine first downs while Lanesboro collected seven.

GRAND MEADOW 32 HARMONY 0

Last week Russell Kennedy ran for five touchdowns against Lanesboro, this week with the opponent being Harmony, Kennedy ran for only four touchdowns in again leading Grand Meadow to a win, 32-0 over the Cardinals.

Kennedy did all of his scoring in the first half, scoring three TDs in the first quarter on runs of 11, 30 and 73 yards to give the Larks a 18-0 first quarter lead.

Kennedy scored his fourth TD in the second period on a 58-yard run. Grand Meadow's last score came on Bob Laganieri's nine-yard scamper. Mike Baudoin threw to Laganieri for the conversion.

CHAFFIELD 26 PRESTON 12

Scoring in every quarter and a team effort on defense enabled Chaffield to defeat Preston 26-12.

Bill Powers got the Gophers off on the right foot in the first quarter scoring on a 35-yard pass interception. Carl Luedtke counted for the second score in the second period, powering his way in from the eight-yard line.

Tom Lovejoy struck through the airways in the third quarter, hitting Dave Manahan on an 18-yarder.

Lovejoy wrapped up the Gopher scoring in the final 12 minutes plunging in from the one. Lovejoy passed to Manahan for the conversion.

Don Rustad threw two touchdowns in a losing effort. Rustad connected with Gary Helleksson in the second quarter for a 17-yard TD and in the fourth period to Sam Jaszewski on a two-yard scoring pitch.

SPRING VALLEY 32 LANESBORO 20

Spring Valley smashed away for 297 yards and 32 points

HAL-ROD LANES: Pin Dusters — Evelyn Frie (Shorty's Bar and Cafe) felled 200-513 as Beverly Biltgen, a Teamsters' substitute, and Graham & McGuire's Betty Schultz each marked 561. Graham & McGuire hit 943 and Edwin's Jewelers pitched 2,666. Helen Nelson raped 548, Patricia Brang 533, Helen Grukowski 519, and Beile Lilla 506.

Florence Holz picked up the 4-7-10 split.

ATHLETIC CLUB: Nite Owls — Sharon Praxel flipped 200-430 for Wabasha Cleaners. Curley's shot 831 and Wabasha Cleaners 2,364. Avis Schrandt converted the 4-5-7 split.

KRYZSKO COMMONS: Redmen — John Anderson (Paf-rath's Paints) rolled 208-517 in leading his team to 2,650. Doer-er's flipped 921.

Wrigley Field Site Of Bears Opener

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Bears will play their National Football League home opener against Minnesota Oct. 12 at Wrigley Field instead of Northwestern University's Dyche Stadium.

Elimination of the Cubs in the pennant race concluded any possibility of a switch. Had the Cubs won the Eastern Division title, the Bears would have played at Dyche Stadium since there would have been a possibility of the Cubs being in the World Series Oct. 12.

"There no longer are any 'ifs' about it," said Bear Business Manager Rudy Custer. The Bears expect to have the East stands up in time for the Minnesota game to boost the Wrigley Field seating capacity to 46,000.

LeRoy Shuts Out Wykoff Gridders

WYKOFF, Minn. — Lefty Ostrander took time off from Maple Leaf conference play to take on former Maple Leaf member Wykoff Friday night.

The Cardinals shut out the Wykats 24-0. It was the third straight game in which the Wykats were not able to score.

Chris Viers had himself a pretty big night scoring two touchdowns and one conversion. Viers scored on a run of six yards and on a 30-yard pass from quarterback Allen Miller.

Dan Cummings scored the other TD for the Cardinals on a one-yard plunge. Steve Hammon ran in the conversion. LeRoy's last two points were scored on a safety.

Highum Turns Passer In Peterson Triumph could muster a score after that. Ed Krugmire tallied all of Houston's points on touchdown runs of 70 yards in the opening stanza and 1 yard in the final quarter as well as a two-point conversion after his first score. Bruce Bratland blasted four yards in the first quarter for a Spring Grove touchdown. Dave Johnson added the two-point conversion. In the second period, Rick Peterson stole a Houston pass and ran it 65 yards to pay dirt.

Houston totaled 233 yards offensively to 92 for the Lions. Krugmire raced for 121 Hurricane yards. David Steele made 11 tackles for his defensive tackle position.

PETERSON 8, RUSHFORD 0. Rushford forgot that Terry Highum can not only run for touchdowns but also pass for them, which is exactly what he did in leading Peterson to 8-0 squeaker over the Trojans.

With two minutes left in the scoreless game, Tiger quarterback Duane Agrimson handed off to Highum in what appeared to be a run, but as Highum was rolling out and Mark Johnson was streaking down the field and hauled in a 25-yard halfback pass from Highum. Highum followed by blasting his way in for the conversion.

The Trojans posed only one threat, in the first quarter when, after recovering a fumble on the Peterson 30-yard line,

A mild upset and a near upset set the pace in Friday night's play in the Root River. The Peterson Tigers used the many moves of their high scoring back Terry Highum to defeat a determined Rushford team 8-0. Highum threw a halfback pass to Mark Johnson for the winning score with two minutes left in the game.

Caledonia ruined La Crescent's perfect conference record of 2-0 by handing the Lancers a 30-14 beating. Tom Moenck gained 209 yards in 28 attempts in pacing the Warriors.

Lewiston fought off a hard Mabel-Canton squad edging the Cougars 12-6. All of the scoring was done in the first half.

In the battle of the also-rans Houston and Spring Grove tied 14-14. Houston came back in the fourth to tie the score on Ed Krugmire's one-yard plunge.

LA CRESCENT BEATEN 30-14

Warrior Halfback Moenck Turns Sour on Lancers

By HOWARD LESTRUD
Sunday News Sports Writer

La CRESCENT, Minn. — Caledonia junior halfback Tom Moenck (180) turned into a "sour apple" to La Crescent football fans as he spoiled Apple Festival festivities leading Caledonia to a 30-14 triumph over the Lancers here Friday night.

Moenck scored two touchdowns, one on a nine-yard run in the first quarter and the second on a 56-yard escape in the second period of the Root River Conference battle.

Coach Felix Percuccio's pride and joy (Moenck) rushed for 209 yards in 28 carries. He had 149 yards to his credit in the first half.

"We really killed them tonight and the blocking up front was just fantastic," said a jubilant Moenck while munching on a La Crescent apple. "Boy, these La Crescent apples are sure good," he smiled.

"I KNEW they would be tough," said a still-disbelieving Lancer coach Earl Seaton after his team had dropped its first loss after winning its four games of the season.

Seaton had nothing but praise for the Caledonia offensive unit. "They ran over us; if we would have put another 11 in with our other defensive 11, I don't think we would have stopped them tonight."

Each Warrior grinner was treated to an apple following the sweet victory, but no player enjoyed the apples more than offensive linemen Ken Schmitt and Paul Schultz, ends; Cary Wohlers, center; Bob Lang and Howie Schultz guards and Darrel Bunke tackles. The entire Warrior coaching staff tipped their hats to those linemen saying they were the difference in the game.

Seaton's Warriors attempted to pass themselves back into the game behind the strong arm of Peter Seaton, son of the coach, but alert play in the Warrior secondary prevented the Lancers to pull within striking distance late in the game.

La Crescent trailed 16-0 at halftime and did not pick up its first score until 10:44 of the third period when Seaton threw a 32-yard touchdown pass to senior end Steve Robinson. Junior halfback Mike Lathrop ran for the two-point conversion.

Lancer fans scented a possible comeback win at this point, but the valiant warriors marched 72 yards in 19 plays for a touchdown. Quarterback Tony Albert scored on a two-yard sneak to cap the drive.

Following Caledonia's score, La Crescent began a drive late in the third quarter, sustained it in the fourth quarter and scored at 8:47 when Robinson latched on to a 21-yard Seaton aerial.

SEATON'S final TD pass almost turned into a Caledonia touchdown. Robinson dropped the ball flying toward the end zone but recovered it in the end zone.

Fullback Ron Meiners scored the last Warrior touchdown at 6:05 of the fourth quarter from four yards away. Moenck slanted over the right side to convert the points after touchdown.

Wiry Mike Sheehan snuffed out La Crescent's last hopes of coming alive in the final quarter.

He intercepted a Seaton aerial on the Caledonia 13-yard stripe with 2:58 remaining and snared another Seaton pass on the Warrior 35 with just seconds remaining.

"Each one of the kids played a complete ball game," said a grinning Percuccio. "This was indeed our best game of the season and the kids just took the charge and the initiative away from La Crescent right at the start."

The Warriors, 2-1-1 host Rushford Friday while the Lancers, 4-1 travel to Spring Grove.

SLIPS AND SLIDES . . . Caledonia's strong junior halfback Tom Moenck (50) slashes off left tackle in a Root River battle with La Crescent on the Lancers' home field Friday night. Moenck rushed for 209 yards in 28 attempts, scored two touchdowns and also scored a two-point conversion in the Warriors' 30-14 triumph.

TEAMS STAND AT 3-0

St. Charles, Zumbrota Hold Lead

HIAWATHA VALLEY
St. Charles 3-0	Plainview 1-2
Zumbrota 3-0	Kelly 1-2
Lake City 2-1	Cannon Falls 1-2
Kasson-Mant. 1-1	Stewartville 0-3

St. Charles and Zumbrota breezed to relatively easy wins in Hiawatha Valley Conference action Friday night and stand deadlocked for the first place spot in the standings.

The Saints whipped Plainview 18-0, behind the running of Dick Mathison, Jim Glover and Loren Hewitt. Zumbrota trimmed Kenyon 24-12 scoring eight points in each of the first three quarters.

In the other league games Lake City outlasted Kasson-Mantoville 38-22 and Cannon Falls bounced past Stewartville 28-16.

LAKE CITY 38, KASSON-MANTOVILLE 22. Dave Mallard scored a pair of touchdowns and Randy Ahrens skirled for 223 yards in 20 carries to lead Lake City to a 38-22 triumph over Kasson-Mantoville.

Mallard scored on runs of three and five yards. Ahrens scored on a five yard run. Other Tiger TD's were scored by Dave Patman on a 14-yard pass from Terry Kieffer and by Glen Parmater on a six-yard run.

Dean Feigal, Dave Keller and Tom Threinen scored for the Komets. Keller also had two two-point conversions. John Me-

Kenzie, Meland, Ahrens and Parmater all collected two-pointers for Lake City.

ZUMBROTA 24, KENYON 12. Not even Eli Whitney who did score one touchdown for Kenyon could stop Zumbrota's Tigers from pulling out a 24-12 win.

The Tigers scored the magic "figure eight" in each of the first three quarters. Scott Bradley caught a 15-yarder for a touchdown from Mike Evert, Tony Wawrozek scored on a six-yard run and Scott Bradley scored again on a one-yard run to account for the Tigers' touchdowns. Bob Nemec scored all PAT's.

Jim Swiggum scored on a four-yard pass from Wendell Ring to account for the other Viking score.

CANNON FALLS 28, STEWARTVILLE 16.

Cannon Falls ground out 314 yards rushing and also ground out a 2-15 win over a stubborn Stewartville at Cannon Falls.

Don Nappin tallied three touchdowns for Cannon Falls, one on a five-yard run, another on a three-yard run and the latter on a one-yard run.

Brad Hemmahl notched the other Falls TD on a 30-yard excursion.

Stev Blakely registered both Stewartville scores. The first came on a 30-yard romp and the second on a 39-yard run after taking a lateral from the quarterback on a broken play.

The Tigers rushed for 147 yards. Doug Robinson and Graig Banks were credited with turning in fine defensive games for Falls. Falls led in first downs, 16-4.

PLAINVIEW 0, ST. CHARLES 18.

St. Charles scored in three of the four stanzas and held the Gophers to only 68 total yards in racking up its fifth straight victory and fourth shutout with a 18-0 triumph.

Dick Mathison plowed over from the eight in the first quarter for the Saints' first score. In the third period, he sprinted 58 yards, putting St. Charles on the scoreboard for the second time of the game.

Jim Glover ran from the Plainview 32-yard line in the final quarter for the Saints' last touchdown of the night.

St. Charles gained 262 total yards and Mathison, Glover and Loren Hewitt accounted for 252 of those on the ground. St. Charles nabbed one Plainview aerial and Plainview picked up a St. Charles fumble.

Richard Nienow was credited with an outstanding defensive line game for the Saints by his coach, John Smoltz.

Eleva-Strum Tips Osseo

Eleva-Strum upset the Osseo-Fairchild express with a stubborn defense and the only touchdown it needed to haul in the 6-0 win.

The Cardinals picked up the winning score in the second period via an express of their own, the air express. Eleva-Strum quarterback Dennis Barneson pitched a 23-yard scoring pass to end Ron Bue after a fumble recovery set the Cardinals up in enemy territory.

Eleva-Strum's defense staved off the Chieftain attack for the duration of that 6-0 advantage.

Three fumbles and three interceptions threatened the Cardinal victory, but Osseo-Fairchild bobbled the ball seven times and had five passes stolen.

Eleva-Strum totaled 165 yards and Osseo-Fairchild piled up 190 in its losing effort.

Alma Narrowly Tips Goodhue

CENTENNIAL
Wabasha 2-0	Mazeppa 6-10
Alma 2-1	Faribault 6-11
Elgin 2-1	Randolph 6-11
Goodhue 1-1

The race in the Centennial remained tight after Friday night's encounters. Wabasha remained undefeated after 13 games slugging Randolph 25-8.

Elgin made its homecoming a success by defeating Faribault 46-14.

Fred Lorentson and Dave Phipps both scored two touchdowns in pacing the Watchmen.

Alma almost did not rebound after its loss to Wabasha last week, narrowly beating Goodhue 8-6. A Barry Ritcher to Jeff Youngbauer touchdown pass and conversion was the difference in the game.

ELGIN 46, FARIBAUT DEAF 14. Elgin scored in every period in their 46-14 rampage over Faribault Deaf.

Fred Lorentson scored 14 points in the first quarter on a 38-yard pass from Kevin Segurd, a 45-yard run, and a two-point conversion. David Phipps rambled for two touchdowns, a 11-yard second frame dash and a 1-yard blast in the third.

Lorentson again rattled the Hilltoppers' defense, this time with a 80-yard scoring sprint in the third stanza. Tim Tucker passed to Bradley Erwin for a fourth quarter touchdown.

Faribault bagged its 14 points in the fourth period. Billy Inboden broke loose for a 42-yard scoring run and Lanny Mebus followed with another touchdown, legging it in from 36 yards away. Rollin Onness converted for two Faribault Deaf points.

The Watchmen recorded eight first downs on 382 total yards and Faribault Deaf had four first downs and 274 yards.

Watchmen Jack Parker, Damien Schleicher, and Jim Ernst were extolled for their defensive play.

ALMA 8, GOODHUE 6.

With 30 seconds left in the first half Alma scored what proved to be the winning touchdown, to edge Goodhue 8-6.

Barry Ritcher connected with Jeff Youngbauer with the long bomb of 55 yards for the only Alma TD. Ritcher hit Youngbauer again for the winning points on the conversion.

Goodhue scored in the third quarter on a Mike McNamara one-yard plunge. The attempt for the conversion by way of the run failed.

The Rivermen outgained the Wildcats in total yardage 240 yards to 230.

WABASHA 25, RANDOLPH 8.

Wabasha spotted Randolph a 8-7 first quarter lead and then came back to swamp the Rock-ets 25-8. All the scoring was done in the first half.

Bob Scheel raced 39 yards for the Indians' first TD and boot-ed the extra point. Forest Burfind plowed in from the one and Randolph converted the two-point PAT to take the lead.

Wabasha struck three times in the second frame, twice on Jeff Lang to Kim Koenig tosses and once on a pass interception return by Mike Kasper.

David Arens, Mike Gorsalski and John Bouquet, tackle, end and linebacker, respectively, received praise for their defensive efforts.

Indian Head Country Smiles Again

By HOWARD LESTRUD
Sunday News Sports Editor

BUFFALO, CITY, Wis. — Indian Head Country has been called "the country that smiles for miles and miles."

That smile had turned into a frown this past summer due to what Northwestern Wisconsin naturalists call "adverse publicity." A tow boat rammed the Alma Dam early in the summer leaving an oil slick on the Mississippi River and also leaving a smudge on the Indian Head Country tourist trade.

Five newsmen, two game wardens, a forester and a resort guide spent most of last Tuesday on the Mississippi River near Buffalo City examining the "Mighty Mississippi" and its natural resources.

General consensus of the group following the day of duckwatching and fishing was that the river area is still full of recreational might and shows no evidence of pollution from the infamous "oil slick" or from other means of pollution.

Making the trip Tuesday were: Lou Kassera, George Gately, Leo Howard and Karl Holbrook of Eau Claire, Wis., radio and television stations, myself, Dean Volenic, game warden at Ellsworth, Wis., John Holmes, game warden at Menomonie, Wis., Ed Godel, forester for the Department of Natural Resources and Gerald Duval, owner of the Mississippian, a tourist resort in Buffalo City.

The entire day was planned by Wisconsin Indian Head Country Inc. and Duval.

Tuesday's visitors got a sneak preview of what to expect come opening day of duck season Saturday, while guided by Duval on a houseboat.

Thousands of ducks were spotted on Spring Lake. Godel and Holmes estimated that 500 hunters would be hiding behind blinds come opening day.

Godel said that hunters are spaced in locations every 20 to 30 yards. "It looks like a combat zone," offered Holmes, while piloting a game warden's boat downriver.

Despite being ruffled by a sharp breeze, the tourists turned fishermen in a hurry—and turned out to be quite the fishermen.

No 12, 15 or even 20-pounders were caught, but the many pan fish that were caught brought a twinkle to the eyes of the visiting fishermen. Many largemouth bass were caught, giving encouragement to each of the fishermen including the wardens.

"The bass were caught, boom, boom," Duval said. "This signifies that fishing can go no place but up."

Duval's tourist business was somewhat damaged this summer by reports that the "oil slick" had killed the river's vegetation and also put a damper on fishing. "We received calls from Gary, Ind., and from St. Louis, Mo., from people who were canceling reservations," Duval said.

He explained to the group of appointed-evaluators that the Coast Guard had corrected the oil leakage and prevented the pollutant from spreading.

The owner of the Mississippian admitted that pollution is evident above Lake Pepin but not as evident downriver.

Tuesday's excursion gave members of the press a first-hand report and also gave the press a fishing treat. As usual, arguments arose over who would catch the largest fish before the trip began and arguments still persisted over who had caught the biggest fish.

One fisherman was told by his partner, "That angle worm you've got on your hook is the biggest thing you have caught all day."

Identifying Ducks

Waterfowl identification, especially that of ducks, again is going to be a headache during the coming 40-day season. The 'one-only' regulation covering mallards, canvasbacks, and readheads has been further complicated by the new teal order.

A sharp eye will be needed to pick out a blue wing from a green wing teal. Of course, if you should drop one of these little ducks, it can be counted as one of four regulars in a daily limit.

However, the teal problem will be present only from Oct. 4 to Oct. 12. The bonus bluewing can be taken only during that period, after that it will become just one of the four birds of a daily limit.

River bottomland hunters' take, at least for the first weeks, probably will contain as many wood ducks as any birds available. Two woodies and four in possession, is a liberal.

When the mornings are frosty, hunters will get another bonus—two scaup or bluebills in addition to the regular limit of four other ducks. This bonus can be taken from Nov. 1-12.

Similar Regulations

This fall, both Minnesota and Wisconsin hunters will be governed by the same general rule, limits and shooting hours — one-half hour before sunrise to sunset — but the old rule requiring hunters to stay on their respective sides, of Old Man River will be there for the wardens to enforce.

Federal hunting rules have not been modified to a noticeable extent. The closed areas for the refuge, Bart Foster tells us, have undergone no changes and re-posting has re-established the old boundaries.

State laws have been adjusted to some extent, such as the Minnesota motorboat law, and the protection of coot, Wisconsin is also going to put strength in its safe boating law.

Synopsis of Hunting Laws

The 1969 Minnesota Legislature passed several new laws that pertain to hunting.

The following list, compiled by Fran Johnson, assistant chief conservation officer, includes law changes that will affect hunters this season.

LICENSES — Game and fish licenses' residency period requirements reduced to 60 days. This applies only to game and fish licenses.

UPLAND GAME — Canada Spruce Grouse removed from protective list; can have open season.

FIREARMS — Casing of firearms; describes encased as "completely contained in a gun case, expressly made for that purpose, which is fully zipped, snapped, buckled, tied or otherwise fastened, with no portion of the firearm exposed."

WATERFOWL — Prohibits the shooting of coots from open water. Same protection as other waterfowl.

Authorize the taking of migratory waterfowl from a floating craft, including those propelled by motor, sail and wind, or both under certain circumstances. This amendment conforms the state migratory waterfowl law with existing federal laws and regulations.

FISHING EXCURSION . . . The Wisconsin Indian Head Country Inc., and Gerald Duval, owner of the Mississippian at Buffalo City, Wis., sponsored a special news media Mississippi River excursion last Tuesday to evaluate the natural resources of the river. In the photo above, forester Ed Godel of Alma, Wis., pilots a boat to a new fishing spot. Below, Godel and other members of the party wait to "catch the big one." (Sunday News photos)

1970 Fishing Seasons Set

Southeastern Minnesota fishermen, hopeful of year-around trout fishing promised by local legislators and reportedly included in laws enacted at the last session of the legislature, apparently got "taken," fishing rules announced by the department today reveal.

Here are the details for the next year.

The law, as passed, gave the control of the season to fisheries men who, of course, are opposed to, winter trout fishing.

1970 Fishing Season

Hunter's 'Eye' Can Be Improved

Duck hunters, huddled along the water's edge in the dim light of morning, don't do very well in identifying one duck species from another.

Recent data gathered by University of Wisconsin wildlife ecologists concludes that "the majority of duck hunters cannot identify waterfowl on the wing to the degree assumed by present species management regulations." But special training can improve the situation.

The research was carried out by James O. Evrard, a graduate student now with the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources; and Clay Schoenfeld, department of wildlife ecology.

Evrard conducted experiments on hunters' ability to identify ducks in the University Bay area of Lake Mendota in Madison, and at the Horicon National Wildlife area. In the Madison test, experienced and novice hunters were asked to identify the species of duck as soon as they estimated the duck to be within gun range. Blinds, decoys and calls were used to lure birds within range.

Evrard, equipped with field glasses, checked on the accuracy of the hunters' sightings.

Results showed that the 20 experienced hunters participating in the experiment correctly identified 74 percent of the 166 waterfowl flights that came within range. The novice hunters were able to correctly identify only 52 percent of 129 flights which came within their range.

Level of correct identifications is probably below that needed to make species management of waterfowl effective, the researcher points out.

Species management is a regulatory technique that attempts to protect certain species of ducks at low population levels from heavy gunning pressure. At the same time, the management technique encourages hunting pressure on those species that are consistently underharvested, Evrard explains.

For example, this year Wisconsin duck hunters are limited to a daily bag limit of four "regular" ducks. The daily bag may contain either one canvasback or one red head, plus one mallard, one hooded merganser and two wood ducks.

This regulation tells hunters that canvasbacks and red heads are in short supply, that mallards and hooded mergansers are also in fairly short supply, and that wood ducks are slightly more plentiful. Blue and green wing teal and other "regular" ducks are around in numbers great enough to be protected only by the daily bag limit of four.

What Evrard's research points out is that most hunters can't consistently identify one species of duck from another, so the regulatory protection for duck species in scarce supply does not operate effectively.

Later research at the Horicon National Wildlife area did show, however, that duck hunters could be taught to identify ducks on the wing with significantly greater accuracy.

Evrard selected two groups of average hunters to participate in his experiment. One group was given classroom training in proper identification of ducks. Films, slides, black and white plates and other educational materials were used.

Then members of the trained and untrained hunters groups went into the field to identify duck species. Each was given a wooden-barreled "shot gun" with a camera mounted underneath. When the hunter thought a particular duck was in range, he pulled the trigger which activated the camera. At the same time, he identified the type of duck he thought he was shooting at.

When Evrard tabulated results, he found that the trained hunters were able to correctly identify significantly greater numbers of flights than untrained hunters. Trained hunters correctly identified 82 percent of the flights compared to untrained hunters who correctly identified 70 percent of the flights.

In the featured Big Nine Conference battle Friday night, Albert Lea spotted Rochester John Marshall a 6-0 lead and came back to walloper the Rockets 35-12 and record its 26th straight triumph over a four-year span.

The Tigers are now tied with Austin for the league lead. Each is 3-0. The Packers defeated St. Cloud Tech 30-16 in a non-conference game.

In other conference games Winona won its first league game edging Mankato 8-6 and Owanton and Rochester Mayo fought to a 14-14 deadlock. Red Wing dropped a non-conference decision 27-12 to Northfield.

Dan Fahrman threw two touchdown passes for the Tigers and Red Tovar ran for two scores. Fred Jensen, Kevin Koller, Craig Folven and Paul Hendrickson scored for Austin.

Quotable Quotes of Notables

Mrs. Haskell Karp
"A man is drowning—grasps a life preserver—does he examine it for flaws? He does not." — Mrs. Haskell Karp, defending the use of a contravertically totally mechanical heart in a vain attempt to keep her husband alive.

Helen McGee
"It is a waste of taxpayers' money to try to educate a child who is hungry; he's just not alert. I'd like to see the school lunch program made available to every school child in the country." — Helen McGee, president of the American School Food Service Association, in an interview.

Betty Hughes
"I didn't think I was so great. I thought Merv Griffin was great, but it's not his show." — Betty Hughes, wife of New Jersey's governor, after the premiere of her TV show, "Betty Hughes and Friends."

Mrs. Ernest Hemingway
"Ernest was a great admirer of President Kennedy. Since he was never affiliated with any university, I could think of no place where he would rather have had his words made available to scholars and students than in the Kennedy collection." — Mrs. Ernest Hemingway, explaining her decision to give a collection of her late husband's manuscripts and documents to the John F. Kennedy Library at Harvard.

Couple Wed In Rushford Lutheran Rite

RUSHFORD, Minn. — Miss Lorraine Gaustad and Paul Benson were married Sept. 20 at Rushford Lutheran Church with the Rev. Owen Gassenden officiating at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gaustad, Rushford, and Mrs. Clifford Benson and the late Mr. Benson, Peterson.

THE BRIDE wore a gown of white tulle and chantilly lace with a fitted bodice and detachable train. Her bouffant silk English illusion veil was held by a camelot bonnet and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Miss Joan Benson, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and Mrs. Grant Mulholland, Mrs. Charles Vix, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Lon Omdt were bridesmaids. Flower girl was Mary Holten. The attendants wore gold crepe gowns with brown velvet trim and matching gold camelot headpieces. They carried single long stemmed bronze chrysanthemums.

Karol Benson was best man and Robert Holten, Charles Edenshink, Orrell Hanson were groomsmen. Ring bearer was Jeff Holten. Ushers were Charles Vix and Grant Mulholland.

A RECEPTION was held in the church parlors following the ceremony and the bridegroom's mother was hostess to the wedding party at a rehearsal dinner at Golfview Supper Club.

The bride, a graduate of Winona Medical Secretarial School, is employed by Tri-County Electric, Rushford. Benson, a graduate of Luther College, is co-owner of Benson Feed Mill, Inc., Peterson, where the couple will reside.

Young Americans For Freedom Tackle SDS

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Young Americans for Freedom, a national group seeking recognition as a middle-of-the-road campus organization, tackled the Students for a Democratic Society over college military training Friday.

Members of the YAF debated loudly with the SDS at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, and challenged SDS spokesmen to justify the leftist group's sponsorship of an antiwar demonstration that disrupted three classrooms Thursday.

David W. Robinson, UWM's dean of students, estimated up to 150 students engaged in a 45-minute, noisy "verbal confrontation" over methods of opposing Reserve Officer Training Corps programs.

A student witness described the scene as a product of a shouting match between "a girl representing the SDS and the Yaffers."

Widow Reports House Built On Wrong Lot

CAPISTRANO BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A 66-year-old widow lives in rented quarters near here, although the house she ordered built is already standing. She can't move in because she says the builder put it on the wrong lot.

"You can hardly believe it—a contractor building a house on the wrong lot," says Alice Case. "Sounds hilarious..." but neither she, the builder, the subcontractor, nor the woman who owns the lot is laughing.

For a year, since the mistake was discovered, they've all been involved in a legal hassle over who should be paid for the work, and who's entitled to collect damages.

Four Wells Men Convicted of Robbing Bank

ST. PAUL (AP) — Four Wells, Minn., men were convicted Friday in Federal District Court here of robbing the First National Bank of Good Thunder, Minn., last December.

Judge Edward J. Devitt ordered a pre-sentence investigation after a jury of six men and six women announced the verdict.

Convicted of the $6,500 robbery were Warren J. Allen, 24; Jerome B. Schroeder, 21; Gerald M. Ewert, 19, and Anthony A. Messer, 19.

Key witness in the case was Clifford Lindholm of Wells. He testified that one of the defendants had asked him to go along on the robbery.

BUT THERE ARE FLAWS

Protestants, Jews Enjoy Freedom in North Ireland

By THOMAS J. HAMILTON
DUBLIN, Ireland — In the Irish Republic, where people still talk of the battle of the Boyne and Cromwell's massacre of the Catholic garrison at Drogheda as if they happened yesterday, the treatment of the Protestant minority seems to shine like a good deed in a naughty world.

Closer inspection reveals flaws in the idyllic picture. But the fact remains that 120,000 Protestants and 4,000 Jews are completely outnumbered in a nation of three million and enjoy complete religious liberty.

THE IRISH Republic, despite its turbulent history since British rule ended in 1922, has never known the religious riots that recently destroyed parts of Belfast and Londonderry.

The problem of religious instruction in the schools has been solved by segregating pupils according to religion. The government pays the bills but leaves the curriculum to the selection of teachers, and other management functions to the local Catholic, Protestant and Jewish clergy.

Although Protestants are in general more friendly to Britain, the pro-British diehards mostly emigrated after the 26 counties of southern Ireland won dominion status in 1921.

In any case, the fact that Charles Stewart Parnell, Robert Emmet, and other great Irish patriots were Protestants, clears them of any possible charges of disloyalty.

In contrast with the depressed status of the Catholic minority in the north, the southern Protestants are more prosperous than the Catholic majority, and have even risen to high political office.

Dr. Douglas Hyde, a Protestant scholar, who had pioneered the revival of Gaelic, the language of Ireland before the British conquest, had the largely honorific post of president of the republic from 1938 to 1945.

TODAY ERSKINE Childers, another Protestant, is deputy prime minister, and there are two other Protestant members of the Dail, which corresponds to the U.S. House of Representatives. And all the world knows about the late Robert Briscoe, the Jewish Lord Mayor of Dublin.

Once all this has been said, however, the fact remains that the Protestants of the south are very conscious that they live in a Catholic society which, they feel, uses both written and unwritten laws to compel them to conform to Catholic doctrines.

They complain of the absolute prohibition of divorce, birth control, and even of publications advocating birth control.

Protestants are particularly exercised over the question of mixed marriages and the Catholic church's requirement that the Protestant spouse give a commitment that the children be brought up as Catholics if the marriage is to be recognized by the church.

Several years ago a complicated suit over the custody of the children of a broken mixed marriage resulted in a decision making such a commitment enforceable by the Irish courts.

Asked to explain the contrast between the treatment of the religious minority by Dublin and Stormont, the southern Protestants reply that the 500 thousand Catholics of Northern Ireland have never accepted partition and are a real challenge to control by the one million Protestants.

IN THE IRISH Republic, on the other hand, 95 percent of the population is Catholic. Protestants argue that since they have accepted Dublin's rule, and are too weak to be a threat, the government can afford to be generous.

A more biting comment came from one of the Protestant leaders, Maurice Dockrell, a member of the Dail, a former lord mayor of Dublin, and a member of the council of state, a group of elder statesmen created to advise President de Valera:

"They are treating us like household pets to try to show that if Ireland were united there would be no oppression of the northern Protestants."

Along with other Protestants, Dockrell conceded that it is possible to live with most of the laws enforcing Catholic doctrine. Since divorces obtained outside Ireland are recognized, Protestants (and some Catholics) obtain them in England or other countries.

In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY of Darrel Pelowski, who passed away 1 year ago today:
Fondly loved and deeply mourned. Heart of our hearts, we miss you so. Oh, my darling, our tears will flow. Dimming your picture before our eyes. But never the one in our heart that lies.
The stars seem dim as we whisper low: "Our own darling boy, we miss you so."
Sadly missed by Mom, Dad, Brothers & Sister

IN LOVING MEMORY of Mrs. Jacob Schmidt, who passed away 33 years ago, Sept. 27, 1936.
God has called our Mother, Away from a world of strife. To shine among the angels in a fairer, brighter life. Safe in the arms of Jesus, friends, Safe from all grief and sin. Forever and forever.
Where all is pure within. Our hearts are full of sorrow. And tears have dimmed our eyes. But we shall meet her once again in the home beyond the skies.
What is home without a Mother. Only those who lost can tell. And when we meet our Mother, We lost our dearest friend.

No Indication on Haynsworth Ballot

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee has heard all the witnesses, but there is no indication when it will vote on the nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth to the Supreme Court.

Seven days of testimony came to a close Friday with civil rights leaders firing the parting shots in opposition to the nomination.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said he was uncertain whether his committee would vote at its meeting next Tuesday. He said he would be reluctant to report out a Supreme Court nominee if only a bare quorum were present for the meeting.

Eastland noted that Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., who has been studying Haynsworth's financial and judicial records, has reserved the right to recall the judge for more questioning. And a union spokesman has suggested recalling Haynsworth to testify concerning four cases involving Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co. and Grace Lines, Inc.

Irving Abramson, general counsel of the International Electrical Workers union, told Eastland in a letter that Haynsworth had a "substantial stockholder interest" in the firms and should be asked why he did not disqualify himself when cases involving them came before his 4th Court of Appeals.

Even if Haynsworth is not recalled to testify, Eastland pointed out that the nomination could lay over automatically for a week at the request of any committee member. Such a move would mean Haynsworth could not be confirmed by the Senate before the Oct. 6 start of the New Supreme Court term.

President Nixon at a news conference and Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell in an interview Friday reaffirmed their backing for Haynsworth.

Critics of the nomination have conceded they expect Haynsworth to be confirmed.

At the Friday session, Yale law school student J. Otis Cochran said Haynsworth "stands as a symbol of the continued failures of American society to make good on its promises to all its citizens." Cochran is national chairman of the Black American Law Students Association.

Little Falls Youth Requests Hair Injunction

LITTLE FALLS, Minn. (AP)

—A Little Falls youth has asked federal court for a permanent injunction requiring the school board to readmit him to his high school.

The petition by 17-year-old Bruce Westley, son of Dr. and Mrs. Kent Westley, is believed to be the first federal suit in the state in the controversy over hair length.

Westley was suspended under an Aug. 25 school board resolution requiring boys to have "neat, conventional haircuts."

U.S. District Judge Philip Neville will hear the case Oct. 6 in Minneapolis.

Umbrella Folds Up by Itself

New York Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The trademark for an invention patented by Robert Brooks of New York is TUFFI, meaning "This Umbrella Folds Itself."

As manufactured, it comes in three models — for men, women and golfers. When closed, the women's size is only a foot long, and opens to a diameter of nearly three feet.

BROOKS, who is vice president of the wholesaler, L. P. Henryson & Co. Inc., and two Japanese co-inventors were granted Patent 3,467,115. The Rainmaker umbrellas are manufactured for Henryson in Japan.

The men's model, when collapsed, is about 20 inches over all, and the one intended to fit in a golf bag pocket is a little shorter. By next year Brooks hopes to produce a briefcase-size umbrella for men.

Any of the umbrellas opens at a pull on the handle and a push against the slide attached to the folding ribs.

A device produced in the aerospace optical division of International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation at Fort Wayne, Ind., detects early radio signals from nuclear explosions.

CONTROLS linked to the detector may be used to close doors in installations or to operate remote alarms before damage is caused by the shock wave.

A number of detectors have been supplied to defense agencies and military contractors, and some are in use.

Patent 3,467,825 was issued this week to I.T.T. The inventor is Robert W. Cotterman of Nashua, N. H., who was a development engineer for the company when he applied.

For the production of pilings long enough and strong enough to support floating airports and floating cities of the future, a lawyer has invented apparatus to pour them from a boat.

THE PROCEDURE, protected by Patent 3,466,879, issued to Donald S. Justice of Arlington, Va., is to construct a conduit from spiral sheet metal with a closed bottom and fill it with concrete.

The conduit may be supported on a twisted wire as it is formed as the concrete is poured, and the wire may be left in place for added strength.

Justice points out that his system offers piling with no limit on length. Readymade piles big enough to reach the ocean bottom might be longer than a ship.

Two Californians have patented a mechanism that tosses a golf ball out of the hole after a putt.

THE PRINCIPAL object set forth by John A. English of Corona Del Mar and Tor W. Peterson of San Pedro is to reduce foot traffic and damage to the putting green around the hole. They received Patent 3,467,378.

When a ball falls in, the device delays a short time and then ejects it. Subsequent balls are thrown out in different directions. If the flag stick is inserted in the hole, the ejection device will not function.

Each of the approximately 800,000 telephone calls handled daily by the Winona office of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company will activate two or more of these crossbar switches installed during the past year as a part of a $4 million expansion and improvement project. One section of the frames housed in a new addition to the plant at West 3rd and Johnson streets is seen here as Ron Dunn, left, job supervisor for Western Electric Co., supplier of telephone equipment for the project, and Norman Nelson, service supervisor for Winona, test the operation of the new equipment. Installation of the new equipment will make possible the inclusion Dec. 7 of the Winona service area in the nationwide Direct Distance Dialing network.

$4 Million Project Brings Direct Distance Dialing to Area

Long Distance Shrinks With DDD

By C. GORDON HOLTE
Sunday Editor

A PREDICTION made some 90 years ago when the first telephone conversation in Winona crackled and sputtered across a few yards of wire strung between two downtown offices will realize new fulfillment late this fall when the final link is clasped to place Winona area residents in dramatically new and closer voice contact with millions of telephone users across the nation.

On Dec. 7 the area served by Northwestern Bell Company's Winona office will be joined in the farflung Direct Distance Dialing (DDD) network that will bring subscribers here within 11 flicks of the telephone dial — or, on certain instruments, as many pushbutton taps — of a friend, relative or business contact almost anywhere on the North American continent.

In the culmination that day of a $4 million physical expansion and improvement project that has been in progress for more than a year, Winona also will assume a new and significant role as a major regional toll center in Northwestern Bell's system.

The transition to direct distance dialing will represent the most ambitious development in telephone service in the Winona area since a pioneer Minneapolis communications technician, F. H. Herrick, arrived here early in 1880 to supervise the first telephone installation in this city.

There were 21 subscribers to the new service when Herrick set up an office on the second floor of a Center Street building that year and an experimental transmission prompted an observation by the editor of the Winona Republican that "The exchange promises to be a great convenience in dispatching business and, of course, all of the leading concerns and offices in town will be attached to the popular highway of rapid communication. The achievement already made by the telephone gives promise of still more wonderful results."

Speaking a few months before the first attempts at long distance calls between Winona and Minneapolis — the signals then were so weak that conversations had to be relayed at intermediate points between the two cities — he couldn't have envisioned the most recent forthcoming "result" which will allow Winonans to dial directly a good many of the more than 100 million telephones now in use throughout the United States.

For users of the 12,000 telephones served by the Winona office in Winona, Goodview, Witoka and adjacent rural areas the advent of direct distance dialing and associated service and equipment improvements will effect a number of changes in telephone use and habits.

In the first place, prior to the Dec. 7 changeover all subscribers will be assigned new seven-digit numbers, replacing the familiar four- and five-digit identifications of the past.

When he makes his first telephone call on that day the user will notice a subtle difference in the dial tone when he hears a humming sort of sound rather than the buzzing dial tone to which he has been accustomed.

The most noticeable difference, of course, will be apparent when he makes his first long distance call.

Dan McDonell, manager of the Winona Northwestern Bell Telephone office, explains that with direct distance dialing the placing of a long distance call becomes a vastly simplified and faster procedure. In most cases, no longer will it be necessary to dial 0 for the long distance operator, wait for an operator at the central switchboard to answer, give her his number and the number to be called and then wait for the operator to dial the distant number.

With DDD the caller simply dials the number 1 to gain access to the direct distance dialing network, then the area code number of the community he is calling and, finally, the seven digits of the distant number.

In other words, the distant number will be ringing in the time it takes to flick the dial 11 times, probably, in most cases, less than 10 seconds.

Subscribers, at an additional charge, also will be offered the convenience of Bell System's "Touch-Tone" telephone, an instrument in which 10 pushbuttons replace the conventional dial and a number to be called can be tapped out in a matter of only two to five seconds.

The user of the electronically-operated Touch-Tone instrument will hear a series of musical tones in his headset as he touches each of the pushbuttons while tapping out his number.

As an adjunct to the change in operations, some 900 telephones serving Winona State College administrative offices, dormitory rooms, service and other facilities after Jan. 4 will be embraced in a Centrex-type service system which allows direct dialing to each station rather than channeling each call through the campus switchboard.

Each of the 900-odd telephones on the campus will be assigned

This central control panel represents part of the equipment installed in the expanded Northwestern Bell Telephone Company office here in a $4 million improvement project which will allow for the inauguration of Direct Distance Dialing service in this area beginning Dec. 7. a number and a specific office or room may be called directly by dialing the prefix number 457 and then the number to be called.

While a new telephone number, a different dial tone and, perhaps, a new instrument in his home or office and a quicker, more efficient way of placing long distance telephone calls will be of greatest interest to the average telephone user beginning Dec. 7, the most dramatic aspect of the $4 million improvement project is seen in the expanded central office at West 3rd and Johnson streets.

Here a new addition to the original telephone building and the 1965 addition has been constructed to house the equipment that will establish within the year Winona as the direct dialing home office for all of Southeastern Minnesota.

Since early this year as many as 50 employees of Western Electric — Northwestern Bell's equipment supplier — have been brought to Winona to work with some local plant employees for the installation of the new equipment.

Nearly a half a million feet of wire, more than 625,000 electrical connectors and carloads of sophisticated electronic equipment went into the expanded building for the direct distance dialing service and other improvements.

When the change to the new operation in a plant that now handles some 800,000 telephone calls a day — about 7,000 of them

INSTANT RECORD . . . When Direct Distance Dialing (DDD) is made available to Winona area subscribers in December each time a directly dialed long distance call is made the calling number, the station called and the length of the call will be recorded automatically on tape punched on these machines in the Winona office. The tapes, inspected here during an equipment test by Dan McDonell, manager of the Winona office, will be sent to Northwestern Bell's Minneapolis accounting office for customer billing.

CABLE VAULT . . . All telephone calls through the Winona service center are carried on lines in this cable vault in an area below ground level in the new addition. About 20,000 pairs of wire are in the cables — some 14,000 pairs are now being used — housed in the vault which will accommodate future expansion. Harold Schuppenhauer, an equipment man in the Winona office, checks one of the new cables.

Expanded Winona Facility Becomes Home Office

IDENTIFICATION . . . Kenneth Prigge of the Winona equipment staff adjusts a unit in the direct distance dialing installation which identifies the calling number each time a long distance call is placed by direct dialing. The automatic perforator machines in an adjacent room are activated then to record data for billing purposes.

long distance — is made sometime on the morning of Dec. 7 it will be the largest "flash cutover" — or instant change to a new operational facility — ever undertaken by Northwestern Bell in Minnesota.

The immediate effect of the switchover that day will be to provide Winona, Goodview, Witoka and subscribers in nearby rural areas with direct distance dialing.

As new equipment is received and installed in other offices the service through the Winona central office will be extended to about 50 more Southeastern Minnesota communities in the next six months or so.

In all, the extension of service will find the Winona office capable of handling something like 2½ times the number of long distance telephone calls as it does today.

To acquaint Winona area customers with the new system that will be inaugurated in December, McDonell and his staff will be mounting an extensive informational campaign during the next two months.

During the week of Oct. 6 letters, together with new 1970 directory information pages explaining some of the mechanics of the new dialing system, will be mailed to all subscribers.

Beginning Oct. 13 each telephone user will be called by a girl in the central office, a call that will serve to check out operation of new equipment and afford the subscriber to ask questions about the new service to be initiated.

Then, early in December new telephone directories listing the new seven-digit numbers will be mailed to all in the service area.

McDonell explains that when the new system goes into operation the user need, in most cases, have only the area code and number of the distant station to be called to place a call within seconds to almost any station in the United States.

ANOTHER FIRST . . . This jet engine type gas turbine generator used for auxiliary power for emergency use is the only one of its kind in the Northwestern Bell system in Minnesota. Jerry Stevens, an equipment man in the Winona office, stands beside the generator which has a 250-kilovolt ampere capacity and is completely self-sustaining in the event of a power outage. Under normal operating conditions conventional alternating current power is rectified to direct current to charge batteries which are used to power telephone equipment. In the event of a power failure the auxiliary generator would be cut in to supply the current. Equipment man Jerry Stevens checks the turbine housed in an upper level of the building to protect it from possible flooding conditions in times of high water.

For Southeast Minnesota Direct Dial Service

To call a person in Minneapolis, for example, the Winona area resident first dials 1 for connection to the DDD network, then 612, the area code for Minneapolis, and the number of the person with whom he wishes to speak, perhaps 453 8925, and immediately the number called rings.

As soon as he has dialed 1, a complex system of electrical components activates an automatic electronic billing machine and a perforated tape notes the calling number and electronically records the station called and the duration of the conversation.

This perforated tape is sent to the Minneapolis Northwestern Bell accounting office where it is fed into a computer and customers are billed for long distance service charges.

Beginning Dec. 7, McDonell observes, Winonans will notice a few other new things about telephone operation.

Today, for example, if one calls another person and inadvertently neglects to replace the receiver properly after the conversation is completed, the telephone of the person called is dead until the receiver is replaced.

With the new equipment, in a situation such as this service is restored automatically 30 seconds after the caller has replaced his receiver.

If, today, a receiver is left off the hook or not properly placed in the cradle the dial tone buzz is virtually inaudible and an extended period of time could elapse, during which callers would get a busy signal, before it was noticed the receiver was not properly in place.

If this happens after the new service is inaugurated in December, 30 seconds after the receiver has been taken off the cradle a loud and distinct beep tone will call attention to the fact that the receiver is off the hook.

Interruptions in the dialing process are not accommodated by the new equipment, either. There's an eight-second allowable lapse between each number dialed; a delay of more than eight seconds ends the dialing cycle automatically, a dial tone is heard and the number must be dialed again.

In other words, if a user dials the first three digits, then finds he must refer to the directory for the next and more than eight seconds elapse while he looks for the number the dial tone cuts in and he must begin dialing again.

New operational procedures will eliminate many — and, eventually, almost all of the service interruptions of the past since underground cable installation is being made, rather than the former aerial lines, in all new extensions of service, eliminating damage to lines caused by windstorm, sleet, other natural causes and accidents.

NEW LOOK . . . Touch-Tone instruments will be available at an additional charge to Winona area subscribers in December. Peggy Lane, a Winona service representative, operates one Touch-Tone model on which 10 push-buttons are tapped. "Dialing" time with Touch-Tone is reduced in most cases to between two and five seconds.

SPOTTING TROUBLE . . . Roger Volkman is seated at the local test board from which the source of any operational difficulty may be traced. Personnel at the test board can determine whether trouble originates in the central office, in transmission or at an instrument of the subscriber. When it's found that the difficulty is outside the central office a member of the repair staff is dispatched by radio.

Winona Office Capability More Than Doubled

POWER SOURCE . . . Edward H. Stahl, left, Winona central office foreman, and Donald Kauffman, equipment man, check batteries in the power room which supply power for telephone communications. Rectified alternating current from conventional power source is used to charge the batteries. An emergency power supply is available on a standby basis.

SWITCHBOARD . . . Miss Eleanor Przytarski, standing, chief operator at the Winona office, supervises the 55 operators who work on various shifts. With the switch to direct distance dialing the operators will, for the most part, handle coin, credit card and person-to-person long distance calls and special problems and, relieved of duty on most routine distance calls, will be in a position to afford even faster and better service than in the past.

TOLL CHECK . . . Robert Pavek, a Winona equipment man, is at the new toll test board which provides for testing of all long distance circuits to maintain high quality toll service.

WINONA SUNDAY NEWS

Sunday, September 28, 1969 WINONA SUNDAY NEWS 7

NO GENERATION GAP . . . Bill Cosby grew famous with monologues on kids and his days on the streets in Philadelphia. Now he's working with swarms of youngsters in his new half-hour Sunday night comedy as high school coach Chet Kincaid.

Won't Trade TV for Teaching

A Happy Venture For Bill Cosby

By CHARLES WITBECK

When Bill Cosby was running around the world with Bob Culp in "I Spy," he used to talk about quitting in a few years, going back to Philadelphia to become a high school Phys-Ed coach in a depressed area, a job with kids that meant something.

Cosby hasn't been able to get out of Hollywood yet. He's a star now, buoyant with power that can only grow in time. Cutting out would be crazy.

Instead, Bill plays Chet Kincaid, a high school coach on NBC Sunday nights to a whole nation of youngsters and grownups who couldn't fit in one beaten-up Pennsylvania gym.

OFF HIS grand monologues about kids, it figures Bill would be an ideal choice to do a show about school students and realistic teachers. He has the good ear and can remember how teenagers thought. Because he can relate, Bill is quick to turn down all those cliché plots about the bad kid who deep down is really smart — "Mr. Novak" stories that are always a shade too pretentious and boring.

Secondly, Bill knows the network game. You gotta get the ratings, and you don't do that with serious spice-of-life shows. Entertainment is the tipoff, so in the beginning the school stuff remains in the background, while the camera follows coach Chet Kincaid around, cashing in on the proven Cosby charm.

"If you don't teach, and you're not familiar with the school system," says Bill, "you read a lot and that's what I'm doing."

TV Mailbag

QUESTION — I wish you would clear up something for my obstinate friend and me. I say that Bill Cosby was in a series before his current one and the "I Spy" series. I say he played a garage mechanic or something like that who had an aunt who was a domestic for a blonde lady and her society husband. I can't recall the name of the series but it was on about 15 years ago or so. Please print my letter in your column so I could show my friend I am right. — W. M., Winona, Minnesota.

ANSWER — You are confusing Bill Cosby with some other actor. Cosby wasn't in show business 15 years ago. He started out as a nightclub comic and graduated to acting in the "I Spy" series. His current TV series, titled "The Bill Cosby Show," is his second series. As for the series you described, we can't place it. Perhaps some fan with a long memory will supply the name of the series and write our mailbag.

QUESTION — Is Ann-Margret going to have her own series in January? I read something about this a long time ago but I haven't ready any publicity about the show since. Is her husband, handsome Roger Smith, producing her TV series? — M.L.D., Huntington, West Va.

ANSWER — Ann-Margret will star in an hour-long TV special during the coming season but she is not scheduled to star in a series of her own. Husband Roger Smith will not produce her TV special but he plans to star his talented wife in a film based on the Broadway musical "High Button Shoes."

LAST STAND . . . Burt Lancaster attempts to rally a small American force against advancing Germans in CASTLE KEEP, opening Wednesday at the State.

State Books 'Castle Keep'

Lancaster War Drama Star

During World War II, a handful of G.I.'s led by a stern major, played by Burt Lancaster, take a stand in a 10th century Belgian castle, whose irreplaceable art treasures stand directly in the way of the advancing Germans, in CASTLE KEEP, opening Wednesday at the State Theatre.

The owner of the castle welcomes the men, hoping they will save the art treasures, and even countenances an affair between his young countess and the major.

The drama reaches its climax when the major, astride a white horse, leads his tiny force — augmented by village prostitutes — out to take a stand against the advancing Germans.

Patty Duke, playing an insecure 18-year-old, leaves her over-solicitous parents and has a brief affair with a young married man that shows her she can be needed and loved in ME, NATALIE, playing through Tuesday at the State.

'Eye of the Cat' Stars Eleanor Parker

Cats Figure in Horror Film Plot

Eleanor Parker appears as a glamorous, rich and invalid woman who lives in a San Francisco mansion overrun by cats, to whom she plans to leave her millions, in EYE OF THE CAT, arriving Wednesday at the Winona Theatre.

A scheming girl, played by Gayle Hunnicutt, locates a long-missing nephew and induces him to return to his lonely aunt and work on her to change her will in his favor. The pair then will arrange to have her suffer a fatal accident so they can share the inheritance.

The aunt makes him the sole heir but his phobia about cats which fill him with paralyzing fear provide a horror ending for the movie.

NUMBER ONE, starring Charlton Heston as an aging quarterback of the New Orleans Saints football team, plays through Tuesday at the Winona.

Heston, gradually losing his public and his wife must decide whether to stay in the game until he's forced out or to drop out and retire now.

COMING THURS.: "PENDULUM"

MY learned friend who keeps hoping to upgrade my literary tastes brought me over "Soul On Ice" by Eldridge Cleaver (very good, by the way) and a dry but impressive book about the life and times of everyone's dream boy, H. G. Wells.

Unfortunately, all I felt like doing at the time was loll around on my vast, king-sized bed, dashingy attired in my flimsiest but heavily feathered nighties, eating eskimo pies and reading trash. I'll gladly tell you about the unusual book I finally settled down to, but first a brief homemaking tip. Maribou, or any feathers for that matter, look dreadful when dappled with chocolate and ice cream.

Anyway, the book that kept me so royally entertained was the famous "Naked Came The Stranger" by Miss Penelope Ashe. In case you didn't read about this book in the newspapers or in the national press magazines, it seems that 25 burly wits on the staff of the highly regarded Long Island newspaper, NEWSDAY, decided that if "writers" like Jacqueline Susann and Harold Robbins could whip out a sex novel and make a mint out of it, they could do it, too. Actually, the authors set out deliberately to write the worst and trashiest novel ever written. As you will see, try as they would, they did not succeed as "Naked Came The Stranger" is considerably better than much of the trash coming out these days.

Each of the 25 authors wrote one chapter, bearing in mind the stern admonition that any "excellence in writing" would be hurriedly "blue-pencilled into oblivion" and removed at once from the finished manuscript. (Several chapters were actually returned to the authors to be re-written as the original drafts were too well written.) So the 25 hurled themselves at their respective typewriters and came up with a sex novel to end all others of its ilk. The authors then settled down for a discussion and decided that books with the word "stranger" in the title sold better than books without it. (They were right.)

The book is about Gillian Blake, the female part of the Billy and Gilly husband and wife show that features coffee cup clatter and chatter on a New York City radio station. Well, Billy strays with an attractive young production assistant on the show and, to pay him back, Gilly decides to seduce as many of her neighbors in the New York suburb of King's Neck as she can during Billy's frequent and protracted absences. She succeeds admirably.

Each chapter concerns itself with a different neighbor. There's the hippie, the rabbi, the do-it-yourself home owner, the abortionist, the ex-prize fighter, and the Mafia big wheel, to mention only a few. The joke wears a little thin as the book progresses, but it really is funny and it's fun to think of those 25 men purposely trying to turn out all that garbage with such determination.

To top off the jest the back cover of the book has a large photo of the imaginary Penelope posing with her very photogenic Afghan hound in which she looks so lecherous that she makes Jacqueline Susann look like the dowager Queen Marie of Romania. All in all it's well worth the two or three hilarious hours you'll spend on it.

I should add that, hoax or no hoax, the book has already sold over 60,000 copies and has been reviewed by just about everybody including the New York Times which gave it a C-plus for a book of its genre. An Ashville, North Carolina reviewer found it most interesting and a penetrating new look at man-woman relationships.

Meantime, the 25 jokesters are gleefully splitting up all the money they got for permission to reprint it as a paperback, and are currently dealing with 20 or 30 film companies for movie rights. So far they've held out waiting for a nibble from a producer and director who, from the very first frame, will do all in their power to turn out a really purposely lousy movie.

I can't recommend this book for your permanent library, but there are a lot of laughs in it—if you just want an escape hatch now that the home screen is again cluttered with all those pro football games.

Oh, yes. The authors promise us a sequel titled "Stranger Than Naked". I can hardly wait.

NEXT WEEK: Malicious gossip from below the stairs of the White House.

Museum Leaders Select Exhibits

Collectors' Favorites Seen

The Museum of American Folk Art in New York City, a small institution with a flair for the unusual, has opened its sixth season with a piquant exhibition called "Collector's Choice."

The show, which will be on display to Nov. 9, was assembled by asking the museum's members, trustees and advisory board to select their favorite objects from various folk art collections on the eastern seaboard.

American folk painting is represented by many portraits and a smaller number of landscapes and still lifes.

ONE OF the most important portraits is a full-length, life-size portrait of Susan Prince of Newburyport, Mass., created by John Brewster Jr. It is from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob M. Kaplan of New York.

One section of the show, arranged by the museum's director, Mary Black, displays a number of watercolor portraits produced by S. A. and R. W. Shute in Massachusetts and New Hampshire in the 1820s and 1830s.

Two signed Shute portraits are on loan from the Fruitlands Museum and Old Sturbridge Village. A painting of Sarah Hobbs of Effingham, Vt., was lent by the art expert and author, James Flexner. The Abby Aldrich Rockefeller Folk Art Collection in Williamsburg, Va., sent a miniature of a lady in blue and a large watercolor portrait of a young man, both attributed to the Shutes.

AMONG THE other portraits are several lent by Mrs. Jerome Rubin, New York art historian, showing her ancestors of the Thorne family in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., painted by Ammi Phillips. Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Starr of New York and Chesham, N.H., sent to the show a family portrait, "The Children of Natham Starr," by an early Connecticut painter, Ambrose Andrews.

But the portraits are only part of the show.

Another member of the museum's advisory board, John Bauer, who happens to be director of the Whitney Museum of American Art, selected as his favorite "Meditation by the Sea," lent by arrangement with Perry Rathbone, director of Boston's Museum of Fine Arts. Two paintings in a similar style came from Herbert W. Hemphill Jr.

Seven watercolor scenes by the early 19th century folk artist Eunice Griswold Pinney have been lent by Col. and Mrs. Edgar William Garbisch, well-known collectors of folk art.

Another scenic painting, R. A. Savage's "Allegory of the Adirondack Region," was sent by Dick Button, former Olympic figure skating champion.

On public view for the first time is a group of landscapes and still lifes from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Stern of New York and Stamford, Conn., including early views of Harper's Ferry, and Bellows Falls, Vt., Marine paintings by James Bard and Antonio Jacobson have been lent by several collectors.

PAINTINGS dominate the show, but there are many other objects, ranging from a carved cigar store figure to a selection of scrimshaw—hand carved from pieces of whale bone and ivory by sailors on the early whaling ships.

There are several pieces of painted furniture, lent by Cyril Nelson, an editor in a publishing house who is working on a book about this subject.

Several gravestone rubbings from the meeting house in Rockingham, Vt., were lent by two specialists in this field, Ann Parker and Avon Neal of Brookfield, Mass. There also are a few items from the Museum of the American Indian in New York.

Though most of the objects in the show date from the early 19th century there are a few items from the early 20th century, including some toy whirligigs from two collections, those of Joseph B. Martinson, the museum's president, and one of its trustees, Stewart Gregory of Wilton, Conn.

CONTEST RULES

1. Solve the PRIZEWORDS puzzle by filling in the missing letters to make the words that you think best fit the clues. To do this read each clue carefully, for you must think them out and give each word its true meaning.
2. You may submit as many entries as you wish on the official blank printed in this paper but no more than one exact-sized, hand-drawn facsimile of the diagram. NO MECHANICALLY PRODUCED (printed, mimeographed, etc.) copies of the diagram will be accepted.
3. Anyone is eligible to enter PRIZEWORDS except employees (and members of their families) of the Sunday News.
4. To submit an entry, the contestant must send the completed puzzle in an envelope and mail it. The envelope must be postmarked before MIDNIGHT TUESDAY following publication of the puzzle.
5. Entries with insufficient postage will be disqualified.
6. All entries MUST be mailed and bear a postmark. This newspaper is not responsible for entries lost or delayed in the mail. Entries not received for judging by 4 p.m. Wednesday following the date of publication of the puzzle are not eligible.
7. The Sunday News will award $50 to the contestant who sends in an all-correct solution. If more than one all-

- correct solution is received the prize money will be shared equally. If no all-correct solution is received $10 will be added to the following week's PRIZEWORDS AWARD.
7. There is only one correct solution to each PRIZEWORDS puzzle and only the correct answer can win. The decision of the judges is final and all contestants agree to abide by the judges' decision. All entries become the property of the Sunday News. Only one prize will be awarded to a family unit.
8. Everyone has the same opportunity to win, for EVERY ENTRY WILL BE CHECKED and the winners announced. No claiming of a prize is necessary.
9. Entries must be mailed to:
PRIZEWORDS,
Winona Sunday News,
Box 70,
Winona, Minnesota 55987
10. The correct solution to this week's PRIZEWORDS will be published NEXT SUNDAY.
11. The Sunday News reserves the right to correct any typographical errors which may appear during the puzzle game.
12. PRIZEWORDS clues may be abbreviated and such words as AN, THE and A omitted.
13. No entry which has a letter that has been erased or written over will be considered for judging.

This Sunday's Prizewords story is different from last week's in only one respect: A bigger prize is being held out to lure a winner.

Otherwise, the report is the same — a heavy volume of puzzle mail, a fruitless search by the Prizewords judges to find a perfect entry and no successful claimant of the $180 reward offered last week to a winner.

THAT $180 remains in the jackpot, therefore, and to it is added the $10 that goes in each week there isn't a winner.

If one person hits on the correct solution to this week's puzzle he'll receive the entire $190.

If there are two or more winners they'll share equally in the prize offering.

To be eligible for a prize an entry must be mailed in an envelope bearing 6 cents postage and a postmark not later than midnight Tuesday.

WEEKEND BIRTHDAYS

The leading spirit behind the famed Boston Tea Party, Samuel Adams holds down a high spot on the ranks of America's outstanding patriots.

He was born in Boston Sept. 27, 1722, a second cousin to the elder John Adams. He graduated from Harvard in 1740 and began the study of law.

He first came into prominence at the beginning of the Stamp Act episode when he urged opposition to taxation by act of the British Parliament.

Many of the Massachusetts revolutionary documents are from his pen. He was one of the first political leaders to advocate separation from England. He was one of the most voluminous and influential political writers of his time.

Although he lacked oratorical fluency, his short speeches were forceful and he was a successful manager of men; shrewd, adroit and adept. His contemporaries credited him with the management of the delegates to the First Continental Congress.

As a delegate to the Continental Congress, he vigorously op-

DOWN

1. WINE not mine. "From year to year" suits WINE (an annual product) particularly well. Production of a mine may fluctuate at any time, or possibly peter out entirely. Pine is less apt.
2. FERN not tern. The question of a particularly beautiful one applies more reasonably to FERN, since, in the park, for instance, one may well see different FERNS, whereas the terns one sees together are apt to be of the same species.
6. FIRING not tiring. Rapid FIRING is naturally apt to be less accurate. The word "rapidly" spoils the clue for tiring, since the speed with which the soldiers are tiring is not relevant; it's simply a question of their being tired.
11. MAKE not take. MAKE is fully apt, but the clue calls for "steal" rather than "take."
19. TEAK not peak. While TEAK is fully satisfactory, the clue would be better served by "mountain," say, rather than "peak."
20. DEAL not meal. He may, in any case, expect a good DEAL; but there is no need to assume that he will require payment in the form of a meal.

ACROSS

3. VAST not past. VAST adds suitable emphasis to the clue, whereas past contributes nothing at all.
7. WINKED not winced. The clue favors something done deliberately (i.e., for "a reason"). WINKED is better, since wincing is simply an automatic reaction to pain, etc.
8. LITTER not titter. A titter is a suppressed laugh. You don't so much try to avoid a titter, as try to prevent yourself from laughing outright. LITTER is the sort of thing one might seek to avoid, of course.
9. DECENT not recent. A car is considered to be "worth buying" on the basis of its condition (DECENT). Regarding recent, you don't buy a car simply because of its date.
12. MEAN not lean. Certain men are MEAN beyond what can be considered as natural. The emphatic phrase "quite unnaturally" is less suited to lean, which is a moderate, complimentary sort of word. Men are "emaciated," say, rather than "quite unnaturally lean."
15. HEAT not head. There is a natural enough train of thought between HEAT, as hot weather, and the idea of a nice glass of beer. The head on a glass of beer is a part thereof.
17. NEED not heed. Although the word "slick" can have derogatory overtones, the phrase: "A slick worker" is complimentary. Hence, NEED is more apt than heed.
18. PUT not cut. "A precise sort of person" suggests one over-exact in speech and thought (favoring PUT), rather than one who cuts things tidily.
22. DEFECTS not defeats. Definite DEFECTS call for a fresh approach to the game. Defeats will prompt him to practice more, rather than to overhaul his game.
23. MOCKED not socked. MOCKED is the more reasonable answer, since a man who has been socked hard may be incapable of hitting back.
24. PLANK not plane. A carpenter may select a certain PLANK as being suitable for the job. There is little real element of selection where a plane is concerned; the carpenter will simply pick up the right one automatically.

posed any concessions to the British government. He served on a committee for confederation and signed the Declaration of Independence.

In 1779 he was a member of the convention which framed the constitution of Massachusetts.

After a period as lieutenant-governor, he became the governor of the state in 1794.

New 'Seen-Stealers'!

By REBA and BONNIE CHURCHILL

"SOMETHING worth looking into!" That's the rating the pace-setting crowd has given the new fashion accessory glasses. These young style-makers offer an approving wink to the matching frame and lens tints. They've discovered the plastic spectacles do wonders for a complexion—a soft pink enlivens sallow skin, lavender cools a ruddy face, while beige balances and blends. Whether perched on the nose, or slipped through a lapel, the smart shapes are "in" and "on," as actress Deanna Lund illustrates.

THE frames also can be put to good beauty use. They include geometric ovals, rounds, squares, even large wrap-around shields. Select the shape that flatters you best. Experts point out round frames open the eyes, square styles provide width to the face, while ovals add length. Deanna, seen in the 20th-TV series "Land of the Giants," reminds frames can be color coordinated to complement complexion, hair or wardrobe. For instance, she teams beige glasses, gold shirt and rust pullover for a fashion flash.

ACCESSORY glasses have prompted a trend in eye make-up too. Overdone is outdated when looking through the tinted lenses, which provide their own color shield. Muted tones and matte finish give the right amount of definition. Blend is the key to application. Deepest color is brushed directly behind lashes and gently shaded to brow socket. A dry, sable brush is used to smooth and lighten the shadow as it reaches brow bone. Let the shading flow from deep to delicate. And, if necessary, dust a pouf of translucent powder over the eyelid to assure the fragile "behind the lens" look.

DEAR ABBY:

Must Learn to Hold That Tiger

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: For 18 years I have been married to a handsome, charming professional man. He is also an incurable philanderer. When we walk into a room filled with strangers, I can pick his victim within 10 minutes.

No one would suspect that he would follow up a cocktail party flirtation, but he does. I have covered up for him many times, and have stayed with him for the sake of the children, hoping each affair would be his last. Everyone thinks we are an ideal couple. They should only know!

Abby

Abby, does a leopard ever change his spots?
LEOPARD'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: You have your animals confused. Yours is a wolf. Covering up for a philandering husband is no way to cure him. The wife who raises the roof early in her marriage may not change her leopard's spots, but she can train him before he gets too wild.

DEAR ABBY: My darling wife of over 40 years (I'll call her Bertha) has to have a cigaret in her hand every minute or she's not happy. That's not all, she is too vain to wear glasses all the time, so she is always missing the ash tray, so we have cigaret burns in most of our tables and a couple of her favorite chairs. I have brought home ash trays as big as a fry pan, but she misses those, too.

When we are guests in the homes of friends, the hostess doesn't take her eyes off Bertha for fear she'll burn up something.

Won't you please say something in your column to let my missus know I love her but I wish she'd quit smoking?

LARRY

DEAR LARRY: You've said it all, Larry. Just see that your missus doesn't miss this column.

DEAR ABBY: When someone has lost a member of his family by suicide, what should friends do?

It doesn't seem right to just ignore the situation, yet you can't write and say, "I am sorry to hear that your brother shot himself." (Or should I say, "Shot himself—ACCIDENTALLY?" Would that be better?)

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Offer your condolences, but do not mention the circumstances.

DEAR ABBY: I have never heard of a big belly getting in the way of true love. In the 15 years Joey and I have been married, Joey gained 55 pounds, and I gained 40. But if he can stand MY big belly, I can stand HIS. We both want to thank you for a wonderful column.

FAT BUT HAPPY

DEAR FAT: And I want to thank you for a wonderful belly laugh.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069, and enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.
